HOME NOTES

PERPETUAL NOTICE.

You will please notice date after your name on paper and newspaper. If you wish your subscription expires. If you wish your subscription continues, please send your subscription card and notice.

Van Every's paper still takes the cake.

Ed McKinley's house is being pushed rapidly.

Oxford has a new hotel and is justly proud of it.

Mr. R. W. Gibbs, of Big Beaver, is dangerously sick.

Dr. Conger, of Elizabeth Lake, was in town on Tuesday last.

Spee notes of Beaman farm to rent in cheap column this week.

Almoner Gibbs of Big Beaver is drawing lumber for a new house.

Rev. A. J. Bigelow, our former M.E. pastor, preached at Oxford last Sunday.

Frank Blakeslee & Co. have bought the store now occupied by D. E. Wilber.

An unassuming committee will be attending as usual at the L. L. A. masquerade.

We prophesy an exodus of young men and a few old widowers from town shortly.

Ed P. Jarvis is engaged on the Toledo Morning Journal, and is working his way west.

Prof. Humphrey, of Pontiac, will start a dancing school if enough scholars can be secured.

The latest! Moses K. Taber has a nice talking parrot. The most wonderful! It can talk like a man.

Rev. J. McCreedy will preach in the library hall on next Sabbath evening at 7 p.m. All are cordially invited.

There are more good checker players to the square inch in this town than any long of its size in the state.

Anyone wanting a good house and lot in this village at low rates, can hear of a chance by calling at this office.

Will Hughes has been removed from the hospitality of R. E. Wooster to Mr. John Soverly's on the town lot.

The Birmingham Eccentric, to be consistent, ought to be edited by a Kentuckian—Detroit Free Press. Perhaps it is a little too true.

A coat of alabaster put on an artistic man by Father & Mitchell is what makes Whitehead & Mitchell's store shine so.

Horace Hall and wife entertained a large party of friends with a bountiful dinner on the good old English plan on Thursday last.

Mr. M. J. James had a severe attack of illness on Monday last, but under the care of Dr. C. M. Rayne, we trust she will recover her usual health in a few days.

Old Mr. Stephens the aged father of Dr. Stephens, whose home is just west of the six mile house, is rapidly recovering from a very serious illness.

Mr. Wm. Allen wants his late son at that unknown named man, John Smith, to bring back the keys to his late home and Wm. will be very thankful.

There is a dancing man in town who is so modest that he won't allow his name to be printed. Twelve pupils shook their feet at Father & Mitchell under his supervision on Friday night last.

The L. L. A. have engaged dressing rooms for Mrs. M. Smith, near the hotel for the use of those attending the masquerade. There will be a large number outside so the rooms can be easily found.

The last hop of the Big Beaver dance club was held at the Ribbison hall on Thursday evening last, and a capital time had by all who participated. Almoner's quadrille band furnished the music.

E. B. Newman of Troy, lost a ladies hand bag out of his sleigh on Saturday night last between Albert Adams and Big Beaver. The bag contained about $2. The finder will please leave it at this office.

A new advertisement of Stockwell & Co. appears in this issue, and will attract attention by its terse language and brevity. They mean business and say just what they mean and mean what they say.

List of letters remaining unclaimed in Birmingham P. O., Jan. 31, 1884. Mr. John Bennett, Charles Brown, Mrs. Alice Starr. Persons calling for any of the above please say advertised. J. Allen Bigelow, P. M.

I have just bought a new cook stove, the grand Penitential and I think it is best. If anyone is wanting a first-class stove for a reasonable price, I would recommend them to go with Lee & Harrison, H. Perkins.

There will be a Grand Social and hop at the residence of George Hunt in Troy on Wednesday evening Feb. 6, 1884. Of course the jolly dancers will have a jolly time, and the best of it is, everybody is invited.

One night last week when the thermometer was down to 21 below zero, Whitehead let his coal fire go down a little and consequently his house was a little cold and Jack Baldwin was whistling on greens the next day.

We learn with pleasure that Eddie Bolton, who left the employ of Chas. Root & Co. of Detroit, on Jan. 1st, has secured a lucrative position as traveling salesman for a large Chicago house and is steering this way with fair success for these dull times.

The flyers were all out Saturday last with Mr. German, of near Franklin.
