WILLIAM E. ROBB, Secretary and Treasurer

The Man Who fired the shot that brought down the price of automobile insurance so that the farmers and business men of the State could afford to insure their automobiles against fire, theft, and liability, and who spent his time in obtaining and organizing a safe automobile insurance company.

This Company was organized August 30th, 1915, thus enabling his first members to join at a time of the year when the best risks could be selected and after the more numerous losses of the summer months had passed. This Company obtained about nineteen hundred members which enabled them to pass through the winter and the experimental stage with safety, and the large membership and surplus will now enable the Company to commence the spring work with everything in its favor. The revenue from new members will be large for sometime to come. One Company and one overhead expense will keep the cost down to the lowest point, as the Company is run on the mutual plan; the cost to join is only $1.00 for policy and 25c per H P State rating.

Anyone desiring an application or an agency should write to the Citizens' Mutual Automobile Insurance Company, Howell, Michigan.—Advertisement.

Two Methods of Procedure.

A man in Sussex who owns a number of horses has a great reputation for skill in the treatment of them. One day a farmer who wanted some valuable information approached the horse-owner's little boy, and said:

"Look here, my little man, when one of your father's horses is ill, what does he do?"

"Do you mean slightly ill or seriously ill?" asked the boy cautiously.

"Oh, seriously ill," said the farmer.

"Because," said the child, "if a horse is only slightly ill, he gives it medicine; but if it is seriously ill, he sells it."—London Answers.

CYCLONE SEASON NEAR

$1,000,000 of Cyclone Losses in the State of Michigan in the Year 1913.

This Company paid out $272,000 of losses in the year 1913. It has paid during the past five years 9,539 losses and a total of $435,358 to people who have had their buildings wrecked in the State of Michigan. The Company has about 40,000 members, and $86,000,000 of assessable capital. The Company has made only six assessments in nineteen years; thirteen out of the nineteen not a single dollar collected by assessment from any member of the Company. No assessment was made in the year 1915, and yet the Company had on hand January 1st, 1916, about $80,000 in cash.

There are about one hundred mutual companies in Michigan covering fire insurance; they save the farmers of Michigan about $1,000,000 over the cost in stock companies each year. The saving in cyclone insurance is much greater.—Because of our large membership with only one overhead expense, mutual insurance against cyclone, in our Company, on account of the low cost and efficient service, has appealed to the farmers and business men of every section of the State.

The many cyclones and tornadoes which have ruined people in nearly every part of the State should be a warning to you.

Insure your property whether it be in the city or country, in a safe Company.

The cost of a policy of $2,000 is only $4.50.

Then He Left.

He was telling about all the things he owned, his prize bulldog, his bungalow, his touring car.

"But you don't seem interested," he complained.

"Yes, I am," responded the other chap, "but I'm rather occupied today. Tell you what. You just mail me a statement of your assets and I'll read it with all the admiration and love you could possibly desire."

FRUIT LAXATIVE FOR SICK CHILD

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver and bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs" that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Adv.

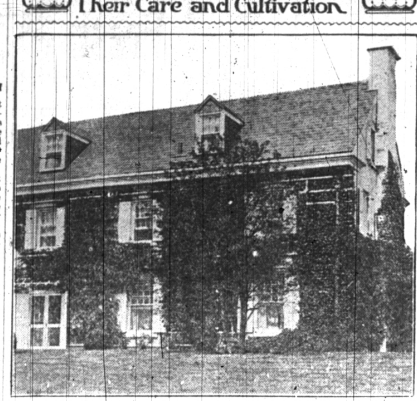
The HOME BEAUTIFUL

Flowers and Shrubbery Their Care and Cultivation



Climbing Plants as an Aid to Beauty.

BEAUTY OF CLIMBING PLANTS

By E. VAN BENTHUYSEN.

The permanent climbing plants and the annuals have a decided place on the home grounds. They fill a place that trees, shrubs and flowers cannot. They not only screen unsightly objects, but serve as a shade, a protection, and when trained carefully over outbuildings, stone walls and porches they help to make a picture of the home surroundings.

Three of the best clinging vines are the Boston ivy, English ivy and the trumpet vine. They are best on brick or stone walls as they are apt to cause decay if allowed to climb over shingles and woodwork.

Japanese honeysuckle is of quick growth and great beauty. Its delicate odor and lacelike foliage are desirable qualities. Any of the honeysuckle family are good where dense shade is not requisite. The crimson rambler is another great favorite. It is particularly beautiful when grown over white trellises.

