Harbor Improvements

From the annual report of Capt. D. W. Lockwood, corps of engineers, concerning the improvement of the harbors on the lakes, we make the following extracts with reference to Lake Michigan.

During the past fiscal year $31,217 has been expended on the improvement of the Michigan City harbor, Indiana, leaving $3,718 available. The work to be done consists in the completion of the new east breakwater pier and the construction of the west exterior breakwater pier. It is estimated that $450,000 will be required to complete the improvement, and that $250,000 of this amount can be profitably expended during the next fiscal year.

The sum of $6,228 has been expended on the improvement of Charlevoix harbor and entrance in Lake Michigan, leaving $8,772 available. It is now stated that $90,000 can be profitably expended during the next fiscal year in extending the south pier 300 feet and in completing work already in progress. Capt. Lockwood estimates that $115,000 will be required to complete the work.

An appropriation of $40,000 is asked for Frankfort harbor, Mich., during the coming fiscal year, and $80,000 is estimated as necessary to complete the improvement. Five thousand nine hundred and ninety-three dollars were expended during the past year, leaving $4,944 available.

For the improvement of Portage Lake harbor, Mich., $9,074 were expended during the year and $9,008 remain available. The improvement contemplates a channel through Portage lake 300 feet wide with a depth of 18 feet. It is estimated $176,500 will be required to complete this work and that $150,000 can be expended during the next fiscal year.

There remained $628 to the credit of Manistee harbor, Mich., during the last fiscal year, leaving $111. The work of the improvement at this harbor consists in extending piers and having a channel through the bar connecting the harbor with Lake Michigan. An appropriation of $50,000 is asked for, and $192,700 is estimated as the sum that can be profitably expended during the next year.

On the improvement of Ludington harbor, Mich., $13,438 were expended during the year, leaving $4,345 available. It is estimated $55,000 will complete the work, and $30,000 can be profitably expended during the next fiscal year. The expenditure, during the year ending with June last, of $8,000 at Muskegon, Mich., remains available. The improvement contemplates a dredged channel 300 feet wide. The report says $94,225 will complete the improvement, and an appropriation of $25,000 is requested. At Muskegon harbor, the last year's expenditure was $7,268, and $17,559 remained available. The improvement of the channel has for its object an increase of width from 150 to 300 feet, and a depth of 18 feet, which $100,000 can be profitably expended during the next year.

The sum of $47,200 remains available after this year's expenditure of $49,568 on the harbor at Grand Haven, Mich. The early completion of this harbor depends upon the extension of the present piers so that vessels can enter during any weather. It is estimated that a cost $210,000, of which sum $150,000 could be profitably expended during the next year.

Eleven thousand nine hundred and forty-five dollars were expended at Black lake harbor, Mich., during the past fiscal year. An appropriation of $20,000 is asked for, which it is expected will complete the improvement. The amount available for the harbor of South Haven, Mich., after an expenditure during the past fiscal year of $1,022 is $8,711. To complete the improvement the piers should be extended and the channel dredged. It will require $82,500, of which $40,000 can be used for the next fiscal year.

On St. Joseph harbor, Mich., only $858 was expended, leaving an available balance of $30,015. The engineer says $100,015 will be required to complete the work and recommends an appropriation

A Slight Decrease.

The shipment of forest products from the Saginaw river during the month ending July 31 shows a slight falling off from last year. This was occasioned by the unsettled state of business brought about through the strike, which has occupied the time of the greater portion of the month. The shipments taken from the lakes at Bay City and East Saginaw, are as follows.

New Department at the Agricultural School

The Legislature of winter made appropriations for the erection of a mechanical laboratory and work-shop for the newly established Department of Mechanics at the State Agricultural College. The contract for the building was let to Mr. Gibbs, of Lansing, and well up, and it is expected the building will be completed and ready for use by next winter. There will be two shop-rooms, one for wood and the other for metals, a mechanical laboratory, a lecture room for about 40 students, about forty feet square, a room for drawing and designing and two other rooms, which are to be thoroughly furnished with tools and machinery. Temporary shops are now being used, and until this building is completed and furnished for use. A course of study two years in extent, called the apprentice's course, has been provided for and will be offered to the students at the opening of the next college year, September 2 prox.

It is intended to make this course especially strong in natural philosophy, mechanics, history, book-keeping and business forms and laws. In the first year, with the exception of chemistry, and careful attention will be paid to English composition and to the drawing hours per week. Add two years, will be devoted to a graded series of exercises in shop-practice under the direction of skilled workmen.

