City's Boys and Girls Tell Santa What They Want For Christmas

Santa SAYS

Hello, boys and girls. This is your old friend Santa Claus once more.

I just received all these splendid letters from the little folks at Adams school and I think they are so fine I'm asking your home town paper to print every one of them.

I want everyone in Birmingham to see just how nicely you write. Wish I could have them see the original letters, some of them are very, very nicely done, but that of course just isn't possible. We'll do the next best thing and have the copies published.

By the way, these letters include those from the boys and girls who will be going to Torry school just as soon as that fine new building is ready for them.

I'm surprised that some of you want to have such long vacations from school. Wish I'd had a nice new building to look forward to when I was a little boy!

BY THIS TIME NEXT WEEK I'll have read all the letters from Pierce school and will have them back in Birmingham in time for the paper to print them, too.

Now, be good boys and girls, every one of you, and I'll be visiting your homes on Christmas Eve!

CORKING IDEA

No other one thing reflects our progress, our state of mind, so accurately as does our ready acceptance of Modern furniture. In the past "Period" furniture was generally designed to flatter and enhance the prestige of the ruling class. Not so with today's Modern. It is designed and constructed to meet the requirements and express the taste of a great cross section of mankind . . . not a particular class. It is simple, unaffected, unpretentious. These qualities are responsible for its adaptability and flexibility. They furnish inspiration for background ideas that add to the originality and individuality of our homes.

It's hard to believe that the background in the room sketched above was done on a shoestring. To relieve monotony of plain toast-colored walls, natural cork place mats have been fastened to fireplace wall with narrow strips of moulding a shade paler than the mats. This has been repeated on the far wall in the dining area.

Only pattern in rooms are blue-and-toast draperies and matching slip cover on lounge chair. Fireside chair and carpet match walls . . . bring up rich patina of blond Modern chairs and tables.

Come in; let us tell you about other easily executed and economical background ideas that will add beauty to your rooms.
