MICHIGAN EVENTS RELATED IN BRIEF ITEMS.

Manistee Man Killed by Drinking Three Beer Glasses of Whisky—Port Huron Man Tries to Kill His Wife and Her Parents—Shot His Son for a Thief.

Tried to Kill Three, at Port Huron.

Geo. J. Bradley shot his wife and tried to kill her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Stevens, at Port Huron. About a year ago Bradley and his wife separated, she returning to live with her parents. Bradley called at the house and asked his wife if she would go back and live with him again. She refused and Bradley drew a revolver and shot her in the face. He then turned the revolver and tried to kill Mrs. Stevens, but she caught his hands and in the struggle got the revolver away from him, and rushed out of the room. Bradley then picked up a hammer and started for Mr. Stevens. The two men had a rough and tumble fight, during which Steven's head and face were cut in several places. Mrs. Stevens succeeded in obtaining help, and they parted the two men, but Bradley made his escape. It is thought that Mrs. Bradley will recover. Mr. Stevens, however, is an old man, and his injuries may prove fatal.

National Lumber Dealers' Convention.

The fourth annual meeting of the National Lumber Dealers' association was held at Saginaw. The report of the committee on claims called attention to the unjust discrimination by vessel owners against lumber shippers. The report of the committee on fire insurance showed that excessive rates of insurance are charged to wholesale lumber dealers and, the committee recommended the formation of a mutual insurance company by the association. Secretary Clark reported that in three years the association had grown from 40 members to 219, who represent $45,000,000 capital, doing a business of $110,000,000 annually. Officers elected: President, Charles M. Betts, of Philadelphia; vice-president, J. N. Scatcherd, of Buffalo; second vice-president, John S. Estabrook, of Saginaw; treasurer, A. C. Tuxbury, of Tonawanda; secretary, H. M. Clarke, of New York.

Wasby Killed Him.

Jacob Shelline, employed at Rademaker's livery, at Manistee, died of alcoholic poisoning under circumstances which may result in grave charges being made against a certain Manistee saloonkeeper and several habitues of a resort kept by him. Four months ago, Sheline, who was very intemperate, was induced by his employer to quit drinking. He kept his oath of abstinence until about a week ago, when he went on a spree, winding up in a well-known Manistee street saloon, where he was induced, in a spirit of bravado, to drink three large beer glasses of whisky. Shortly afterwards he fell on the floor and was soon dead. He was 48 years old, but unmarried.

Shot His Own Son.

For some time R. Hill, of Maple Grove, has been troubled to manage who broke down his fences and fruit trees. Recently he determined to put a stop to it, and he pulled out an old gun and loaded it with bird shot. He lay in wait for several nights and at last he saw a figure leave the house in the dark. He leveled his gun and fired. On examination Hill was horrified to find that he had filled his own son full of shot. The boy had been absent at a party without his father's knowledge. He may recover.

The value of all stock, at highest market value in 1895, was $93,000,000. Last year the company paid out dividends of $8 a share.

OUR LAWMAKERS IN WHAT THEY DO.

Senate—Sixty-ninth day. The Senate spent the greater part of the day in a fruitless effort to pass and passed that measure carrying $2,000,000 without material amendment. Senator Mills, of Texas, moved to postpone action on a resolution declaring that no U. S. bonds of a redeemable character should be issued, but objection was made and the resolution went over. Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, called to the discomfort in the journals of the two Houses as to the action of the clerk of the House on the Cuban resolutions adopted by that body. He said that the House resolutions had been reported as a substitute for the Senate resolutions, but they had been so much fixed up in the committee on foreign relations that they were no longer the same resolutions. He said the clerk had reported them to the Senate as independent resolutions, but they had been so fixed up that the error had been corrected. In the corrected form the House resolutions were adopted, as that passed by the Senate. As thus reported, then, the House resolutions were the committee on foreign relations. Mr. Gorman gave notice of a motion to reconsider the bill providing for additional military and naval stations in the United States. He said it was expected if he succeeded in securing the reconsideration, to move an amendment limiting the time in which the secretary can exercise the authority conferred. He said the entire day was spent in debating the amendment to the legislative appropriation bill to abolish the fee system in the cases of U. S. district attorneys and marshals.

Senate—Seventieth day. The consideration of the Indian appropriation bill was begun. The Cuban resolutions went to conference on a request from the house committee on foreign relations and Messrs. Sherman, Morgan and Gorman were made Senate conferees. Mr. Frye, from the committee on commerce, reported back the military House bill providing for the extermination of the Indians in Alaska. The bill was on duty was spent in fixing the salaries of U. N. consuls and other officers of the diplomatic and consular bill to abolish the fee system. The last amendment was adopted, leaving from fees at $5,000. The request of the Senate for a conference on the Cuban resolutions was received and acted upon.

