LET'S MAKE A FRESH START

The all-wise hand of Providence which looks after little children and also prevents the blind prejudices of citizens from being translated into lasting iniquity by the medium of the ballot, has again intervened in our Village. We now find both our water factions nursing defeat and the situation at the pumps remains unchanged. This may prove fortunate.

With the Spring election for Village fathers only a few weeks distant it is probably just as well that neither of the propositions of the recent special election were authorized. Either might have caused considerable embarrassment to the men who will be chosen to administer Birmingham's affairs during most of 1922, depending upon how their particular minds had been predetermined. And such embarrassment could not have been done otherwise than to help perpetuate the petty and personal bickerings that have kept Village affairs in a constant urmoil and have been heavy anchors upon the ship of progress.

As it is now we can start with a clean, fresh slate, if we will.

We can select from among the many splendid and conscientious citizens of our Village, commissioners who will enter upon their administrative duties, unprejudiced by the disputes of former years, unbiased by any devotion to a particular municipal hobby, and of sufficient solidity to shut their eyes to every outside political influence.

Birmingham is passing through a critical period of its municipal history. In the transition from a purely rural village to a modern suburban community, there are many pressing and difficult problems to be worked out. More than one are of prime importance and must be given immediate and continued attention. And to do this we should have an administratron that has the breadth of vision to consider all municipal problems, not one to which it is committed either by predilection or by campaign promises.

It is to be hoped that the sensible citizenry of the Village, which unquestionably is in the big majority, will forget how it has voted in the past and will band itself together with the fundamental object of eliminating for all time this sequence of political "feuds" whose histories date so far back that the present day skirmishes must needs be colored by the prejudices of years ago.

BIRMINGHAM

B stands for "Busy,"
As busy can be—
I stands for Industry,
For you and for me.
R stands for Righteousness,
Long may it stay,
M stands for Merry
And happy and gay;
I means Integrity,
Everywhere found,
N stands for Nothing that's
Not safe and sound—
G is for Goodness,
Her citizens' boast—
H stands for Homes,
Of which there's a host—
A means that All of us
Are loyal and true,
M is for Merciful
Things that we do—
And this list of first letters
If placed side by side.
Spells the name of our Village
Our Home and Our Pride.

A number of local citizens have expressed a desire to run for Township Treasurer in April. It will probably be a spirited contest.

Postmaster George H. Mitchell retires from his office in the Fall. A number of local persons are inclined to believe that each of them will be given the place—although no definite word has been received from President Harding as to his choice. Boy, page Pat Kelly!

Made your choice for our new Village President yet?

It is said that more than a hundred new homes will be constructed in Birmingham in the spring. There's room for many more than that number, so tell your Detroit friends why they should live here!

"Water, water everywhere,
But not a drop to drink"—
We said this all last summer,
But now what do you think?

Old Dad Clizbe is a merry old soul, and Phil Schlaack and Bill Brown are thus three. But if water we need, then's let's show some real speed, and adopt as our creed: "Let's do this great deed." Merrily, then, we'll roll along; verily, then, we'll sing a song, and we'll call for our pipe and we'll call for our bowl and so happy, so happy we'll be.

What has become of the Birmingham Civic Association?

Now John Hanna—you know who he is—
Is a true, tried and trusted old soul.
For he handles our "mon"
Keeps us all on the run—
Yet he keeps us as well "in the hole."

Your money will go further if you patronize the merchants who advertise in the Eccentric. The merchant who advertises renders his patrons a real service, and he is bound to stand behind the arguments se sets forth in the printed word. Tell your merchant that you saw his ad in the Eccentric.

Have faith in the goodness of your town. Your town is representative of you—and surely you would not want ill and disparaging remarks made about yourself. Birmingham is the best place in all the world to make your home—believe it!

Watch the activities of the Birmingham Real Estate Board! They are a fine, live bunch of real "He-men."

Whom are you going to vote for at the annual spring election? Think it over!

How many trees will you plant this spring?

Good printing and good service can be obtained at the Eccentric office.

