They Visit New York and the "Old Man" Tells the History.

"Entering High Life as 'A' means on Canton."

"How do you like to go to New York?" asked the old man, looking at the young man who sat next to him.

"I should like to go very much," answered the young man, "but I don't have the money."

"You don't have the money?" asked the old man, looking at him with a smile.

"No, sir," answered the young man, "I have not a cent in the world."

"What a pity," said the old man, "I wish I could help you."

"I am sure you would," said the young man, "if you were rich."

"I am not rich," said the old man, "but I have a way."

"What is it?" asked the young man, leaning forward.