Where one wishes to change the location of vines yearly the annuals are necessary. Among the number of beautiful annual climbers the morning glory takes a leading place. The moonflower and cypress and canary bird flower are other beautiful vines, easily grown.

To start the seed of Moonflower and Morning Glory cut the seed a little on one side and soak overnight in warm water, plant in a window box or seedbed and transplant out of doors when the ground is warm.

Wild cucumbers and Japanese or native hop are hardy vines and make a dense green shade. Hyacinth bean is also very pretty and a profuse bloomer. Never allow vines to grow up over the house. Place a trellis at least two feet from the house wall to allow a free circulation of air. This applies to all kinds of climbers; as soon as they begin to form runners give them a support.

Sweet peas and nasturtiums form excellent low, ornamental screens. Planted early, in a rich soil they will grow to the height of five or six feet and cover a support of that height. Decayed vegetable matter and leaf mold are fine fertilizers for the sweet pea.

ABOUT HOUSE PLANTS

Keep palm leaves clean.

Sow mignonette in pots for early spring flowering.

Spread sand at the base of the leaf stalks, of newly-potted primulas. Excess of water will do great damage. Occasionally give sulphate of ammonia, half an ounce to a gallon of water.

To keep geraniums in bloom give a temperature of 60 degrees during the day and 50 degrees at night. Avoid giving them too much water and too much artificial manure.

A suitable range of temperature for lily of the valley in pots, is from 50 degrees at night to 60 degrees by day. Use plenty of tepid water. If forced too rapidly, spikes will appear ahead of the leaves.

Keep camellia plants cool and thin out the buds if too numerous. They must not want for water and a little mild stimulant now and then, such as soot water.

The Beauty of Well Kept Grounds.

THE WINDOW GARDEN

By BESSIE L. PUTNAM.

On a cold, windy day, avoid placing potted plants on the ledge formed by the meeting of the upper and lower sash.

Unless the window is more than usually tight, there will be a cold draft which is always injurious to plants, especially when applied to the roots.

Sunshine in midwinter is always welcome to plant life, yet this should be given in moderation. If the plants are crowded up against the pane, test as to whether the glass may not become too heated.

Plant starvation is a common occurrence in the winter, especially on the farm. City growers, accustomed to buying not only plant food but even soil, are appreciative of the need of replenishing.

But we who have always been accustomed to getting the soil from our own land, sometimes fail to appreciate how quickly the small pot of earth is exhausted of its nutrient qualities.

There are prepared plant foods more agreeable to use indoors than fertilizers from the barnyard, but none more efficient.

As it is inconvenient to get this in the winter, some prefer to fill a sack with fertilizer from the stable and keep this in a crock or pail, covering with water frequently for immediate use.

It adds pleasure to watch the growth of the infantilar. And too, one learns by this novel class. Be it for foliage, blossom, brilliancy of color or fragrance, vary the collection.

Some think they have better success growing geraniums in tin cans, quart size, than with the regular pots; and their plants certainly justify the claims. Of course the holes must be made in the bottom for drainage.

If you want to paint them, use some paint which contains no lead, as this will rot the tin.

A standard color for general purposes is Venetian red and linseed oil, but as this would not harmonize with the plants in many instances, it may be darkened with burnt umber or some other dull color.

If you do not care to paint the cans, they may be wrapped in crepe or other fancy paper, which now costs but a trifle, and they always appear well.

A plant stand painted black or olive green will always harmonize with the different colors in plant life. It is restful and pleasing.

The plant syringe is most useful, as it sends a spray with much force, easily routing the red spider and at the same time removing dust. The kind with bent necks are decidedly preferable, as they touch both the upper and lower sides of the leaf with equal facility.

Avoid crowding the plants. In the professional's care we are accustomed to seeing them crowded together almost as thick as they can stand. But remember that he can turn on the hose at any time and water the plants thoroughly.

Use as careful discrimination in grouping your window plants as you do with those on the lawn. A scarlet geranium in juxtaposition with the crimson impatiens is discordant in either place.

LETTER FROM STATE CAPITOL

THE RAILROAD STATE CASE PUTS A CRIMP IN SOME OF THE POLITICAL PLANS.

CANDIDATES FOR PRESIDENT

The Heads of Important Committees of the Legislature Sets Politicians Figuring On Who Is Who.

[By Gurd M. Hayes.]

Lansing—Judge Clarence W. Sessions's decision in the Ann Arbor rate case in the United State district court upholding the two-cent fare law is thought here at the capitol to preclude the possibility that the next legislature will be called upon to tackle the question of repealing the two-cent law.

