Would Not Think of Defeat.

As to being prepared for defeat, I certainly am not. Any man who is prepared for defeat would be half defeated before he commenced. I hope for success, shall do all in my power to secure it, and trust to God for the rest.—Admiral Farragut.

A Good Household Salve.

Ordinary ailments and injuries are not of themselves serious, but infection or low vitality may make them dangerous. Don't neglect a cut, sore, bruise or hurt because it's small. Blood poison has resulted from a pin-prick or scratch. For all such ailments Bucklen's Arnica Salve is excellent. It protects and heals the hurt; is antiseptic, kills infection and prevents dangerous complications. Good for all skin blemishes, pimples, salt rheum, eczema. Garrick Theatre.

Miss Jessie Bonstelle and Co.

The idealistic whimsical comedy "We Are Seven," ideal because it was written by that dreamer of beautiful thoughts, Eleanor Gates, and founded upon the title and idea of Wordsworth's poem, and whimsical because of the quaint ideas exploited by Miss Gates, and her manner of handling the story, will be next week's offering by Miss Jessie Bonstelle and her company at the Garrick theatre, Detroit, with the usual matinees on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Diantha Kerr's advanced ideas bring sorrow of an amusing and shocking nature to her maiden aunt. She believes in the cause and effect of thought and from Wordsworth's poem she has gained the idea she will have seven children. They become so very real and human to her that she selects names for them, had determined their sex and what occupations they will follow.

The action is delightful, the clever idealistic thoughts of Miss Gates working out in a manner both innocently amusing and dramatically clever. Miss Bonstelle will be seen as Diantha, Mr. Giles as the deaf and dumb Peter Avery, Leonora von Ottinger as the aunt, Jane Houston as a woman doctor, William Pringle as Col. Avery, Robert Adams as one of the law clerks, and the other individual members of the company have many opportunities.

Matinees will be given on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Mrs. Betsey Shain passed a pleasant Fourth, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Van Auken, of Pierce street.
