The Exchange Bank opens every morning at 8 o'clock standard time and closes every day at 4 o'clock standard time; Sundays and holidays excepted.

The many friends of Mrs. Chas. Dickinson will regret to hear of her serious illness.

If you have the "blues," read Psalm XXVII.

If you are losing confidence in men, be sure to read First Corinthians, chapthe XIII.

Mrs. D. H Purdy of Brighton, Mich., has been enjoying a short visit with B'ham friends.

Mrs. L. Wing Yates, of Ionia, Mich., has been a welcome guest of her cousin, Miss Nellie Camp, the past few days.

Mrs. B. F. Stiffler and children spent the Easter holidays with Grandma and Grandpa Shippey at West Lorne, Ont. Good time? To be sure.

The new Presbyterian church bell, the gift of Mrs. George G. Booth to the society, rang out its first peal on Easter Sunday. Everybody happy and pleased.

A concert will be given at the M. E. church, Wednesday evening, April 10th. A fine program is in preparation, given by home talent, assisted by the B. H. S. orchestra.

Many of our exchanges make sharp comments on those opposing the liberal offer made us by the Library Society and not a few wish, "Our town had such a chance."

Wilborn B. Harris is having a new roof put on his cozy home, rented by Louis Harnack. Aunt Mary Brad. is rejoiceful over the fact that all the old shingles fall to her fot kindlings.

Special communication of Birmingham Lodge, No. 44, F. & A. M., will be held Thursday evening, April 11th. Work in M. M. degree. Refreshments served. M. R. BLAIR, Sec.

Mrs. Polly Stanley has sold her Birmingham home on Southfield Avenue, to Guy Watkins Price, $4,500. A fine investment for Mr. Watkins and a citizen Birmingham will be proud to have come.

Ed. Prince, formerly of Southfield, has just sold his Berlin Heights, Ohio, farm and cleared up an even thousand dollars profit. Not so bad. He will now locate near Collins, Ohio, on a larger and better farm than ever.

The children's Easter service at the Presbyterian church was very nicely presented to a congregation that filled tho church. The children were all interesting in their respective parts and everybody present enjoyed the treat.

Miss Charlotte Blanding left mother, home and many friends last week Thursday, for an extended visit in the East. She is accompanied by the best wishes of a host of friends who wish her a safe journey and a speedy return.

The stars and stripes forever is the sign of Wilcinson & Wood and electrical work, plumbing, hot water or steam heating and tinning of all kinds is their working record. Read their flag ad. Their work is like their sign,—standard, reliable and satisfactory.

In Ann Arbor and in many of our villages, squirrels are protected and are tamed, the people being proud of them. The small boy never thinks of throwing a stone at them. Here, the moment one is seen, his life is in danger. Are our boys worse than others, or is their training worse?

Shortly before 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon a terrifying shriek of the fire whistle started Nos. 1, 2 and 3 for the scene of trouble at the north end while No. 4 was held in readiness for a second alarm. Fortunately there was nothing more serious than a smudge in a field near the cemetery.

Mr. S. L. Clark, motor-man, who has been living in Mrs. Sarah Fuller's house, on Pierce street, has just bought the pleasant home of George Shain, on Willetts street, now occupied by Walt C. Smith and family. Mr. Smith is out looking for another house, as Mr. and Mrs. Clark want to get into their new home just as soon as possible.

April 1st all customers who had traded with V. Nixon the past 90 days to the amount of $2.00 each had received a key and on the day named above each key holder had a chance at the cash box for the prizes inside of the strong box. George Whiting was on hand Monday morning and the second key he tried opened for the first prize cash $7.00. The second prize was won by Sam'l Johnson $5.00 in gold. Joe Croft drew $3.00 and Levi Allen also $3.00. There are two more prizes in the chest and 100 keys out to open to the gifts. Cash $3.00 and the last, a pair of shoes. Volney says to the holders of the keys, hurry up and get your prizes.

If Dowie keeps his word and returns in a thousand years, he may still be in time to get a good job on the Panama canal.

Miss M. Baldwin is a member of the American Civic Association and all their literature may be found at our library.

Andrew Burr expects to move to Birmingham for the summer. He and his brother Fred have rented a $15,000 brick and tile plant near that place. They expect to manufacture all kinds of drain tile, also brick and building blocks.—Utica Sentinel.

At the special meeting of the village board held at the council rooms last Tuesday evening, John W. Perry was appointed president in place of Edward R. Smith who refused to qualify, and Volney Nixon as trustee in place of E. A. O'Neal who would not accept the trust, having decided that he had served his village long and well—enough.

