TWO BIG PICTURES AT THE BALDWIN NEXT WEEK

Is the modern, up-to-the-minute, emancipated, unfettered and untrammeled girl overdoing it? Can she carry her own latchkey, smoke cigarettes, keep late hours, ignore the conventions, smash the old ideals without at the same time smashing herself?

Or, in another way of putting it: Is the so-called "bold girl" necessarily a "bad girl"?

A great many women readers are beginning to suffer uneasy qualms and ask themselves this question. What is the answer?

In "Prodigal Daughters," a Sam Wood Paramount production with Gloria Swanson as the star, which comes to the Baldwin theatre, Royal Oak, next Tuesday and Wednesday, June 12 and 13, the answer is a smashing surprise that will make the audience gasp.

A frenzy of extravagance in which the thoroughly liberated woman of today is shown plunging full tilt into the maelstrom of reckless behavior, is followed by a climax that is unique in motion picture production.

Gloria Swanson as "Swiftie" Forbes, the young woman who seeks a new way to "break the Ten Commandments" is shown in a role strikingly different from anything she has attempted heretofore. Ralph Graves, regarded by many as one of the handsomest actors on the screen, and playing opposite Miss Swanson, gives an effective presentation of the young man who clings to clean ideals and fights to preserve them. Finally, there is Theodore Roberts, veteran character actor, who is excellent as the successful and undismayed head of a family that has, somehow, grown too modern for his old-fashioned understanding.

"Down To the Sea In Ships"

A close-up view of a monster 90-ton "bull" whale which was sighted by Columbus in 1492 on his voyage of discovery, does that give you a thrill? That sounds just a trifle far fetched. However, that is exactly what you may witness in the Elmer Clifton production "Down to the Sea in Ships," which comes to the Baldwin Theatre, Royal Oak, Thursday of next week for three days.

There is no question about your seeing the 90-ton "bull" whale, as in this thrilling photodrama a close-up is to be had of one of these leviathans of the deep in a death battle with the crew of the "Charles W. Morgan." Every detail of a thrilling battle, in which the enraged mammal finally turns on the boat, smashes it to kindling wood, and hurls the occupants into the shark-infested waters, is graphically shown before the astounded eyes of the audience.

As to Columbus seeing this same whale, there may be some doubt. However, it is estimated that this mammoth of the sea, which measured 80 feet in length and weighed more than 90 tons, was over one thousand years old. It is, therefore, very possible that Columbus en route for America on his old sailing bark, may have sighted this self-same whale. Can you imagine sitting in your favorite motion picture theatre and gazing on a whale that lived one thousand years ago?

Shirley Mason in "The New Teacher" at I. O. O. F. Temple

No production in which this dainty star has been seen approaches in point of beauty and detail the new charming story selected for her by Mr. Fox. The picture is from Dorothy Yost's tale, "The Little Alien," and the scenario is also the work of the author.

In "The New Teacher" Miss Mason appears as a young society girl who tires of social life. She yearns to do something for her poorer fellow being. When the family suffers a financial reverse she accepts a position as a teacher in one of the public schools located in the slums of New York. Her sweetheart finds her and in order to protect her becomes a policeman. After she has accomplished many praiseworthy acts, he induces her to resume her former status, and the picture ends by their being married.

An excellent cast, which includes Alan Forrest, Earl Metcalfe and Pat Moore, the child actor who is rapidly forging to the front ranks of stardom, support Miss Mason in her latest offering.

Hugh Kennedy of Pierce street, is on the sick list.

Bebe Daniels and David Powell in the Paramount Picture "The Glimpses of the Moon."

At the Baldwin Theatre, Royal Oak, next Sunday and Monday, June 10 and 11.
