A Pontiac woman's answer to her friends' objection to her going away so much, is that the only time her husband ever kisses her is when she takes a train.

Every trade has its stories and here is one contributed by "Monty," proprietor of the City laundry: "A woman applied to a certain gentleman for work and he gave her the following note addressed to the manager of a club: 'Dear sir—This woman wants washing.' On the corner of the Koal Kabin Farm—four sections corner—and right in the center of the road the corner stone of said four sections rises a foot or more above the level of the roadbed, so says an irrate traveller, who often bumps into it to and from town after dark. He wants to know why the pathmaster don't sink that stone a little below the road level. Why?

Handsome, vitrified brick, extra size, heavy as iron, and a rich purple color, for the front of the Johnston & Shaw block, are daily arriving. It will require 10,000 of them and they cost $17.00 per thousand. About 20 laborers are daily engaged.

The members of Mary D. Hive, No. 393, L. O. T. M. M., having accepted the special dispensation of the Great Hive, allowing admission of endowment members by payment of medical examiner's fee and advance assessment only, the offer holds good from July 15, 1905, until August 15, 1905. Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Bortel, a few days ago, just cut loose from home and Birmingham and took a trip on the famous, beautiful, well-patronized Tashmoo of the White Star line. Took in the Flats, Star Island House, Sarnia, made a few days' stay at Port Huron, thus making their summer outing a very happy one, returning home safe and sound.

There is apparently a sneak thief in town whose taste varies. Someone stole Mrs. Anna Bird's best washtub a while ago; then some canned fruit took a walk, but the "most unkindest cut of all" was when her two strawberry short cakes disappeared while she was entertaining company in the parlor. That was a dirty mean trick, to say the least.

The building committee of the board of supervisors have awarded contracts for grading and sodding the new court house lawn at Pontiac and, for building the necessary cement curb, walks and approaches. Bert Smith, of Pontiac, was awarded the cement work at $925 and John Wardell the grading and sodding at $350. A forfeit of $8 per day is provided in each contract for every day the work is incomplete after September 1.

At a Sunday dinner in a boarding house recently at Clawson a young gentleman boarder was asked by the landlady to say grace. He had never done so before, so all were astonished when he bowed his head and said: "Hebrews 13th chapter and 8th verse, Amen." After dinner they all made a frantic rush for the bible in the parlor, and it is safe to say that the young man is boarding elsewhere. The verse reads: "Jesus Christ, the same yester day, to day and forever."

Mr. Wm. Cockerline is a busy man now-a-days. Just now he is building a modern home for Percy Parmenter on his Troy farm. This house is more like a city home than the usual farm house and we are pleased to note the fact that good things are enjoyed by the farmer and his family just as well as the city folk can enjoy them. Oak finish throughout down stairs with yellow pine up stairs, a bath room, stationery laundry tubs, and all modern appliances will be secured to Mr. and Mrs. Parmenter, and here's to them for a long and prosperous life in the new home.

BASE BALL NEWS

Birmingham Scores Another Victory —Hot Game Scheduled For Saturday.

The game scheduled for last Saturday with the Myrtles of Detroit was called off by their manager and it was evidently a case of cold feet.

By much hustling the Clover Milk Co.'s team was secured to play in place of the Myrtles and a fine game was the result.

The Clovers went to bat first, but were blanked. Then our boys proceeded to do things. Hulbert bumped one into the third baseman and was out. Heffernan stung one and Shultz booted it, Brooks singled, King drove one, scoring Hefferman. A passed ball advanced the runners, a will throw scored Brooks, Dier's single scored King. Three runs.

Both sides retired in quick order until our boys came up for their half of the fifth. Hulbert led off with a single, Hefferman sacrificed him to second, Brooks drove one into left field good for a sack, King made a Gaston and Alphonso hit, which three fielders stood about and said "you first, my dear Gaston," until the ball struck the earth with a dull and heavy thud which woke the players up to find the bases full and everybody safe. Cole stonped the ball with his slats, Dier found the trademark for a single, Hanna took a black and blue decoration in the middle of his back, Purdy hit a little one which the pitcher squeezed, Campbell pushed out a safe one, Hulber fanned. An investigation of the home plate showed four distinct and separate foot marks upon it and the scorer marked down four more runs.

The Clovers got their two in the eighth. Gottschalks singled to left. Horton followed suit, Vogle grounded one to Hanna, who tossed it to Purdy at second for an out, but as Purdy went to throw to first for a double play the base runner gave him the shoulder and the ball went wide. Cole secured the fleeing ball and shot it toward the home plate just in time to catch one of the jumping, hurrahing milk boy coachers in the back of the head and he went down like a wood en baby at a country fair. Cole didn't get a cigar, but the Clovers got two runs before the carooming ball was corralled.

Then is the death-like stillness that followed, the dazed milk boy rose up and said: "No ma'am, there ain't no water or chalk in that milk." This ended the scoring.

A FISH STORY

There were four of us, Dr. C. M. Raynale, Frank Blakeslee, Capt. M. O. Bigelow and this truthful scribe. The scene was Pine Lake, the time was July Fourth, the occasion was the birthday of Blakeslee and Sam Mills and secondarily the birthday of the Nation, this was, however, only secondary.

It was all Sam Mills' fault. He invited us and we arrived in due time over the Northwestern at the northwestern end of Pine Lake, where we met our genial host with Theron Smith and the launch, which is the finest ever, and belongs to the latter named person, and were speedily and safely landed at Sam's cottage and were welcomed by his worthy helpmeet who casually informed us that "it is Sam's birthday, to say nothing of anything else; and everything goes."

And it did. In the first place the wind started out to go, and it went at the rate of 40 miles an hour for the most of the day; the next thing to go was the doctor's hat. It went overboard and after due search and inquiry was made and nothing was heard of it, we settled down to business and when we least expected it the most, here came the doctor's hat floating along as if nothing had happened. We got it.

After that, we thought it was time to give up the matter of fishing and when we went ashore at the cottage, we found that Sam and Blakeslee had had better luck than the doctor and myself and they had prepared the fish for our dinner. Now, Mrs. Mills had insisted that we take a lunch before we went out on the lake, and when we came back, of course we weren't hungry a particle. Couldn't eat anything on a bet. Didn't care a fig about dinner—until we smelled the odor of frying fish from the kitchen and then we couldn't wait till dinner was ready. And such a dinner! If fish are fried in the next world, St. Peter won't know his business if Mrs. Mill's isn't appointed chief cook immediately upon her arrival. And if she is, and we are there, as we expect to be, we want a seat at the first table. Because if we wait for the second and the fish are as good as those she cooked for us on the Fourth, there won't be any fish for the second table.

Well, well! those are the good days we love to think of when the frost is on the pane and the wintry winds are howling down the chimney. Can't beat us out of the day at Sam's cottage at Pine Lake on the Fourth, no matter what comes in the future. May his good wife and himself live to cook us another fish dinner every Fourth to the end of the chapter.

This remarkable remedy is sold to everybody with the express agreement that if it does not do exactly as represented the buyer's money will be cheerfully refunded. They are guaranteed to quickly relieve and permanently cure all stomach troubles, tone up the whole system, give new life and vigor, better courage, more vitality, and bring the weak, weary and despondent back to joyous health.

The price is only 25c if they cure. If they fail the cost is nothing. But they won't fail. They will tell you that dozens of people you know have been benefitted and cured of indigestion and dyspepsia by Pepsikola Tablets, and they will give you a "square deal." No cure, no pay.
