SILVER THE WINNER

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION AT CHICAGO

Completely Controlled by White Metal Men—Four Michigan Gold Delegates Unseated After a Hard Fight—A Long and Exciting Convention.

The huge coliseum building at Chicago was nearly filled by a typically Democratic mob, in which women fainted and men danced like wild Indians when the band played "Dixie," the Cherokee delegates from the Indian Territory in dress of the Sioux out in the aisle, and war whoops and shouts mingled with the clamor of feet, fists and handkerchiefs were waved, and the music of the regular band was drowned in the tumult that followed.

Finally order was again restored and then the majority report was read giving the Michigan delegation from gold to silver was adopted without a division. The report of the committee on permanent organization was called for by Clerk of Pomeroy, of Ohio, its chairman, made his way to the stage and read the list of permanent officers selected, which was headed by Senator Hill, of New York, nominated for chairman. Temporary Chairman Harrison and Thomas E. Cogan, of Ohio, Daniel, in yielding the gavel to the Calif-ornia senator, said, in part, in his speech, thanking the convention for its courtesy. Mr. White made a brief but telling speech, after which a silver gavel was presented to Mr. Clark, of Missouri. At 10 o'clock adjournment was taken until 8:30 a. m., the following day.

Chairman White was so hoarse he could scarcely speak when he called the convention to order on the third day. Considerable confusion was occasioned by the charge of the gavel and called for the majority report of the committee on resolutions, which was read by Senator Jones, of Arkansas. The platform presented is as follows:

We, the Democrats of the United States, in national convention assembled, do reaffirm our allegiance to the principles of the fathers of Justice and Liberty upon which Democratic party rests, confident that the Democratic party can safely intrust to it, as it has been intrusted in the past, the maintenance of the rights of the states and in its assertion of the necessity of combining the general government to the exercise of the powers granted by the constitution of the United States.

Recognizing that the money system is as important to the prosperity of the people as the currency system is to the commerce of the country, we demand the immediate restoration of the bimetallic money system of the United States and the free coinage law passed by congress under the conditions made the law was passed, which gave the United States the right to coin the silver bullion bought under the silver dollar law, declare that the act of 1873 demonetizing silver was not known to the people of the American people has resulted in the aggregation of gold and corresponding fall in the price of commodities produced by the people, a heavy increase in the burden of taxation of all debts, public and private, the enrichment of the holders of bonds and other obligations, the paralyzation of industry and impoverishment of the people.

We are absolutely opposed to monopolies, whether they be of land or money, or of any other form of property, and we demand that the laws shall be so amended as to prevent the accumulation of property in such manner as to create monopolies, and we demand that the laws be so amended as to prevent the acquisition of property by aliens, and we demand that the laws be so amended as to compel the payment of taxes by all property, whether it be the property of citizens or of corporations, and we demand that the laws be so amended as to prevent the issuance of bonds by municipalities, counties and states, and we demand that the laws be so amended as to prevent the issuance of bonds by the national government in time of peace, and condemn the trafficking with foreign governments which has placed the money of the country and the control of its currency under the control of foreign money lenders, and we demand that the laws be so amended as to prevent the issuance of any kind of legal tender money by private corporations.

We are opposed to the policy and practice of appointing to the judiciary of the United States men who have been appointed to office by the President, who are not known to the people of the United States, and who are not known to the people of the United States, and who are not known to the people of the United States, and
