Advancing in Price.

GRAND RAPIDS, May 3.—Dry oak lumber of good quality is at a premium, and the dealer who has a large stock is in the possession of a bonanza which any lip man might envy. There is a big shortage in the market and the shortage is becoming more pronounced every day. The oak cut last year was an average one, but the demand and consumption the past year has been far above the average, and the demand for oak in furniture wood and enormous quantities of it have been used for this purpose, the factories in this city alone getting away with between 30,000,000 and 40,000,000 feet, with all the other factories in the country it is at work in the same direction. Hardwood finishes for house interiors have become more popular the past year than ever before and oak is used more than any other material. The demand for oak is increased during the year to such an extent that an average cut of logs will hardly supply the demand, hence the high stumpage. The prices have advanced within the past three months from $16 and $18 for straight sawed oak to $24 and $25, and dealers who have a supply on hand do not like to let it go even at the higher figures. Further advances are expected before the season closes.

Wright in Prison.

HESPERIA, Mich.—Charles T. Wright, the Hesperia murderer sentenced to life, is now in the penitentiary and looks out on the world from his hubs. Wright is a man of fine presence and powerful physique. His head is shapely and covered with a mass of light curly hair. He wears a mustache and light side whiskers. There is a pleasant and excellent temper in his facial expression, for his eyes, as well as his head, seem to glisten with kindness. Not a single feature in his face is brutal or vicious nature. When his glasses are changed for prison clothes and after a talk with Warden Hatch he was taken to the hub master's office, where he caught a glimpse of himself in a mirror. The sight of the striped clothes seemed to bring his conduct home to him, and he wept bitterly for a minute. At noon he was placed in line and marched to his cell, which is a cheerful place. After prayer he was marched into the Webster shops in the same company with Hatch, where he will learn the art of turning hubs.

Needs Hanging.

BIG RAPIDS, May 3.—A stranger aged perhaps 35 years, was seen Thursday in company with a man who was talking up about the logging ground in the fifth ward. About the time logging ends and sawdusting down, and the two men were seen by another mother, that her daughter had gone away with the stranger, a little over 12 years. At this moment the father, Lew Superior, had reached his house for supper, and seeing of the two men talking in the direction pointed out by the girl. All at a loss to know what to do, the girl screams were heard, and it was soon discovered that the fiend had brutally assaulted his 12 year old child. The man's father proceeded to pound the fiend unmercifully and drive him out of the village with epithets, when Constable Steiner, who had heard the frays, appeared, secured the fiend and placed a couple of irons on him to the lockup. Warrants pattering from the county of fashion to the county lynching, and the officers removed the fellow to the county jail for safe keeping.

Butler on the Alliance.

At the Butler club banquet Thursday night Gen Butler, who was the first man in opening, he said:

"The Alliance made quite a organization of properties very formidable, and if it can hold together in its ranks, which is very doubtful, it will be to be non political, honestly so, I doubt not, but how it is possible for a large body of men who think to influence the legislature of congress and the government of the country, I do not know. I do not propose they mean, however, that they do not propose, as a body, to have anything to do with the political parties. If it succeeds, it will destroy both political parties, and will become a political party of itself.

"Touching the condition of western farmers, Gen. Butler said, that they are passing out of the ownership of the tillers, land, and that they are becoming simply tenant farmers, the owners of the land being escaped them in spite of all their indulgence. Referring to the increasing national debt on farm property, the speaker closed by a yiup:

THE SPEAKER'S SCHEDULE FOR THE IMPORTANT BILLS.

The River and Harbor Bill Must Wait.

WASHINGTON May 5.

The caucus postponement of consideration of the river and harbor bill until later the close of the session is not at all in accord with the speaker's designs and views, but Speaker Reed insisted and had his way. The speaker's idea is that the bill is sure to pass and so can wait, but it may be expected more doubtful matters. The friends of the river and harbor bill view it very in a different position to river and harbor appropriations, are disposed to be grum over the postponement. They express fears that the speaker's open opposition to the $500,000 item for beginning the Hennepin canal will imperil the bill, that item being the one which will make votes among the members who represent the agricultural district of the north west. Moreover, the fact that Speaker Reed has allotted on his schedule from three to six days for the discussion of the bill shows that he expects debate, whereas in a time Henderson has expressed the hope a suspension of the rules to pass the bill without a word, as has been reported by the committee.

The speaker expects to secure an adjournment by July 1 and has allotted the time for important measures which must pass as follows: Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday close May 21: the silver bill 3 days, the land bill 2 days, the agricultural appropriation bill 3 days, the sundry civil bill 3 days, public building bills two days, the pension bill 3 days. The speaker's pensions bill as it comes from the senate 1 day, the river and harbor bill 3 to 6 days, the District of Columbia appropriation bill 2 days, the District of Columbia bill 2 days. Such is the schedule as prepared. It is probability is that all the above bills will be passed as purely measures. It will be seen that the silver bill is allotted only not on Mr. Reed's schedule as announced by the caucus.

The bill for the admission of Idaho and Wyoming are the unanimous business on the calendar of the senate. It is said that as reported from the committee on finance, will be the special order. It is not believed that the silver bill will be passed before it is two days, and if action on the silver bill is delayed until then it will be difficult to offer until a more convenient time. Two things may occur to prevent consideration of the silver bill. Senator Teller will on Friday and Saturday passed with the democratic authorities in the World office united in a request that he not to sacrifice his honest servant, of the newspaper. Sufficient to say that Senator Teller is not Mr. Colonel Lamont that Mr. Cleveland desired to see him at his house, upon his Mr. Cleveland's invitation. Mr. Cleveland had been Saturday night and Sunday morning in the truth of Mr. Cleveland's reports, and their bitings upon the subject of the silver bill, and the manner in which the old association shall be tied by union men in case the strikers declared off.
