MAKE THE ROAD SAFE, COURTESY WILL DO IT

By R. Eugene Griggs

Walking down the street the other day I met the very courteous lady reporter for the Eccentric, who said "Mr. Griggs, may we have an article from you this week?" I replied, "Yes, if you will furnish the subject."

The subject was not immediately forthcoming, but on a recent ride to the city, about half way down, I noticed a large sign by the wayside which read as follows, "Make this road safe; Courtesy will do it." At once I found my subject, for there certainly is no subject that needs greater emphasis today in our mad rush, than this very important rule of courtesy in our contact with each other.

The French people are thought to be the most polite and courteous people in the world, and our boys who went overseas, know that the rule of courtesy prevailed in camps of French soldiers, who are often called the best gentlemen in the world.

Only last Sunday, upon returning from our Detroit church, in an auto we found several obstructions on the west side of the road where the pavement was being re-laid. At one of these a young man driving south came in just ahead of us at the narrow half of the road next the obstruction, scraped the fender of the car ahead of us and came very near doing the same to our car, while our young lady driver gave him a well deserved lecture on his violation of the rule of the road and courtesy as well. I hope he will read that sign and practice it in the future. Then how frequently we see the need of a little considerate courtesy in other places than the road.

Some store doors have heavy springs to keep them shut, and how considerate it is as well as courteous, when several people are coming in, to hold the door so that it will not slam in the face of the person following. And yet there are occasionally people in such a hurry, like the young man on the road, that they forget to be courteous. Then upon the walks. How many people seem not to know the rule that applies on the walk, as on the road, that Americans pass on the right, and when two or more persons are walking abreast, it is the duty of the person on the inside to fall back in passing other pedestrians.

Then what shall be done with those persons who violate all rules of courtesy and the civil law as well in the use of vehicles on the walks. Property owners build and pay for walks in front of their homes, and then surrender their exclusive right to these walks for the comfort and use of the public. But they are not intended for roller skating rinks or speedways for bicycles, or coasters pushcarts manned by half-grown boys. This latter use of our walks has become an unmitigated nuisance in Birmingham. Some of our side streets are real race tracks where boys race each other and shout to the pedestrian, "Git out of the way there." Our police force should prohibit this. We have good roads about Birmingham and there is no excuse for any sort of vehicle except it be a baby coach on our own walks.

If the rule of courtesy does not appeal to the parents who have children, then the law should be invoked to protect the rights of older people.

Very near my home there is an old lady who has been suffering three months or more as a result of being knocked down by a boy on a bicycle, who, I fear, did not observe the rule of courtesy. To be courteous is to be kind and considerate, and to recognize the fact that our own rights and privileges end where they conflict with the rights and happiness of other people.

Life itself is a great highway, and if we would make this road safe, and contribute to the happiness of our fellow travelers, we should learn this rule of Christian courtesy.

As the sign board says, "Courtesy will do it."

H. B. CLEMENT, President.
R. J. TAYLOR, Secretary.

Birmingham, Mich., Oct. 3, 1921.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held in the office at 7:30 P. M. Present: H. B. Clement, J. H. McBride, R. J. Taylor, Leigh Lynch and R. J. Taylor.

Meeting was called for the expressed purpose of going into the matter of the Worth street sewer assessment for the Adams school and levied by the Village Commission to the amount of $600. It was decided that the board as a unit go to the Village Commission, which was in session in the City Hall, and obtain from them an explanation regarding the above mentioned assessment. In meeting with the said Village Commission, the President Mr. Clisbe, went into a lengthy explanation as to why arbitrary sum of $600 was made against the district in connection to the Worth street sewer. Mr. Clisbe stated that the Worth street sewer was installed for the expressed purpose of serving the Adams school. The total cost of this sewer was approximately $3000 of which the school district was assessed one-fifth. The Commission stated they figured it would cost the School Board approximately $1000 to $1500 to put in a septic tank and, therefore, they simply arrived at the arbitrary sum of a $600 charge for the school's connection to the Worth street sewer.

After discussing the matter pro and con, the Commission agreed to submit a resolution to the effect that upon payment of $600 assessment, that the district would not be further assessed for any possible connection of the Worth street sewer in the future. The School Board strongly objected to this $600 assessment on the grounds that we were paying a sewer assessment on the Oakland avenue sewer and quite likely would be assessed again for the sewer on Adams avenue when this is installed, but in spite of these objections the Village Commission stood on their decision that the district should pay the $600 assessment as levied.

The School Board then retired from the City Hall to Mr. McBride's office in his store, where a motion was made by Mr. Coryell and seconded by Mr. McBride, as follows: That the Board of Education pay the Village $600 for connection to Worth street sewer, with the understanding that said Commission make a resolution and give copy of same to the Board, to the effect that upon payment of said assessment we would not be held liable for any further assessment on a possible continuation of the Worth street sewer at this or any future time.

The President asked for a yes and no vote on this motion, which carried, as follows:

Moves: Coryell, McBride, Clement and Taylor. Yes. Mr. Leigh Lynch. No.