You have no doubt noticed Dr. C. M. Raynale getting about to his work, via crutches, canes etc. All this comes from a fall while alighting from a wagon, caused by the breaking of a board used for a step, one day last week. Fortunately for the Doctor, and his patients, he is recovering much faster than he dare hope for at the time of his fall.

The many friends of Julius Bede, who for many years has been in the employ of Erity & Dixon, will be sorry to hear of his accident last week Wednesday. His right hand lost parts of three fingers by being caught in the rolls while grinding feed. Only his presence of mind and great strength in bracing himself and pulling back saved his arm and perhaps his life.

An observing editor says that any time you see a man finding fault with his local paper, the chances are ten to one, that he hasn't an advertisment in it; five to one that he never gave it a job of work; three to one that if he is a subscriber he is a delinquent; even money that he never does anything to assist the publisher to run a good paper and forty to one he is the most eager to see the paper when it comes out.

The Skidoo Club held the fourth of their series of parties last Friday evening, when a party of 30 were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Dawson. Dancing and pedro were the amusements of the evening and an elegant supper was served. The guests remained until the "wee sma" hours when they took their departure all declaring they had a fine time. Where next?

Wm. I. McClelland is very seriously ill at the Harper hospital in Detroit, after an operation, which was to find the source of trouble in his head. He stood the operation finely, but since, the patient has had to contend with a raging fever; his temperature at times running as high as 105. At this writing his condition is a trifle better, and his many friends here at his home, wish him a safe, sure and speedy recovery.

Birmingham people who enjoyed the Governor's ball at Pontiac, Monday evening, April 1st, were; Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Anderson, Dr. J. L. Campbell and wife, Dr. N. T. Shaw and wife, Chas. J. Shain, Miss Bessie Bigelow, with Miss Kate Shearer, of Detroit, and Miss Zoe Spencer, W. D. Clizbe, wife and daughter, Miss Marion, and Geo. E. Daines. All ladies interested in such work are invited to join and any number of lessons may be taken. Instruction will be given in feather-stitch or full embroidery, English eyelet, French, shadow, velvet applique, Wallachian, point lace, Battenberg, etc., etc. Class lessons two and one-half hours, 25 cents; private lessons, one hour, 25 cents.

The Durand (Mich.) council decided that the town should be cleared of poker joints and a tin horn sleuth of a detective was employed to secure evidence against a questionable place. He entered the joint and was soon engaged in a "quiet game." Somebody got next to the thing in advance however, and before he had a chance to make a complaint, the "detective" found himself under arrest for indulging in gambling and must stand trial for the offense.

A town that has never had anything to do in a public way is on the road to the cemetery. Any citizen who will do nothing for his town is helping to dig the grave. A man that curses the town furnishes the coffin. The man who is so selfish as to have no time to give to village affairs is making the shroud. The man who will not advertise is driving the hearse. The man who is always pulling back from any public enterprise is throwing bouquets on the grave. The man who is stingy and always howling hard times, preaches the funeral and sings the doxology. Thus many a town, that with a little united effort might have been something, has been buried beyond the hope of resurrection.

During the past year all of our societies and organizations have been asking help and patronage from us all, and we (most of us) have willingly and gladly responded. Now comes the time of year when our village asks from each and all these societies, "What are you going to do to make our village neater, better and more attractive?" Let each church improve its grounds, each Sabbath school plant a tree, make a flower bed, put out vines, etc. The Masons, the K. of P's., the Eastern Stars, the Maccabees, the Village Improvement Society, the Women's Literary Club, the Poker Club, the W. C. T. U., and each room in our school, let all be ready to do something for town improvement.

James J. Davenport is again ready to plow your garden at short notice. Call on him.

Prof. C. N. Dewey, the well known penman, will open a writing school as soon as he can organize it. Let everybody send their children.

The annual meeting of the Cemetery Association will be held Saturday afternoon, April 6th, at 2 p. m., at the library room. M. BALDWIN.

The lot owners in our cemetery will greatly assist the officers of the association by a prompt payment of the yearly dues. Do not wait to be asked but pay at once.

J. H. Carter is out for wells for the farmers. He now puts down the iron tube wells that are sanitary and are the best in the world. Read his new ad. in this issue and act accordingly.

G. W. Spencer and wife, of Hudson, Mich., are enjoying a fine visit with their son, H. G. Spencer, of Spencer & Wolcott. They like Birmingham first rate and are proud of the success of their son's business.

