"East is West," at the Garrick in Detroit, was witnessed last Tuesday evening by a party of young people from Birmingham who were the guests of Miss Alice McGregor of Forest avenue. The affair was in honor of Miss Martha Nye of Daines street.

The Statler Hotel, Detroit, was the scene of an attractive dinner Tuesday evening of this week when Mr. and Mrs. Wylie Bell and Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Smith of Birmingham, entertained at dinner preceding a theater party at the Garrick.

Henry Stephens of Watkins street, is rapidly improving, according to relatives, following his recent illness.

MR. LEO DITRICHSTEIN AT THE GARRICK, DETROIT

The event par excellence of the Detroit dramatic season will be the appearance at the Garrick Theatre, Detroit, the week beginning Sunday, Feb. 12th, of the distinguished actor-playwright, Mr. Leo Ditrichstein, in his world-renowned success "The Great Lover." This engagement is made possible because of the fortunate circumstance that Detroit chances to be on the railroad route selected for Mr. Ditrichstein's tour to the Pacific Coast, where the star will spend the spring and summer putting on a repertoire of past successes and trying out new plays for next season.

"The Great Lover" is a romantic comedy in three acts. In fine fashion the play shows the vanities of the darlings of the operatic stage, always striving for public applause, and by the same token, always envious of the success of associates. It is a play abundant in humor and sentiment. Mr. Lee Shubert, under whose personal direction Mr. Ditrichstein will appear, has been successful in securing for the star's supporting company many of the original New York cast.

Social and Personal News

Although the affair is not scheduled until Friday, Feb. 17, several groups of young people from Birmingham have planned to motor to Franklin that evening for the dance which will be held at Franklin Hall under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Franklin Cemetery association. Excellent music has been arranged for and everything will be in readiness by the middle of the week for one of the most delightful dances of the season. Mrs. Andrew Bowden, Mrs. Joseph Gravlin, Mrs. Fred Van Avery, Mrs. W. Johnston and Miss Minnie Leet have been chosen to act as the dining room committee and to serve as chaperons for the evening. The dance committee is composed of Harry Nixon, Bateman Wood, Ed Mason and Bert Beebe. Everyone is invited.

Owing to the unusual success of the dancing party held Friday evening Feb. 3, at the new Odd Fellows' Temple, on Pierce street, officers of the lodge have planned to hold these dances every Friday evening for a while. One of the members chosen to act on the dance committee said this week that the best orchestra music would be furnished at these dances and that everyone was invited to attend. Dancing will start at 8 o'clock.

D. A. Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Green, 438 Townsend street, who has been in Los Angeles, Cal., since early in 1920, left there for his home this week. Mr. Green has been attending school in California. He will probably remain in Michigan some time as the guest of his parents.

A capacity house witnessed the American Legion "movie" at the Baldwin auditorium Thursday evening when "After Your Own Heart" was shown. The Legion has planned an extensive campaign for membership to be staged this spring and is rapidly becoming one of the foremost organizations in the Village.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Eugene Griggs of Willetts street, entertained Miss Lulu Prevost of Big Rapids, at their home over last week-end. Miss Prevost is an instructor in the public schools of Detroit.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

the two commissioners associated with him, and the superintendent of public work paid well for the months of service only, we would get more and better service at a net saving to the people.

It is absurd to have the manager or superintendent as the head of the police department. It would be better to have an additional officer as chief, who would be entirely responsible for that department. The office of clerk should not be elective, but he or she should be hired by the Commission, the same as any other clerk or bookkeeper. I hope that the present commission will put their stamp of disapproval upon that Covert road on Adams avenue, as we certainly have had enough of that kind of road construction on Southfield.

Herbert Hoover, who holds high rank among the great economists of the world, said last week in Washington, that taxes must be lowered, rents and high salaries following, and the people must cut out extravagance before we can get back to old time prosperity.

We must eliminate waste, he added, and the middle man and others must be brought to sanity by the thrift of purchasers of their goods who dare to ask prices before they buy, and to reject if same shall seem exorbitant. He shows how all these factors act and react upon each other, expressing themselves in the present abnormal condition of business.

I believe that here in Birmingham we should begin to practice these very sensible suggestions of our great secretary of commerce. Let us begin now.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Harris, 406 South Woodward avenue, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Allene, to Mr. Atlee Traxler of Pontiac, at a dinner Feb. 5, honoring her nineteenth birthday. Both Miss Harris and Mr. Traxler are employed at the offices of the Michigan Light Company at Royal Oak. Miss Harris has been a resident of Birmingham since early childhood.

WE HEARD IT SAID BY—

Captain J. Allen Bigelow, resident of Birmingham for many years: "The work of the Birmingham Relief Committee cannot be too highly commended. I can compare what the members today are doing to what a few big-hearted citizens tried to do years ago when there was no such organization. One or two good citizens tried to accomplish what it takes a live, wide-awake body of people to do and do well. No one ever thought of an organization at that time and we just got along without organized welfare work with many sad cases within our gates that should have been given aid as it is being given today. The work the committee is doing is worthy of consideration by every resident of Birmingham and is deserving of help of any kind that can be given from men, women and children."

Mrs. A. W. McAlmont, a resident of Ferndale avenue: "The post-office service of this village is splendid, I think, for a town its size. We recently came here from Detroit and I feel that we are getting better mail service here than we did there. We are more than pleased with the service given us in Birmingham."

H. B. Clement, a resident of Pierce street: "I was approached upon the question a few weeks ago as to a future Village President. I confessed at the time that I had not given it a great deal of thought. But from that time on I did give it thought and I feel that every citizen of Birmingham should take these matters to heart and seriously consider them, and later, when a few loyal citizens have gone to the polls and put a group of men in office, not continually grumble about the way the village is being run when they did not take the initiative to even consider at matter at the right time."

Honoring Miss Elsie Cobb of Oakland avenue, who was home from school for the week-end, Miss Kathleen Van Zandt entertained at a dinner Tuesday evening, at her home.

Rev. and Mrs. Peter MacKay of Oakland avenue, entertained their daughter, Miss Rachel, and Miss McKeller of Ypsilanti, last week-end.
