GENERAL NOTES.
Governor St. John, of Kansas, having been re-elected, it remains to be seen whether he can secure a reelection. This will depend upon how far the men who are hostile to him are able to carry their opposition. The Atchison Champion says that "there will be no organized bolt, but the independent stragglers will be allowed in the land. He will be at the polls in force."
Ex-Governor Hendricks, of Indiana was questioned while in Louisville by a reporter of the Commercial of that city about the Democratic Presidential ticket two years hence. "The ticket of '74," said he, "will not be re-nominated. I will never be a candidate for Vice President again. No, sir, I will never turn for their office again." The ex-governor thinks Gen. Hancock a possibility, not a probability.

The orchards who live in Gratiot ware, Detroit, intend in a sarcastic pantomime the other day at the expense of the officials whose business it is to keep the thoroughfare open. The woodmen in pairs, in a manner, rotten condition, and here and there deep pools of water testified to the heavy rains. At a point where the state of the street was the worst, a man with a long pole, and a box of fish in the pools. They had attached to their lines dead fish which they pulled out and dropped back into the water in solemn silence, to the great amusement of numerous spectators. The man placed the fish in a row, the sign: "Public fishing grounds, free of all."

The expedition which M. Giraud is about leading into the heart of Africa has an ambitious programme before it. After organizing his party at Zanzibar, M. Giraud intends to go to Lake Bangweulu, to the lake Tanganyika, and more probably, by the north end of Lake Nyassa, along the route followed by Mr. Thompson. Striking the River Chambers, the expedition will follow it to the outlet in Lake Bangweulu, which is the most probable route to the interior. Giraud has taken out with him sections. It was on the south shore of this lake that Livingstone died, and the new expedition intends to take up the work of exploration there he left. M. Giraud hopes on reaching the Luialaba-Gondok to descend into the West Coast with his followers in canoes, and thus "repeat the odyssey which has immortalized the name of David Livingstone." Although M. Giraud has a mission from the French Ministry of Public Instruction, he himself bears all the expenses of the expedition.

One of the principal issues in the coming election in Indiana will be the question whether or not the next Legislature shall have the right of amendment to popular votes. Already the prohibition leaders are making a vigorous campaign, and, as one of the devices for arousing enthusiasm, are moving across the state with the great sign of the temperance light in Kansas and Iowa. This mammoth tabernacle, raised from the accommodation at Lafloras, is thought to possess an important significance by reason of the brilliant victories which it has played a part.

Philadelphia barbers are getting tired of work, and are about ready for breaking the Sabbath, paying the legal fines, and thus accommodating their patrons at their own expense. Many of them have concluded to make a really performance in an agreeable form of merry-making, and hereafter close their shops after the last customer has been shaved on Saturday night. Some of the cases will probably be taken up on appeal for the purpose of establishing the law.

The Jardin d'Acclimation in Paris is about adding to its treasures a consignment of natives of French Guiana. The interesting party includes four young women, two of whom are the youngest member born after their mother started for Europe. The costume of these people is nothing more than an apron of small dimensions, a pair of sandals, and a pigtail which they wear under the lip. They are said to be exceedingly fine hand and eye, and in their own country are fond only of fishing and hunting. They are identical with the natives of the island of their descent. It is mentioned that they are now two years in knitting their own hammocks, the only sort of handiwork they usually undertake.

A young man who was walking in the suburbs of New York, on a bright day afternoon when a thunder storm suddenly came upon stepped into a negro's cabin by the roadside, and sitting down took a New Testament from his pocket and began to read. A moment afterwards a negro stepped in, and by lighting a pipe, he attracted the attention of the young man. He asked the body had been identified, and the case is likely to be remembered as that of the young man who was struck by lightning in the suburbs of New York.

Two teachers at the state public school at Coldwater, Michigan, were arrested on the 23rd inst. for having been guilty of a crime which is a punishable offense. The teachers were charged with having committed a crime which is a punishable offense. The teachers were charged with having committed a crime which is a punishable offense.

It is only by labor that thought can be made healthy; and it is only by thought that labor can be made happy.