Don't forget to boost Birmingham by boosting for a "wider Woodward avenue."

If you have a suggestion for the betterment of Birmingham, send it in to the "People's Column." We'll gladly print it and it won't cost you a cent.

For as little as 25 cents you can advertise in the "Classified Column" of the Eccentric—try it!

Bought your spring automobile yet?

Tell your merchant that you are glad he is progressive enough, and doing well enough, to advertise his wares in the Eccentric.

It is impossible for us to learn first hand of everything that is going on in Birmingham or near by. We gladly print any items that you may phone to the Eccentric office. Just ask central for "11"—we'll do the rest. Thank you.

We hesitate to ask local patrons of the D. U. R. what they think about the rumor that the fares are to be increased to two cents a mile.

FROM THE ECCENTRIC COLUMNS

Forty Four Years Ago

James Beattie has been appointed deputy sheriff for two years more.

The Shakespeare Club of Birmingham reads "Hamlet" Tuesday of last week.

The Ladies' Library Society received a box of books from Mr. Jenny, Secretary of State, and T. W. Ferry, U. S. Senator.

Little Bertha Bigelow has been very ill for the past week but is again able to interview her many friends.

The ladies of the Industrial School want people to know that if there is anyone in need of clothing or things to eat, they can call at the school and get supplied as far as is possible.

The Birmingham Horse Club will hold a meeting at the National Hotel tomorrow night.

The new boiler for Stanley's foundry arrived last week.

For sale, a good house and lot on Saginaw street (now Woodward avenue), for $800.

For sale, 40 acres of land just outside of Birmingham for $1800.

Twenty Five Years Ago

William Parks shipped from our depot recently 53 fine hogs that weighed 300 pounds each.

The Pontiac and Sylvan Lake Street Railway fails to pay expenses. Total earning for 1896 was $5,855.90 and running expenses were $6,395.

Helen M. Wilkinson and Wilmot H. Wood were married January 27, 1897.

William Davenport and Samuel Reed are the proud fathers of young sons this week.

There were 315 marriage licenses issued and 47 divorces applied for in Oakland County in 1896.

A petition has been circulating throughout the countryside which will be given to Governor Pingree urging him to use his influence toward the enactment of a law requiring all electric railroads running into the country to carry freight, milk and farm produce of all kinds. Farmers and business men in our village are very much in favor of it.

There is a great deal of fuss lately about the Plank Road. We want something done. Birmingham wants to go to Pontiac and return the same day and not wait hours and hours for a train. Maybe some day we can go to Pontiac on the electric railway.

Here is a chance for someone to make a little fortune in Birmingham; 16 acres bounded on the north by Harmon street, where the new electric railroad power plant is about to be erected, and on the west by Cemetery avenue with a 60 foot street running north to intersect with Saginaw avenue (Woodward avenue). The price is $5,000.

"PRESS PICKINGS"

The Bradt Wheel Company of Rochester, a $16,000 concern organized for the purpose of manufacturing and selling wheels and other articles has been incorporated. Stockholders are: Harold J. Bradt, Rochester, 100 shares; Peter C. Raymond, Rochester, 40 shares; Robert H. Hodson, Birmingham, 10 shares; and Jesse H. Leland, Detroit, 10 shares.

Royal Oak Savings Bank stockholders re-elected all officers and directors and named Miss Tressa O. Fox and Wilfred C. Codling assistant cashiers at their annual meeting last week.

A play following the ideas of the instigators of the Little Theater movement, was presented in Berkley Theater, Jan. 26, by the pupils in the eighth grade at the Berkley school under the direction of Miss Lucy Foley, their teacher.

The proposed eight district Oxford consolidation was defeated last week by the taxpayers of the interested districts by a total vote of 220 to 100.

Pontiac's new National Guard organization is showing a steady increase in recruited membership and it is expected it will be ready for government acceptance before Feb. 1, it has been announced by Sergt. A. Crisp, recruiting officer.

