Why is war?

"Made in America" is better.

What a blessing is peace—in the home.

You may know it, but do we? Better tell us.

To Mexico: Now be good or get spanked.

The Turk manfully restrains his diabolical grin.

"Bought at home and used at home" is also good.

Wise men absorb knowledge. Foo's absorb wind.

What effect has the war on America? Ask some one who knows.

Don't be afraid of the other fellow. You may look just as big to him.

Men exhibit battle wounds and call it glory. If the cow kicks them they cuss.

Mr. Frank Allen of Lorain, Ohio, made his mother a visit the past week.

Good breeding is doing nothing needlessly one thinks will hurt or displease others.

Fill your lungs with air and your brain with knowledge and your pockets will fill themselves.

There are people who dwell so much upon past achievements that they fail to perform new deeds.

Emeline M. Mitchell has entered the Detroit Training School of Elocution and English Literature.

The man who thinks he is full of wisdom and knowledge will always be known for his ignorance.

When the mighty lead the little fellows toddle along behind,—but we do get so lonesome in front.

Some public speakers are remarkable for a great flow of words, and other for a great command of language.

To the President: "Buy a bale of cotton" is good. A dollar a year for his paper is also good—very good.

What a satisfaction follows every attempt to do our best. Our self-respect is also increased and the whole life improved.

It is good use and enjoyment, not mere possession, that make men effectually rich. Some men are the poorer for their wealth.

G. Will Crary and family have moved into the house vacated by Mrs. Sibley, who has moved into her home, the Baldwin residence on Willets street. Ira Reed now lives in the Leet house.

In life, habits count more than maxims because habits are maxims put into living and concrete form. But whether those habits benefit the individual and society or the reverse depends upon their character.

Ellsworth Plumstead is home again after a successful season of professional work, touring western and southern states. His parting at Atlantic City from the sad sea waves was particularly sad and heartbreaking.

Woodward avenue, Detroit, has nothing on Woodward avenue, Birmingham. With two digging machines both at work under full head, digging ditches for gas and sewer mains, Woodward avenue is all shot to pieces, as it were.

Our farmer friends can derive great benefits from Parcel Post if they will only wake up and get in the game. Farmers in this vicinity, desiring customers in Detroit to whom they will sell eggs, butter, poultry, fruit etc. or anything else in the lines of produce, (and it can be sent C. O. D. if so desired,) now have the chance. Any one calling on Postmaster Mitchell, at the Postoffice, will receive a slip, which on being filled out will set forth the information, that the signer has certain farm products that he can supply to the consumer in Detroit or elsewhere by Parcel Post. These slips will be distributed in Detroit among consumers, and thus the producer and consumer deal with each other direct,—all by the grace of Uncle Sam's Parcel Post.

The remains were brought here Tuesday and laid to rest in the family lot in Troy cemetery by his wife who passed away 17 years ago. Our streets and avenues twinkle at nights like Christmas trees. Red lights show that mains for gas have been laid south to Maple avenue from Pontiac, west on Maple avenue, south on Pierce street from Maple, east on Brown street from Pierce and south on Woodward avenue. The gas for heating and lighting purposes is being brought from Pontiac by the Pontiac Gas company and will be one of the greatest boons to beautiful Birmingham.

Hiram F. Daniels, 74, sustained a fractured hip and wrist and internal injuries, in an accident last Friday evening. Daniels was crossing Maple avenue and attempted to escape a rapidly driven auto. In doing so the aged veteran stepped in front of a horse driven by the young daughter of Stephen Chatfield. It is said the horse was walking. Daniels was thrown to the ground and painfully injured. He was picked up by Dr. N. T. Shaw who took him home in the machine. He was attended by Drs. Shaw, and George P. Raynale.

And we made the front page of the Saturday Night, thanks to Rondoo! "We copy the following, without elision, deletion or censorship of any kind, from The Birmingham Eccentric, the same being the name of a newspaper and not an adjective: War is dreadful and ought never to have been but providing the German forces retire in good order slowly by degrees to their own territory on the west and tragically act in their own defense there and carry on the offensive against Russia—they will win in the end for their forts on the west are impregnable by any enemy. It is certainly time for the United States government to offer its services in the interest of peace."

The natural actions of Baubien street or Custom House court were outclassed by a dozen youths on the corner of Maple avenue and Woodward avenues, Friday evening at 10 o'clock. Why not name them? For the respect of their parents, we refrain. And yet their parents should be ashamed of advertising such training. One of the benches placed by the village was the bar. The lid was not on as was shown by the actions of at least five young men. One young chap, barely 18, was quickly abandoned by his companions when he reeled across Woodward avenue. Especially choice language was used at all times, quite fitting for the tenderloin. Finally, the young gentlemen of our best families, "strolled" across Woodward avenue, joyously breaking their Old Crow bottles on the D. U. R. tracks. Perhaps a mother's heart was broken too. Shall we name the boys? Why not have a policeman in sight?

The Eccentric had a "death" Saturday. Walter Allen, proprietor of the Birmingham Inn cafe, walked into the office, took down a stick and set a regular item. Allen may make good pie in his cafe but he knows how not to make "pi" in a print shop.

Miss Mary Moutier, of the Moutier Hat Shop, of Pontiac, will exhibit correct fashions in millinery, at The Quality Shop, Saturday, September 26. Miss Moutier has displayed millinery here before and this fall is prepared to show all that is stylish and authentic in millinery modes.

Who is the low down cuss that stole the lamp from C. P. Price's sign? Price claims that the man who hired his children to go to bed without supper, then took the money from them while they slept, and even the fellow who stole the teeter board from the school children some time ago are both gentlemen compared to the thief that took his big lamp.

Captain J. Allen Bigelow was with Gen. Custer, has faced the cannon's roar, and was known never to have turned his back on the enemy during the Civil war but Monday Bigelow met his Waterloo. After listening five minutes to Condor hand out his European war gossip, Bigelow dodged—never received for his musket or canteen—and "beat it." He may be on the run yet.

The editor of a country paper received the following query: "Can you tell me what the weather will be next month?" In reply he wrote: "It is my belief that the weather next month will be very much like your subscription." The inquirer wondered for an our what the editor was driving when he happened to think of the word "unsettled." He went in the next day and squared his account.—Ex.

Some of the lights of literature in bygone days were great sticklers for perfection in printing. Victor Hugo confessed to a passion for punctuation. He made his printers furnish him with eleven revises of the proofs of "La Legende des Siecles," the last ten of which were required only in the right place. Thomas Campbell was equally fastidious. He once walked six miles to a printing office to have a comma changed into a semicolon.—Chicago Tribune.

Flour Test.

A good flour should not be pure white, but rather creamy in tint. When a little is rubbed between the thumb and first finger it should have a slightly granular feeling. A good flour absorbs more moisture than one of inferior quality.
