Spring Entices Two Youths From Home

George Schultz, 15 years old, is at home today at 805 Brown street after leaving Saturday afternoon with George McKinney, 15 years old, to go to Arizona. Police were notified of the disappearance of the two boys by the parents Sunday, and on Monday evening a description of the two was broadcast from one of the Detroit radio stations. They are the sons, respectively, of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Schultz and Edward McKinney, of Baldwin avenue.

Schultz gave as his reason for returning the fact that he found his funds getting low in St. Louis, and decided he had just enough to get back to Birmingham. McKinney, he said, decided to go on to his destination.

REAL ESTATE FIRM OPENS OFFICE HERE

Opening of a branch office in Birmingham is announced by A. F. Sauer, president of John Ward Howland Inc., Detroit's oldest real estate operators. This company until recently limited its activities to Detroit. During 1926, in the 67th year of its operation, the organization's efforts were turned to the development of Birmingham properties. Pembroke Manor, a subdivision in the village and lying east of Woodward avenue, was offered to the public last year.

"It was to provide greater convenience for our clients and prospective buyers that we have opened our new branch office at East Maple and Monnier roads. This office is in charge of R. J. Young, one of our oldest men in point of service," said Mr. Saur.

APPROVE PAVING

The village clerk today has instructions to certify the assessment roll for the paving of George street between Woodward avenue and Pierce street following the hearing Monday night when no objections were offered by property holders on that street.

Theaters

UPTOWN OPENS

Luxury achieved by imported marbles, color obtained by gold and red silk damask paneling and immense foyers warmed by huge fireplaces are the prominent features of the new Keith-Albee Uptown theater, which opens in Highland Park Monday.

Extension of Keith-Albee vaudeville into the rapidly expanding north Woodward section has been under consideration for some time. Opening of the new house, at Woodward avenue and Six-Mile road is the fruition, consequently, of a long-held dream of the Keith-Albee interests to place their programs within convenient reach of an outlying community which already has been numbered among of the best customers of this type of entertainment.

The new House, it is claimed, will be Michigan's largest neighborhood theater and one of the four largest playhouses in the state. It will have between 3,000 and 3,200 seats, the broad main floor alone seating approximately 2,000. The balcony, reached by three wide ramps off the mezzanine, and six boxes along the sides of the theater provide facilities for about 1,000 more.

The lobby entrance, floored in travertine marble and wainscoted with yellow Siena, leads off toward avenue through triple sets of doors to the main auditorium and the enormous foyer. The office of the manager and the men's smoking room adjoins the foyer on the left; a woman's lounge, the walls of which are covered in gold damask is on the right.

Two staircases of heavy marble pillars and balustrade ascend from the mezzanine lounge, which also is fitted with retiring rooms for men and women and is elaborately furnished. Ramps enter the balcony from the mezzanine.

Red and gold damask are used in the panels, these deeper shades offering effective contrast to the delicate ivories, lavenders and gold leaf employed in the wall finishes. Cove-lighting, supplemented by a series of elaborate chandeliers, will supply the illumination.

A $50,000 Organ is part of the equipment, in view of the fact that the policy of the house will be part picture and part vaudeville.

The theater will be "booked" with pictures and vaudeville direct from the home office of the Keith-Albee Circuit in New York City.

CASS

Helen Hayes has proved such a favorite in Detroit on her initial appearance as a star in Sir James M. Barrie's comedy "What Every Woman Knows" that the engagement has been extended for another week. As the original booking was for two weeks, the final performances will now be March 19.

Miss Hayes has never been better than in this simple comedy of domestic life, and the fact that playgoers have echoed the approval of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, is evidenced by the box office receipts. Originally opened last spring at the Bijou Theater, New York, for a run of 4 weeks only, public response was such that the play ran until December, spanning summer and fall.

GARRICK

Positively the last week of the Detroit engagement of George Arliss in Winthrop Ames' production of John Galsworthy's "Old English" begins in the Garrick Theatre Monday night, March 7. As Mr. Arliss never acts on Sunday, there will be no performance that evening. As Mr. Arliss is on the stage at the rise of the curtain and as the basis of the story is revealed at once, playgoers are urged to be seated before 8:20 at nights and 2:30 at the Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

The 650th performance of "Old English" will be given on Tuesday night. Mr. Arliss acted "Disraeli" for five years in America, approximately 1500 times, though no accurate record was kept of this. "The Green Goddess" was played by him for three years in America and one year in London, 1200 times in all. In the face of most attractive offers for his appearance in this play in Australia, South Africa and on the Pacific Coast, he closed "The Green Goddess" to produce "Old English."

GOOD FRIDAY THEATER SERVICES

The special Good Friday gatherings, held each year in the leading downtown theaters of Detroit under auspices of the Detroit Council of Churches and through co-operation of the Kinsley organization, will include a new, special feature this year, according to plans now being arranged. The Good Friday meetings will be held about noon of April 15 and it is expected that the greatest attendance in history will make the event historic.

This year the magnificent Michigan theater will be turned over to the Council of Churches for a mammoth meeting of young people. This innovation is at the suggestion of the various young peoples' organization of all churches, with 36,000 membership. The 5,000 seats of the Michigan will all be occupied, it is expected. Special speakers are to be on the program, which is to end about 2:15 to permit the theater to resume its regular performances.

The Capitol, State, Madison and Adams theaters also will be turned over to the churches for several hours on Good Friday.

BONSTELLE

"Easy Come, Easy Go," which will be the next attraction at the Bonstelle Playhouse, Detroit, beginning Monday night, March 7, is one of Owen Davis' most sparkling comedies, written in typical Davis style. Laugh follows laugh, in rapid succession.

"Easy Come, Easy Go" has to do with a professional and an amateur crook who combine their efforts in robbing a bank. In making a hasty escape, they find themselves on the "wrong" side of a through train, surrounded by men of no uncertain reasons, bound for a retreat for the very rich. The situations which confront these bank robbers and their fellow travelers make for comedy of the rarest type, and keep the audience in an uproar through three delightful acts.

HUNT'S BRIEFS

EDITORIAL

ONE OF AMERICA'S MOST SELECT RESIDENCE COMMUNITIES

Not many years ago, the Ottawas, Ojibwas, Chippewas, Pottawatomies, Hurons and Miamis smoked the calumet on Bloomfield Hills. Then unmolested, they roamed this land of lakes, and held great powwows on its now exclusive lawns. And through among the wooded hills, a renowned and powerful warrior ruled supreme over all the country. Pontiac, chief of the Ottawas, was once a resident of Bloomfield Hills.

But today a Wider Woodward stretches northward to this suburban Village of Birmingham—a select community, far from the noise and smoke of the crowded City, yet brought close to the down-town business center by unequaled transportation facilities over the Greatest Highway in the World.

It is to Bloomfield Hills and Birmingham — with its lakes, hills, country clubs and hand-some residences surrounded by broad lawns, gardens, and stately trees — that discriminating families are turning for the expression of their residential ideal. It is in this environment of exclusiveness, of unmatched natural beauty, that hundreds of Detroiters will build attractive homes in 1927 —Detroiters who appreciate uncrowdedness, seclusion, and beautiful surroundings.
