Don't Stop Tobacco.

How to Cure Yourself While Using It.

The tobacco habit grows on a man until his nervous system is seriously affected, impairing health, comfort and happiness. To quit suddenly is too severe a shock to the system, as tobacco, to an inveterate user, is as much a stimulant that his system continually craves. Baco Cure is a scientific cure for the tobacco habit, it is all in form, carefully compounded after the formula of an eminent British Physician who has used it in his private practice since 1872, without a failure, purely vegetable and guaranteed perfectly harmless. You can use all the tobacco you want, while taking Baco-Cure; it will notify you when to stop. We give a written guarantee to permanently cure any case with three boxes, or refund the money with 10 per cent interest. Baco-Cure is not a substitute, but a scientific cure, that cures without the aid of will power and with no inconvenience. It leaves the system as pure and free from nicotine as the day you took your first chew or smoke. Sold by all druggists, with your ironclad guarantee, at $1.00 per box, three boxes (thirty days treatment) $2.50, or sent direct upon receipt of price. The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Callonette, Druggist, Beavers ville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at Whitehead & Mitchell's or F. Hagerman's drug store.

ONE OF THE MEANEST MEN.

Is Was Found Out and Punished, but Not Half Enough.

New York Herald: This story illustrates a degree of contemptible meanness fortunately seldom seen. It was just before the rule was made that visiting newsboys from entering street cars to sell papers. A Broadway cable car, sixth bound, was comfortably filled with passengers, and among them was a raggedly well-dressed man about 6 years old, who kept his face buried in a newspaper, which he held with both hands close to his spectacled eyes. Just above Fourteenth street a newsboy came in and walked up and down the whole length of the car. As he passed the man he stumbled and fell violently, striking his forehead on the floor. He got up, cried, and turned round with a boyish oath, just as the conductor came in and led him out of the car. Several ladies made pitying exclamations, for it was evident that the boy was badly hurt. At Fifteenth street another newsboy entered, and as he left the car he stumbled in precisely the same way at precisely the same place. He, too, picked himself up sobbing. He turned to the man, but found the old man immersed in his paper, apparently not having noticed the accident. A block further another newsboy swung into the car and met an exactly similar fate. No sooner had the third unfortunate left than a tall young man with a red beard, who sat near, turned squarely upon the man, pointed his finger aggressively at him, and exclaimed, in a loud, peremptory voice that instantly attracted the attention of every one in the car: "You brute! You beast! You wretched shame that such a contemptible creature as you should masquerade in human shape. I wish I were the conductor of this car for just one minute that I might pick you up and bodily throw you out of the window." The man did not move. He merely buried his face deeper in the paper. "You thought no one saw you, you hog, but I saw you. The first time I could not believe my eyes, and even the second time you stuck your foot out and tripped up a poor, defenseless little newsboy and hurt him. I waited, hoping it was an accident. But there is no doubt about this third time. I saw you watch your poor little victim out of the corner of your eye until just the right moment came, and then slyly stick but your foot and upset him. Oh, you can't deny it. Deny it if you dare. There was a pause, while every passenger watched attentively. But he only seemed to read the more intently. The passengers were convinced now, and began to applaud. A lady sitting next next to the man moved across the aisle, as though she feared contamination. One or two ladies clapped their gloved hands. The old man stood it as far as Eighteenth street, and then slowly got up and left the car, followed by contemptuous exclamations. He stood on the corner and boarded the next following car.

ODD FISHERS OF SALMON.

Bears, Wolves, Wildcats, Coons, Eagles, Wild Ducks and Hogs.

In a distance of less than one mile, on a single stream of the many that tumble into Puget Sound," said a former New Yorker, now a lumber operator on Puget Sound, to a New York Sun reporter, "I have seen a family of wildcats, half a dozen bears, a flock of eagles, hundreds of wild ducks, and any number of razor-backed hogs, all busily engaged in fishing for salmon. They wouldn't be salmon that you and I would eat, for they'd be weak and crawfishy under the water, but they'd be salmon just the same—dog salmon chiefly. I owned a hog once that was an expert at catching dog salmon, and I've seen him more than once snatch half a dozen from the water in less than twenty minutes. He had such great success at his fishing that at last he got ambitious. He forgot that he was only a razor-back hog, and that the salmon he was catching were simply dog salmon, out of health and jaundiced, so to speak, and so addicted to try his hand, or rather his snout, on the lordly typee or chinook salmon. I didn't know this until one day in the chinook running season I saw him making his way in a leisurely but confident sort of a way toward the stream that emptied into Puget Sound just back of my mill. I thought it rather queer, for there wasn't anything in the line of forage for him in that direction. I was busy, though, and paid no attention to the matter. A minute or two later I heard the hog give a long squeal of distress, and looking in that direction I saw him struggling to get away from something in the water. I ran over, and got there just in time to see the razor-back jerked head first into the water and disappear beneath the surface like a stone. A dead type, probably a twenty-pounder, lay half on the bank and half in the water. Marks on the big fish showed that the hog had captured him. Typee weren't in wild dog salmon, though, and some of the captured fish's traveling companions had rushed to his assistance. He had given his signal of distress, but it was too late, and vengeance took its place. The avenging typee had seized the hog, and, in spite of his resistence, had dragged him in and drowned him. He came floating down half an hour or so later, and was a little the worst looking hog I ever saw in my life. If he had been butchered, scalded, scraped and half dressed he couldn't have looked more torn up. He was the only razor back I ever knew that had the nerve to fish for typees.