Senate—Seventy-first day. The Senate conferees on the Cuban resolutions reported that the conference favored the resolutions as adopted by the Senate. The House had made a number of Senate words in amendment action was deferred until Mr. Hale could be present to be heard on it. Mr. Hale declared himself in favor of not only recognizing the belligerency and independence of Cuba, even if it resulted in war with Spain. Mr. Hale expressed surprise at the public feeling against Spain. He believed the carelessness and experiences of the United states would involve us in war sooner or later, but either Spain or foreign countries. He deprecated the flippancy with which Spain had been treated. Mr. Hale's proposition in this case occupied a large portion of his day. Mr. Gallinger, chairman of the pensions committee introduced the following amendment to the deficiency bill: "Providing that upon the application for a pension that had been allowed and a warrant issued and mustered into service shall be accepted, in case of the death of the applicant, of school boys and minor empowering fourth-class postmasters administer oaths to pensioners in pensing cases the death of a private shall be equal to a widow, with the claim of an officer, the failure of a soldier to receive honorable discharge, dishonorable discharge or desertion against him, shall not be a bar to the granting of a pension to his widow or those dependent upon him, in case of his death, and dispensing with the requirement of proof that the soldier was free from the disease in the case of widows as applicants under the act of June 27, 1890." Mr. Hale spoke against the amendment, and the Senate adjourned without action on the amendment to the legislative appropriation bill to abolish the fees in the cases of U. S. attorneys and marshals. Interest in that debate was completely overshadowed, however, by a sensational attack made upon President Cleveland by Mr. Hartman, Republican, who felt himself personally aggrieved by the President's utterances at the Presbyterian home mission meeting in New York and had selected the opportunity allowed by the latitude of debate on appropriation bills to repay him. He said that the western states were the home of evil influences. The President had suggested by Mr. Hartman. The debate was interrupted to allow the speakers of the House, Representatives on the Cuban relations Messrs. Hitt, of Illinois, and Adams, of Pennsylvania, to present the report of the committee, technical. Their conference with the senate committee lasted only 40 minutes and resulted in an agreement to report the House resolutions unchanged.

Seventy-second day. No session of Senate. House. The legislative appropriation bill which has been under consideration for a week was passed, the amendment to abolish the system on the fees of United States attorneys and marshals having been adopted. The House then debated since the consideration of the postoffice appropriation bill, the largest of the general appropriation bills which carries $91,000,000. The bill system on local mail carriers was adopted. A bill was passed to abolish the cash payment of pensions, to prevent the accumulating of veterans who draw their pension money at the agencies on the quarterly payday. Statistics from agencies show that many pensioners draw their pensions in cash, and their families complain that they get no benefit from the money. This bill requires all pensions to be paid in checks sent to the pensioners.

Seventy-third day. No session of the senate. House. The House entered into the consideration of the fourth of the thirteen regular appropriation bills, that providing for the postoffice service, the largest of the supply bills, carrying over $91,000,000. Mr. Grosvenor made a motion to increase the compensation of fourth-class postmasters, the salaries of which are fixed by the postoffice department. Two controverted items in the bill were left for the Senate to deal with, special mail facilities.

Seventy-fourth day. Another stirring chapter in the Spanish-Cuban controversy was opened in the House when a resolution was reported from the subcommittee on foreign relations, directing the President to demand the recognition, went over, in anticipation that the Senate would take the Cuban question up, the crowded the galleries were besieged by the Cuban sympathizers, since the opening of the session. The speech of the day was made by Mr. Hartman, who, in his opinion, opposed the Cuban resolutions and to the offensive interference of the United states in foreign questions. The Senate decided that the affairs of Cuba were not advisable to discuss, that our course implied the propriety of the action of the President in the matter. Mr. Hoar offered a resolution postponing all the Cuban questions to next session. This resolution will come up later. Mr. Hale, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, reported the conference report on the Cuban resolutions, and Mr. Hale was adopted calling on the President for all available information in the hands of the State department. The House then resumed the major portion of the day. Among the bills passed was one to develop the coal fields from 30 acres to a thousand acres, the author of a large field against the government. Another item was a bill to open the Sioux Indian reservation in South Dakota, to the settlers, the Indian income, positive action to be taken to extend the time for the opening of the reservation.

Seventy-fifth day. Senate. The Senate spent the entire day in the consideration of the Indian appropriation bill, the Senate adopted a number of amendments, the most important of which was the one to abolish the fee system in the cases of U. S. district attorneys and marshals.

CAUGHT ON THE FLY

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC NEWS OF GENERAL INTEREST.

Nicaragua's Government Troops Defeat the Rebels in Every Battle Fought—Ballington Booth Launches His New Movement in New York City.

Rebels Badly Defeated in Nicaragua.