Because he was a spiritual husband and because the money which he has paid to his wife was invisible, if not spiritual, Martin Meyer will have to answer a charge of contempt of court before Judge Donovan on April 8.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Baptist church, will hold their monthly business meeting and supper in the church parlors on Wednesday, April 10. All are cordially invited.

BY ORDER OF SEC.

There are 400 insects that would like to destroy our oak trees, and would do so if it were not for our friends, the birds. Were it not for them, no tree or grain would we have. Then why do we not give them better care and protection.

The annual meeting of the St. James church was held on Easter Monday. Reports showed balances in every organization and in the general church treasury and no debts. The following were elected: Warden, Wm. Cobb; Vestrymen, A. Whitehead, Wm. Mills, Earl Jenks.

The widow of Frank Warner, Mrs. Sarah Warner, will make her home with Mrs. John Davidson, of Troy, where she is now. Her late husband, Frank Warner, died within two miles of where he was born 77 years ago. He lived on the farm 45 years without a change up to the day of his death, and was a good man and highly respected by all who knew him.

E. Becker, whose late farm is located ½ mile north of Big Beaver corners on the Rochester electric line at Stop 25, has sold his farm and is off for California. He will have an auction sale tomorrow, Saturday, April 6th, commencing at 1 o'clock, p. m. M. H. Blunt will sell all his personal property, one span of work mares, wagon, harnesses, surrey, buggy, all farming tools, three cows, two heifers, sows and pigs, 40 Leghorn hens, oats, potatoes, etc., household goods, and everything to clean out. Lee Lowry, clerk.

ON THE STREET

What Our Office Angel Heard Yesterday on the Corner Waiting for the Car.

"Say Joe, did you live here before the water-works were put in?"

"Yes Ben, I moved here when every married man kept a pig in his back yard, and the cows ran in the streets; the Presbyterian church then in use is now a little building behind Mel's blacksmith shop, and the Methodists found the present town hall large enough. The town was small, and everybody carried lanterns at night, and Ben, I'd rather have a lantern now than these public blinkers. You know too, Ben, that these lamp-posts cost a lot, but somehow people don't seem to practice economy anymore, nor do they seem to remember that we used to. With a shout to kill in the fall and a cow to milk, our necessities were nearly met. I use I to buy a bolt of good tough cloth, and a suit made of it by my wife would last me two or three years."

"My! Joe, what a change. Not a pig, cow, lantern or home-made suit in town. How did it all come about?"

"Well, Ben, you see, first we knew, some dude on the council presented an ordinance knocking out the pigs and cows because they stunk so,—I always rather liked the odor because it reminded me of frugality,—but kick as we would it carried and its been growing worse ever since. Soon the doctors and dudes began to say that the wells were polluted by the vaults and out-houses, and, (well of course fevers occurred sometimes but the doctors should not have complained,) they proposed to pump artesian water right by every man's house, and I threatened to move away because, while I could continue to use my well, I had to pay my share of the interest on the bonds issued. We have never used a drop of the water. My neighbor's barn got afire once and they rushed down across my garden and put the fire out. My loss was greater than his and I don't believe my house would have burned anyway because the wind was wrong. Now the council reports that the people using the water last year paid $400 more than it cost to run the plant. I don't believe it. Such talk as that just matches what I heard one of the dudes saying this morning in front of the postoffice, where we sort of get together to compare notes."

"Well Joe, what did the dude say?"

"Why he said that the library ladies and Miss Baldwin were going to give the Village of Birmingham several thousand dollars worth of real estate and 2,400 volumes of books. I don't believe it. Ben, who'd give Birmingham a cent? Would you, Ben?"

"Well, Jo, just wait a minute until these delivery wagons and these street cars go by and those three whistles stop blowing for noon. You have always been a knocker against all improvements that most people wish to see made. You tried to keep the pigs and cows, you objected to artesian water and fire protection, you paid nothing to help pay ministers and build new churches, you kicked on better schools, you argued that free rural mail delivery would add to your taxes, that telephones promoted gossip, that the D. U. R. would cause all the people to move to Detroit and that the houses would be empty, you said that Mr. Ford would never be able to rent his big block and that Mr. Schlaack and Mr. Erity were foolish to build new stores, that Drs. Shaw and Johnston could never rent the rooms in their fine new block and now you are wasting your time trying to belittle the value of the library property and the immense good to come from a free reading room and free library. You don't want any such thing of course, but why should you be so selfish? The half-mill tax has been voted and must be raised each year. Now why do you object to the village accepting the ladies' gift? The free library and reading room are assured by the vote of the people. We may have to rent rooms in the Ford block if by any means the library building is not accepted by the village.

"Good-bye, Joe."

"Good-bye, Ben."
