
Immense damage to property in the region was done by the high stage and vicinity alone the estimate is $100,000. The railroad track is washed away for miles and three iron bridges were demolished.

It has been ascertained that certain officials who attended the Garfield obsequies and rode on free passes, have also prevented bills for railroad fares.

A bill sent under Captain Hickins and two men on Lake Superior, was captured in the hands of the occupant derided. Among the names were John Smith, foreman of the measures to Chawathew to attend the funeral of William Garfield, the military secretary the queen, Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Villis, Mr. Foster, the attorney general, postmaster general, and many other grand personae. One of the most curious features of the funeral was the ascent of 8,000 incense of the date of December of Lord Curzon. The order of precedence was the best that could be arranged. The funeral was the marriage of Kingdon, Lord Edward Curzon, Mr. Glad-

A correspondent of the Detroit Free Press mentions the undertaking of a man in Michigan to reforest 1,000 black walnut trees for commercial purposes, and says that they cannot be transplanted and retain their vigor. They should be grown from the nuts. He has made experiments by both transplanting and raising from the acorn which convinced him that the latter is much the preferable way.