Tuition is free. The necessary expenses of a student are estimated at $225 for board and clothing, will not exceed $125 to $150. Boys 16 years of age with a good common school education can enter. The graduates of these courses from the public schools are received without examination. By addressing any of the officers or professors at the agricultural college all necessary information can be obtained.

Ground to Death.

Sydney C. Root, a freight conductor on the Michigan Central road, met his death near the Michigan Central depot, Jackson, Friday night. He had returned from Jackson, and left his train, settled his business at the office and jumped on a yard train destined for the ferry slip by which he crossed the junction and on which he intended to ride to Kalamazoo Street, Detroit, where he resided. He jumped on after the train had got under motion and was making his way to the rear in order to jump off when the train reached Eighteenth street. The train had gone but a short distance when Root, Che, ess, the rear brakeman, saw a lantern fall. As soon as possible he ran back the train and with others went back to invest gate. First the lantern, then a hat, and a few feet further on a mangled body was found. Portions of the body were found strewn along the track for a distance of 150 rods. Conductor Keefe, a jury and Undertaker Noble were taken out to view the remains. The remains had been gathered up and taken into the station. They were found in a terribly mutilated condition. The head had been entirely severed from the body and ground to a pulp, leaving the brains and blood in the sockets and one was cut into three pieces. The right foot was cut off at the ankle. The clothes were literally torn to shreds and a large wound was entirely drawn out of the body.

The unfortunate man was about forty years of age. He was of large and powerful physique weighed 230 pounds. He was a conductor of the company for several years and was a general favorite.

After Five Years

Joseph Harris a prominent dealer in lumber on West Madison street Chicago has been arrested on a warrant obtained by a Detroit detective charging him with the crime five years ago, of $5,300 from the banking house of Fisher, Preston & Co. of Detroit. Mr. Harris, who was arrested in Syracuse, N. Y., for the crime, is now in jail in Detroit. The Detroit authorities information concerning the matter and Harris' arrest followed. The latter has been in Chicago for some time, leading a respectable citizen, and his apprehension is a source of great surprise.

We append a brief account of the robbery. The robbery of Fisher, Preston & Co. occurred on Nov. 6th W. ednesday morning in July, 22, 1880. The first account was that shortly after 9 o'clock a well dressed young clerk of the bank, happen d to be alone in the office when a well dressed man came in and asked to see and see a gentlman a carriage who wanted to buy some bonds. While clifford was showing the bonds to the gentleman, the robber, probably also, slipped behind the counter and stole $5,120 in gold. Mr. Clifford discovered the loss when he done he fainted away, and on recovering, in the first moments of hysteria and mortifica, it will complete the work, and he was subsequently indicted as a dupe.

After a year's search, the officers it was decided that the not guilty. Ed. Rice had a hand in the robbery, and that he was managed to keep out of the way until the excitement was o Syracuse, N. Y.

Militia in Mourning.

The following order has been issued to the various militar, companies of the state:

MILITARY DEPARTMENT, MICHIGAN, ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, LANSING, July 24, 1885.

General order No. 15.

With profound sorrow the commander-in-chief makes official announcement to the Michigan militia of the death of Hon. Ulysses S. Grant, who died at Mt. Mcregor, N. Y., July 23d, 1885.

As a mark of respect to the illustrious dead the officers of the Michigan state troops are directed to wear the usual badge of mourning upon their arms and sword hilt whenever on duty, for the period of 30 days from and after the receipt of this order, and to limit and drape all colors during that period.

The quart master general will cause a gun to be fired every half hour from sunrise to sunset on the 4th proximo, that being the date fixed for the funeral ceremonies.

By order of the commander-in-chief.

W. G. HUMPHREY,
Captain and aide-de-camp, lieutenant-general.

Michigan Crops.

Gentlemen connect with the grain firms of Detroit who have traveled extensively in the state during the summer report that the weather in August was very fine, and that all will do the corn, oats and pastures the usual big good. Potatoes are a little behind, the board of trade while discussing the matter were informed by a gentleman that he would damage the whole crop, but the man stated well posted say that from 50 to 75 per cent. of the crop is free from the rot, and that if the rains follow, a good crop will be harvested. Beans are looking well, and seems little reason now to doubt the Michigan this year will have the largest sized crop ever harvested in the state.