Managua, Nicaragua: Advices received are to the effect that in the bombardment of Monotombo, the stronghold of the insurgents, the town was laid in ashes. An insurgent rival vessel was equal by shells from the government gunboats. The government guns were handled by lt. Jo Perez, of Chiapo, and Capt. Weyser and three Americans who were active participants in all the fighting. After six hours fighting at Matagalpa and Nagarote, the government forces, under Gens. Paiz and Estrada, have completely routed the rebel forces under Gen. Ortiz and have captured a portion of the rebel artillery. The rebels were completely routed and are now driven to La Paz, on the route to Leon with a loss of 500 killed and wounded. The government loss was about 300. It is learned that the revolutionists have fortified the town of Leon in anticipation of an attack by the government forces. The cathedral itself has been burned, and cannon have been placed upon the ruins. The government forces, are advancing toward Leon and will soon storm the rebel capital.

City of Mexico: The general impression here in well informed circles is that the revolution in Nicaragua is part of a general clerical plot for overthrowing the liberal administrations throughout Central America. They desire to prevent the United States gaining a stronghold in Nicaragua after the completion of the Nicaragua canal, and to crush out the tendency observable to request American protection, especially in Guatemala. Excited priests are stimulating the revolution and have secured funds for it.

Italy New Cabinet Formed.

Rome: A new cabinet has been formed by Gen. Rikotti as follows: Premier, Marquis Rudini; Gen. Ricotti, minister of war; Signor Birn, minister of foreign affairs; Signor Ferazzi, minister of the treasury; Admiral Racchia, minister of marine; Signor Guiciarini, minister of finance, and Signor Granturio, minister of justice. King Humbert expresses himself as well pleased with the choice.

King Humbert May Renounce His Throne

Berlin: The long visits of Emperor William to Chancellor von Hohenlohe, Baron von Bierbersteln, the minister of foreign affairs and the Russian ambassador, have given an impulse to speculation in the press and in political circles on the subject of the visit to Berlin of Count Goluchowski, Austrian minister for foreign affairs, and the future relations of the three dreibund. In the face of Italy's difficulties at home and abroad, and the doubtful attitude of Russia toward Italy, it is not easy to predict how come of Count Goluchowski's conference. There are even rumors that King Humbert, in order to extricate from the dilemma, will abdicate in favor of his son. The fear of England's attitude after the Transvaal affair is also a factor in the situation.

England's Ancient Claims

London: The St. James Gazette publishes a forecast summary of the British blue book upon the Venezuela situation, which is shortly to be issued. It is said to contain extracts from the archives of Holland, from the latter part of the sixteenth century, to the second decade of the nineteenth century and extracts from the archives of Spain from the time of the voyage of the River Amazon in 1542, and Martinez's ascent of the Orinoco river by Diego de Ordaz, which is the Venezuelan contention in 1530. All the documents in this connection, it is said, have been transcribed in order to establish the British case. Against the Venezuelan claim for possession of the west bank of the Essequibo river, Holland, with overwhelming strength, that the possession of that bank is Britain's beyond doubt.

The statement shows the Dutch occupation of the coast of Guiana up to the time of its cession to Britain, and the Dutch claim of ownership to the hinterland. Dutch claims are based on the fact that the Dutch were in the sixteenth century, the only Europeans who established second-hand trade with the Indians, who regarded Holland vigorously protested whenever the Spanish made an attempt to establish that Spain had no answer to these protests, and that any way she never claimed the country. But the states general twice in 1648 and 1671 formally ceded the country to the Dutch, in the territory in dispute between the two nations. It also declared that the whole question must await the result of arbitration.

He had shown signs of insanity for several weeks and had to be placed in a cell, there being no room at the asylum. Weaver had no home and was born in Ireland.

REIGN OF TERROR IN ITALY.

Crispi Ministry Forced to Resign by the Terrible Defeat in Abyssinia.

Rome: The ministry announced its resignation in the chamber of deputies and Premier Crispi added that it had been accepted by the king. The announcement was followed by loud cheers. In spite of the strong force of troops in the chamber, it was with difficulty that order was maintained. The chamber of deputies was crowded and the galleries were packed with excited spectators. The crowds about Monte Citorio, upon which the chamber of deputies is located, were now and again raised cries of "Down with the government." "Death to Baratieri," and other denunciations. Crispi gazed calmly on, as if such a demonstration was quite an ordinary occurrence and, when he finally rose to make himself heard, he added: "The ministers will remain at their posts until their successors are appointed." More cheers and shouts followed this statement, after which the president of the chamber asked that the house adjourn until noon, crown decided upon the successors of the ministers.

The excitement throughout Italy caused by the defeat of Gen. Baratieri and the large Italian army, at Adowa, is intense. Advices from Rome place 8,000 to 10,000 men killed and wounded, according to generally credited reports. Gen.