An Invention for an Idle Hour.

It is well to cultivate patience, says the London Graphic. This seems a trite axiom; applied to cards, however, it has a new signification. Marie Antoinette was fond of games of patience, and ex-Empress Eugenie played patience every morning, and those of us who know and practice some of the 130 various games which are mentioned in the treatise on patience will find solace and amusement in an engrossing, if unsociable, pastime. Those twilight moments when reading is impossible, or the brain is weary, those dull half hours of the evening when conversation is exhausted, or the mistress of the house is alone by the fireside, are infused with a new zest and a fresh delight by the exercise of patience. The possibilities are endless, the innumerable combinations require thought, and the minutes slip away unconsciously as one hangs eagerly over the chances of the palm-leaf patience or the Reunite de Marie Antoinette. Besides which it has one especial virtue—it does not require, like bisique, chess, or even Halma, more than one player; it has variety, interest, novelty, and makes no exorbitant demand on the intellect. Altogether an excellent invention, as one has found, at the bedside of an invalid who is too listless to work, too weary to read, and too weak to write.

DON'T STOP TOBACCO

IT'S INJURIOUS TO STOP SUDDENLY and don't be imposed upon by buying a remedy that requires you to do so, as it is nothing more than a substitute. In the sudden stoppage of tobacco you must have some stimulant, and in most all cases, the effect of the stimulant, be it opium, morphine, or other opiates, leaves a far worse habit contracted. Ask your druggist about BACO CURO. It is purely vegetable. You do not have to stop using tobacco with BACO CURO. It will notify you when to stop and your desire for tobacco will cease. Your system will be as free from nicotine as the day before you took your first chew or smoke. An iron-clad written guarantee to absolutely cure the tobacco habit in all its forms, or money refunded. Price $1.00 per box or 3 boxes (30 days treatment and guaranteed cure,) $2.50. For sale by all druggists or will be sent by mail upon receipt of price. Eureka Chemical and M'f'g Co., La Crosse, Wis.
Dear Sirs—I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked fifteen to twenty cigars regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, until my physician told me I must give up the use of tobacco for the time being, at least. I tried the so-called "Lady Ties," "No to Bac," and various other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Curo." Three weeks ago today I commenced using your preparation, and today I consider myself completely cured. I am in perfect health, and the horrible craving for tobacco, which every inveterate smoker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider your "Baco-Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it. Yours very truly, C. W. HORNICK.

BOW (RING)

it is easy to steal or ring watches from the pocket. The thief gets the watch in one hand, the chain in the other and gives a sudden quick jerk—the ring slips off the watch stem, and away goes the watch, leaving the victim only the chain.

This idea stopped that little game:

The bow has a groove inside and a little ridge runs down inside the pendants (stem) and fits into the groove, firmly locking the bow to the pendant, so that it cannot be pulled or twisted off.

THE FISHERMAN'S OUTFIT.

A Complete Angling Outfit for only 50 Cents! There are two remarkable things about this Catalog Fishing Tackle. Never before attempted before: the quality throughout is of the best. No fisherman can fail to pick up this offer, because now one can be got inch as cheap for double or more money.

Read the descriptions carefully.

No. 1. One Fine Polished Brass Reel. This is a perfect, well made reel, that will be admirably, and when attached to the pole will wind any line in first-class style. This reel alone is worth the price we ask for the entire outfit.

No. 2. One Linen Trout Line, strictly first-class, made in the most perfect manner, and the strongest trout line made, guaranteed to safely land the heaviest trout or fish of equal size.

No. 3. One Linen Bass or Salmon Line, of the same high standard, but larger, adapted for big fish like salmon, or gamey fish like black bass. This line will land the biggest fish caught with bait and sinker, or trolling from boat.

No. 4. One Long Cotton Line, dark colored, nicely cross-wound on a block, and good for every-day fishing after perch, catfish, sunfish, rock bass, etc.

No. 5. One Line Furnished Complete with Hooks, Bob and Sinker. This is a whole outfit in itself, comprising a long and strong line, with medium-size hook attached and an adjustable bob and sinker. With bait at hand and this line in his pocket, the fisherman can start right in and try his luck.

No. 6. One Dozen Best Steel Ringed Fish Hooks (assorted sizes). These are the best grade of hooks, warranted strong, sharp, in points and barbs, and handy to use, anybody being able to tell the difference between the right hook. With this set of hooks the fisherman can try his luck for any size fish, from minnows to weak fish.

No. 7. Two Improved Trout Flies. These are the best patterns of fly. They will draw trout from deep pools when other flies fail. They are natural, well made in colors, strongly fastened around the hooks, and will give excellent satisfaction.

No. 8. One Improved Bass Fly. This is the best approved fly for bass, has been fished and is the equal of the best flies in combination of material and artistic position.

No. 9. One Improved Salmon Fly also accompanies the outfit. It is said to be the best perfect shape and color, sure to raise and hook the salmon.

No. 10. Two Snell Hooks and Gut. These hooks are made on long gut, and where fish cut the lines one of these snell hooks is generally used; the gut cannot be severed, and leads the fish out of danger.

Here, then, is a complete fisherman's outfit at a price so low that it is a wonder. No excuse now the poorest boy or man can afford this complete assortment, and ought to keep his family in fish the year round, or at least when they will sell. As much spot can be had with this outfit as with a dozen lines, and the quality of every thing is as represented.

Price of the complete outfit, including everything herein described, only 50 cents. Sent by mail, postpaid. Send to