A correspondent writing from Owosso, Mich., under date of July 31, says: "We have had over four weeks of continued drought. A heavy rain would now do the most good. Potatoes will be a little larger than usual, but the failure. The rot crop, though heavy in growth on account of the rains, will be from one to half filled. The potato crop is greatly injured, though late potatoes may be improved by the rain."

Using Violence.

The strike in the Saginaw Valley which a day or two ago manifested symptoms of an early close again, has taken a decided turn, it is claimed that the skilled help of the strikers is to be used to the full in preventing, by force, the intimidation of skilled workmen, whose places cannot be filled.

Mr. Albert Ketchum, of Bay City, started on Monday, July 28, with a full force, under the protection of a dozen men, to run the Bellevue mill. The second morning the mill did not start.

Mr. Albert Ketchum, the Bellevue gave intimidation of some of the men in the mission. He said about 1 o'clock in the morning two men drove up to the house on Leland Swan the head sawyer, and with curse smashed in the door of the house. Mr. Swan came out and when asked for an explanation of the affair, said he did that the damage done was but a slight for the door. He said he thought it did not stop running the saw at the mill. He thought the men had come back to work this morning. A number of others were also frightened, hence the mill did not start.

Still Hangs Fire.

The strike still continues and no man dare predict the termination. About 1,500 men and other skilled laborers on the lot last adopted the following:

Resolved, That in order to bring about a resumption of work and to place our work in a satisfactory shape, we agree to work on a basis subject to a reduction of seven per cent on and after the 1st day of August, and we will pay for in hours work. That in consideration of the present condition of business we do so that it is the desire of the company and one.

COMMITTEE.

(Signed)

The mill owners do not recognize any such organization as the Knights of Labor. In the matter of the wages or hours, and will not pay attention to the resolution declaring for a reduction of seven per cent on and after July 28. Considerable quantities of supplies have been shipped to the mills from the north of the state and there is no immediate prospect of adjustment of the difficulty.

Like the Dog in the Manger.

A special from Bay City to a Detroit paper says:

The strike seems to have settled down to a tedious affair, and it is now thought it will hold out as long as necessary and the Knights of Labor will keep up the fight. Men are now coming in by the carload from various parts of the state. The mill men have started in to organize the protection to protect the right without detention from outsiders are large will be a short time. The men are trying to make as much money with the mills idle as if they were running. Men who are all blacks be paralyzed. Lumber operators will simply continue to jump in to support the thousands of men who have been thrown out of work. It is enough now, but what will be the result when winter come.

Found Murdered.

Harvey Keith, a son of a reputable farmer in Bloomingdale in Van Buren county, mysteriously disappeared in the night of July 15. His father found his body floating in the lake near his house at Bloomingdale, Van Buren county. He was aged 18 years and of a boy of violence. He had been castrated and his testicles were found on a log about twenty rods from the lake. The boy had been seen the day on on terms of criminal intimacy with one or more married women. It is the belief that upon returning to his home on the night of the 15th he encountered the husband of the wife's room. His statement is supported by the fact that Keith's clothing was found there and that he was in his shirt and drawers when he appeared a shirt and pair of socks.

A New Railroad.

The first survey of the St. Clair River & Detroit railroad has been completed. The survey was made by Superintendent Ross, assistant Engineer Tory, of the Michigan Central. The surveyor was H. P. Bean of Jackson. The The starts at the Grand Trunk depot in the river to Marine City, thence to Fair Haven, Anchorville, New Baltimore, Chesterfield, Romeo and Center Line where it intersects the Detroit & Bay City branch of the Michigan Central. This is only a preliminary survey to get a map of the surrounding country. The level and the actual work of construction will be taken by Mr. Casey of Detroit. The country is thickly settled and easiest to grade and bridge of any in the state.

Bergeron's Murderers

The two men who had the altercation with Dolphice Bergeron in resulting in the killing of the latter, have been arrested and lodged in Saginaw City. They are William Pearson, aged 28, and William Breckling, aged 28. They did not know Bergeron was dead. Pearson says they were in Bergeron's saloon pulling ninepins for drinks: that Bergeron lost, but refused to furnish the liquor, claiming that Pearson had lost; that a quarrel followed, and Bergeron threw a glass at Pearson, which struck him, and Pearson then picked up the pitcher and struck Bergeron on the head, knocking him down, followed by Bergeron, and went home.