It might be added also that the Village Commission requested that the District pay this assessment in one lump, inasmuch as this would be of considerable assistance to them at the present time.

Motion was also made by Mr. Coryell and seconded by Mr. Lynch, to the effect that all free moving pictures shown would be held on Friday nights, effect when this might conflict with the future course or season basket ball games, at which time moving pictures should be shown on Saturday night and that all films for the moving pictures, as well as any other movies shown in the auditorium of the Baldwin High school were to be censored or approved by the School Board. Motion carried.

The superintendent was authorized to make up a list and secure quotations from two or more concerns in kindergarten furniture and supplies, to be submitted to the Board at the next special meeting to be held some time within the next two weeks.

Motion made and carried to adjourn.

H. B. CLEMENT, President.
R. J. TAYLOR, Secretary.

Birmingham, Mich., Oct. 8, 1921.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held in the office at 8 p.m.

Present: H. B. Clement, R. J. Taylor, J. H. McBride, R. J. Coryell and Leigh Lynch.

Moved by Lynch, supported by McBride, that $5000 of insurance be placed on the Adams building and contents. Carried.

Moved by Lynch, supported by McBride, that the President, H. B. Clement and Secretary R. J. Taylor, be authorized to borrow $25,000 at the First National Bank and $25,000 at the First State Bank for current expenses of School District No. 1 Fr. Bloomfield, Oakland county, Michigan. Carried.

Moved by Taylor, supported by Lynch, that children in the kindergarten, grade 1 and 2, who live within the limits of the Village of Birmingham east of Woodward avenue shall attend the Adams school when the above named rooms are ready for occupancy.

Moved by McBride, supported by Taylor, that the recommendation of Supt. Vliet that Macdabee Frederick be appointed as Principal of the Adams School be approved. Carried.

The total enrollment for September was reported to be 941, a gain of 23 over the 1920 figure.

Moved by Coryell, seconded by McBride, that R. J. Taylor be appointed assessor of the for free movies. Carried.

Moved and seconded to adjourn. Carried.

THE NEEDLE COLUMN

By Mrs. J. Edward MacAdams

AN UNUSUAL APRON

Occasionally there comes to us from some quaint corner of the earth, an idea of dress possessing such charms as to become immediately a part of our own wardrobe. The gift described below is not only desirable for its practical usefulness, but possesses the qualities so necessary to a thoroughly pleasing feminine garment. It is called the Peasant Apron, sometimes nicknamed the fudge apron. It is made as follows:

Cut a piece of material for the vest, nine and a half inches wide and nineteen inches long. Fold in the middle lengthwise, the cut edges turned inside but do not sew until later. The piece for the skirt is twenty inches wide and from twenty-five to thirty-five long. The lower corners may be either square or rounded. The material for the skirt may be different from that used in the vest. The straps may be cut from either material, three inches wide and thirty-six inches long, folded down the middle and sewed with edges and one end turned in. Hem the skirt, gather the top to the same width as the vest and baste into the long open edge of the vest. Insert the unfinished end of the straps at the lower corners of the vest next to the skirt, but arrange in the same manner as the old-fashioned kitchen apron string. Stitch firmly around the three sides of the vest, fastening all of the parts together.

Snap fasteners are used on the daintier aprons, but if the apron is to have hard usage a substantial pair of hooks and eyes should be used. The straps cross in the back, the right hand strap coming down over the left shoulder. The length should be such that the top of the vest is a little above the arm pit.

Almost any material may be used. There is nearly always a touch of lightness on the vest. Applique, embroidery and beads may be used with good effect.

NEW PHONE DIRECTORIES ARE SAID TO BE CORRECT TO DATE

"We feel that the new telephone directories are as up-to-date as it was possible for us to make them. Names that were omitted from the last issue are in the new ones, additions changed, numbers corrected and changed and all new subscribers listed," said Miss Victoria Mroz, new clerk for the local branch of the Michigan State Telephone Co., in speaking of the 1100 new books which arrived in Birmingham last week.

The local directories are issued every three months. The present number covers all corrections that have been made since the first of August and that have been made so far during October. Besides the usual changes such as Miss Mroz spoke of, there have been some changes in the numbers which will be of importance to the subscribers. All numbers which had the letters M, J, W, or R attached have remained the same but all numbers bearing the letter L now have the letter F affixed with a given number of rings designated. These are farm phones and are distinguished by the F for that reason.

During the three months the local exchange has installed over 50 new phones, numbers for which will be found in the new directory. Many more have applied but because of the facilities of the local exchange at present do not provide for any more phones being installed. However, it is understood that plans are under way which will make it possible for every person in the vicinity to have a phone and the service will be greatly improved with the new system. Announcement of this arrangement, it is expected, will be made before long.

Further discussing the exactness of the directories, Miss Mroz said, "It would facilitate matters greatly if all persons would immediately send in changes of addresses or names and would promptly inform us upon receiving their directory if their number has been listed incorrectly. But we feel that there will be found few mistakes in the new book and are asking the people of Birmingham to help in making future ones even more perfect."