The decision of Judge Sessions in the Ann Arbor case, while admitting the legality of the railroad's move, found as a matter of fact that on both the passenger and freight business the road was making 6 per cent on its investment.

There have been rumors, and most of them based upon statements of the railroad men, that they intend to take a hand in the next legislative primaries and elections, to get as many representatives and senators in the 1917 gathering favorable to their cause as possible. But Lansing is satisfied now that the Ann Arbor decision has put a crimp in this plan.

The Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic rate case is still with the master who took testimony, and there is no evidence here of any sudden termination of that case, although the master's decision may come at any time.

Two Presidential Candidates.

Three candidates for the republican nomination for president had qualified for places on the Michigan presidential primary ballot when the time for filing petitions expired at noon, on Tuesday, February 29. William Alden Smith of Grand Rapids, Henry Ford of Detroit, and William Gerald Simpson of Detroit, are the three whose names will appear on the primary ballot for the election April 4. Woodrow Wilson will be the only candidate of the democratic party at the presidential primary, while the national progressives have no candidate. Aside from the republicans and democrats the only party to file petitions was the prohibitionist. William P. Ferguson of Pennsylvania is the candidate of the prohibition party. The presidential primary in no way alters the method of electing delegates to the national conventions. The delegates will be chosen in state and district conventions to be announced at the call of the state central committees. However, the delegates are bound, under the terms of the presidential primary law to support at the national conventions the candidates indorsed at the primary. The law does not specify whether the delegation shall be bound by the preferential vote for more than one ballot.

National Committeeman Charles B. Warren of Detroit, will have no opposition for renomination at the republican primary. There are two candidates for national committeemen in the democratic primary. National Committeeman E. O. Wood of Flint, is a candidate for renomination, and is opposed by William A. Comstock of Alpena, whose name was proposed by the so-called "original Wilsonites." Gustavus D. Pope, of Detroit, is unopposed as national committeeman of the national progressive party.

Legislative Committee.

One of the most important appointments made by a speaker of the Michigan house of representatives is the chairmanship of the ways and means committee. Although the job carries with it considerable work, it generally brings the chairman in the limelight and from the standpoint of the legislative politician, is a place well worth having. While it has been taken for granted that Rep. Henry Croll, Jr., of Clare county, would be chairman of the ways and means committee of the legislature next year, if the republicans are again in control and Rep. Charles W. Smith of Lapeer, is reelected speaker, it was learned a few days ago that Rep. James Jerome of Detroit, is being groomed for the honor. Because of the fact he has served in the legislature much longer than Croll, Rep. Jerome, by right of seniority has first claim on the chairmanship of the ways and means committee. Rep. Harry Hinkley, chairman of the ways and means committee during the sessions of 1913 and 1915 is a candidate for the senate. Rep. William Hank, the second republican member of the committee, has congressional aspirations and Jerome is next in line.

During the session of 1913 Jerome was chairman of the state affairs committee of the house and should he desire the chairmanship of the ways and means committee he would have to surrender his claim to the chairmanship of the state affairs committee. Should Rep. Smith be reelected speaker and Jerome should head the ways and means committee, it would be a severe disappointment to Rep. Croll. It was Croll who started the petitions in the house to line the members up in support of the plan to re-elect Smith speaker at the session in 1917. It was generally conceded that Croll expected his reward in the shape of the chairmanship of the ways and means committee, and because of his friendship for the speaker, it is believed he stands an excellent chance to land the plum. However, if Jerome's friends press his claim to seniority, it may change conditions somewhat.

The Aviation Corps of the M. N. G.

The governor has received a letter from the Aero Club of America by its president, Alan R. Hawley, of New York City, requesting him to commission an officer of the Michigan National Guard to attend one of the aviation schools to be conducted by an eastern aeroplane company. The Aero club will pay $40 towards defraying the expense of training the officer from Michigan, and according to the letter, it is planned to obtain an officer from each of the forty-eight states. The Michigan National Guard has no aviation corps, for the principal reason that it owns no aeroplane. However, Col. John S. Bersey, adjutant general of the state militia, has received word that a group of Detroit men have plans to buy an aeroplane and turn it over to the national guard if the Detroit sportsmen carry out their proposed plan, a number of aviators will be recruited in that city and officers of the guard who are willing to enter this branch of the service will be instructed in the art of flying by men obtained through the Detroit organization. Col. Bersey says an aviation corps would be of great benefit to the Michigan National Guard. As a result of the plan presented by the Detroit men, the military department will not recommend to the governor the offer of the Aero club be accepted.

Democratic National Committee Man.