A Brutal Murder.

Dolphice Bergeron, proprietor of the Montreal house on the road to East Saginaw, was talking with two men in his bar-room with the door open, when a throwing club, when one of the men seized an earthenware pitcher and struck Bergeron on the forehead, over the right eye. Both men then ran out, and were followed by Bergeron, who fell dead on the walk a few feet in front of his house. The men ran up the street and escaped. It was found that the pitcher broke the blood vessels of the brain. Bergeron was about 35 years old, and a peaceably disposed man. He leaves a widow and three small children.

Incinerated Horses.

A barn belonging to S. Behmlander of West Bay City burned with six horses which he hoped to find a ready sale. The fire, it is made its headquarters at the barn. The building was a frame and the flames that a man sleeping in the barn barely escaped, and was unable to rescue the horses. The fire was undoubtedly incendiary.

Postponed

Representative Brown was arraigned in East Saginaw, on the 31st ult., charged with inciting men to violence during the strike. Further hearing was postponed until Aug. 17th.

THE FUNERAL OF GEN. GRANT.

Gen. Grant's Remains En Route to New York.

IMPOSING CEREMONIES ON THE MOUNTAIN.

England Honors Our Dead.

Thirteen sunrise guns were fired on the morning of Aug. 4 over the dead general's last day in the mountains. The weather was thick and foggy, and the mist seemed to have dampened everything with which it came in contact. At 10 o'clock the fog began to increase, and at 11 o'clock it was so thick that it was impossible to see more than a few feet in any direction. It was the general opinion that it was impossible for the funeral cortege to start in such a disturbing atmosphere.

But as the hours wore on the clouds that obscured the skies of the rising sun were soon pushed aside and the atmosphere was cleared of the fog and mist. At 1 o'clock the last funeral boom had regularly from the appointed time, 4 o'clock the funeral cortege was formed in the following order: Marshal and aides, the military band, the pall bearers, the hearse, the remains lay, the family, the mourners, and the last hour to the hour, the appointed for the fourth moment of the obsequies, a steady thousand of the people who had come to the top of the rock at the base of him, who in life had been their idol.

The funeral services at the cottage were begun at exactly 4 o'clock, at which hour fully 1,000 people had assembled, the majority of trees in the grounds in front of the house and placed in the cortege in the place of the Hillsdale Grand Army of the Republic, of the 18th plank. Dirge was followed by a prayer, by Rev. Dr. Newman, of the Methodist church, Rev. Dr. Hall, of the Presbyterian church, and the singing of the hymn "My faith looks up to thee." Rev. Dr. Newman said: At the conclusion of the singing of the hymn Dr. Newman delivered a sermon to the front of the cottage, and the following text was read, taken from the text of the following:

"Well done thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord—Matthew xxv. 23."

At the conclusion of Dr. Newman's address the hymn "Nearer My God to Thee" was sung and the benediction pronounced.

Shortly after 5 o'clock the Grant post No. 501, of Brooklyn, drew up in front of the cottage, and the remains were borne out and placed in the hearse, and an escort was formed by the post. The march to the depot was then taken up, the hearse being drawn up on either side, and the mourners and the soldiers marched in the rear. The soldiers marched, some the people uncovered and bowed with the dead.

At Saratoga the remains were received with a salute of artillery from United States troops stationed at the Saratoga springs. The hearse was made to the Albany train in the depot, the Grand Army of the Republic marched and running through. The journey from Saratoga to Albany was made without delay, and at 7 o'clock the funeral train reached Albany on schedule time. The remains were placed with the hearse, and the Grand Army of the Republic marched to the capitol, where the general was mounted on a powerful black horse splendidly caparisoned. The procession was formed in the order of the state service and in various streets along the route were lined with people who were spectators in the procession as the halt moved on. There were about 1,000 people in the line. It was a united funeral, all at work, leaving permitted to pass, but stationed on each side of the street, and the people stood. Seven times the dead bodies of the dead.

The remains were placed in the capitol concluded and dead. At 10 o'clock the funeral procession was formed. The remains were placed in the hearse. At 11 o'clock the funeral car at the state street entrance of the capitol and passed down State street. Blood Street, up Broadway, to the Grand Central depot. The funeral train left Albany at 12 noon, arriving at the Grand Central depot at 2 o'clock, according to the published schedule.

IN NEW YORK.