Directors of the Farmington State Savings Bank at Farmington have offered the basement of the new bank building for township library purposes. The present quarters of the library are not convenient and at times they are not comfortable, and this generous offer will doubtless be accepted. The bank will permit other societies to use the room for meetings if they desire, thus making it a sort of community center. The room is large and well-lighted.

Berkley has been split into two factions by the fight over the proposed sale of the temporary school building to the Berkley Community church. At the meeting of the school board last week two petitions were presented to the board, one asking that the board rescind its action in selling the building to the church for $300, the other asking the board to ignore the first petition and allow the sale to stand.

The Oakland county road maintainance department has a snow plow rigged up at the side of a truck which they are using to shove the snow further off the road after the ordinary snow plow has cleared the center in the usual manner.

Little blue flags adorned by white stars—the blue of loyalty and the white of purity—are expected to appear soon in the windows of Holly homes and business places where prohibition enforcement is practiced and liquor is banned.

Judson Smith, Brookside Park, will sail Feb. 21 for France. He will be in Europe for several months. Mr. Smith has become well known throughout Michigan as an artist. His works are among some of the best in the state. He will hunt new subjects while in Europe and is making the trip in the interests of his work. He will probably show his new pieces at a private exhibit upon his return.

Miss Marion Peters entertained at her home on Southfield avenue, Saturday evening, following a rather unique party when a group of local young people loaded "bobs" and enjoyed sleighing through the country behind a heavy touring car. These parties have become popular with the younger set and it has even become the latest thing for the perfectly dignified and stately chaperone to accompany the party on the bob. The party Saturday evening included the Misses Delphine and Lillian Vhay, Margaret and Katherine Donnelly, Edith Robinson, Jimmie Vhay, Reward Smith, Thornton Walker, John Luscombe and Fred Young.

Preparations are being made for a concert to be given the middle of February by the members of the local Choral Society, which has been meeting every Tuesday evening in the Junior session room of the Baldwin high school. For a while the society planned to present a light opera, but owing to the fact that the talent was limited, heads of the society thought it best to give a program of individual numbers. Some outside talent has been secured and the affair promises to be a real treat for Birmingham.

BIRMINGHAM HOUSEWIVES INTERESTED IN LAUNDRY

"Many outside interests are occupying the time of modern housewives and they welcome such conveniences as bakeries, cleaning establishments, laundries, etc.," said E. J. Campbell, one of the proprietors of the Royal Oak Wet Wash Laundry, in discussing the increasing trade in Birmingham.

This laundry has been in existence for over a year in Royal Oak and at present has over twice as many customers as it did a year ago, according to Mr. Campbell. For several weeks trade has been solicited in Birmingham and as a result a great many housewives have taken advantage of the service. Mr. Campbell said that the reasons wet wash laundries were becoming so popular could be summed up easily. He said that instead of the pieces being sorted and washed with similar pieces from other washings, a family washing was laundered all together. This eliminates marking in the old way and time and expense are saved in this manner, Mr. Campbell said.

For years all three proprietors, E. J. Campbell, Ervin Campbell and Charles Folson, have been in the laundry business and are experienced in their line. They feel that although the wet wash laundry service is comparatively new, they have as complete and modern equipment as is possible today. They are able to give the best service possible and will be pleased to discuss details with prospective customers.

STUDENTS EXHIBIT WORK

Much interest is being taken in a display window of Shain's Drug Store where articles made in the public schools of Birmingham are being shown. It is the intention of Clarence Vliet, superintendent of schools, to interest the people in what is being done by the students. He feels that the one day set aside each year for an exhibit is not sufficient to let the townspeople know what the boys and girls are capable of. Each week for a series of weeks, the display will be changed. The first exhibit was given by the manual training department and was worthy of the highest comment.

This past week the girls of the domestic art class have had charge of the window and exhibited three dresses, planned and made by members of the class. There are also numerous small articles which show the infinite value this training will be to the girls in the future.

Each week the display is changed and the window is kept lighted at night by the students in charge that week. Mr. Shain feels a strong interest in the students and offered one of the best display windows in the store for the purpose.