Sufficient petitions were filed with Secretary of State Vaughan Tuesday morning to place the name of William A. Comstock of Alpena on the democratic primary ballot as a candidate for national committeeman in opposition to E. O. Wood of Flint. Clarence Tinker of Fenton filed the first of stock petitions. Genesee county is the home of E. O. Wood, who has been the democratic national committeeman from Michigan for several years. It is said Comstock has the support of the so-called "original Wilsonites," and that political opponents of the present national committeeman will make a determined effort to dislodge him at the April primary.

State Board Appointments.

The governor has two appointments to make on important state boards, but he may not make them before he fills the vacancy on the pardon board and he announced recently that he would take no action towards filling the vacancy on the board of control of the soldiers' home until after the next meeting of that board. It is believed the governor will follow the recommendations of the board of control of the soldiers' home in appointing a new man on that board, and he has already announced that the appointee will be a civil war veteran.

The State's Kitchen.

The statement of W. J. Mickel, deputy state food and dairy inspector, which gives details of Michigan's mammoth public kitchen may interest many readers.

Mickel's report has been given Gov. Ferris through the channels of the state food department and it was one of the documents that was not destroyed by the fire that attacked the old capitol building.

Last year it cost the taxpayers of Michigan just $1,671,840 to supply this gigantic public "kitchen" with foodstuffs. In Mickel's statement of expense are grouped 18 public institutions which are dependent for existence on public appropriation and which consumed 1,200,000 pounds of beans. In addition to the soup that could be made from that great amount of beans the state used 1,000,000 pounds of beef.

Half a million pounds of butter were consumed in the state "kitchen." 1,000,000 pounds of sugar; 20,000 pounds of baking powder; 150,000 pounds of coffee; 100,000 pounds of prunes; 100,000 pounds of other dried fruits; 20,000 pounds of flour; 350,000 pounds of lard and lard substitutes; 12,000 gallons of molasses; 500,000 pounds of pork; 100,000 barrels of potatoes; 100,000 barrels of rice; 20 gallons of extract; 7,000 pounds of spices; 50,000 pounds of tea; 15,000 gallons of vinegar; 175,000 tons of coal, soap, soap chips and soap powders to the amount of $100,000.

The kitchens of the following institutions consumed the above: State hospital at Newberry, Marquette state prison, state hospitals at Kalamazoo, Traverse City, Pontiac, Ionia, industrial school for the blind, Ionia reformatory, Ionia state hospital for the criminal insane, Michigan Soldiers' home, Grand Rapids; school for children at Coldwater, school for girls at Adrian, Jackson prison; school for the blind at Lansing, industrial school at Lansing; school for the deaf at Flint, home for the feeble-minded at Lapeer, epileptic farm at Wajahmega, tuberculosis sanitarium at Howell.

TO FORM NEW STATE BOARD

To Value Lands That Are to Be Handled By Promoters.

Lansing—Legislation governing the sale of Michigan lands to promoters is the proposed culmination of the Indianapolis widow's appeal to the attorney general after she had purchased $1,000 worth of stock in the St. Ignace Land & Development Co., who capitalized 3,000 acres of Mackinac county land for $100,000 and then proceeded to sell the stock at $100 per share.

So far as Michigan is concerned the company can go on selling its stock and nothing can be done, except to lay plans for locking the door before the horse is taken from the stable. It is said that a board could be formed composed of the secretary of the public domain commission, state geological and soil expert of the M. A. C., whose duties it would be to pass upon the incorporation of future land companies authorized in Michigan.

BACKACHE, RHEUMATISM

Dear Mr. Editor:

For a long time I suffered from backache, pain in left side, frequent urination (bothering me at all times during the day and night), and the uric acid in my blood caused me to suffer from rheumatism along with a constant tired, worn-out feeling. I heard of the new discovery of Dr. Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., called "Anuric." After giving "Anuric" a good trial I believe it to be the best kidney remedy on the market today. I have tried other kidney medicines but these "Anuric Tablets" of Dr. Pierce's are the only ones that will cure kidney and bladder troubles.

(Signed) HENRY A. LOVE.

NOTE.—Experiments at Dr. Pierce's Hospital for several years proved that "Anuric" is 37 times more active than lithia. Send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial package.

Wise Constituent.

A congressman received almost daily letters from a constituent asking for garden seed, with emphasis on peas. The demand for peas got so heavy that the congressman was moved to write this letter:

"I am sending you a half dozen more packages of peas as requested. Say, what are you trying to do down there, plant the whole state in peas?"

The reply came a few days later. It read:

"No, I'm not planting them, but they make bully soup. Send along some more."—Kansas City Star.
