DELAY OPENING OF SCHOOL

Construction On Holy Name Building Not Completed

According to announcement made today by Rev. Father William W. Ryan, pastor of the Chapel of the Holy Name, the opening of the new school and convent on Harmon avenue, west of the chapel, will be postponed until some time late in September due to delay in construction.

Work was started on the school early in March. The building is Gothic in its lines and has been built in such a manner that additions can be made when necessary without marring the line of the building. The main building will contain school rooms for the first eight grades where classes will be held after the completion of the building.

VILLAGERS AND THE VILLAGE

"Golf news?" said she. "What do you want of golf shoes?" asked he. And what did she want of golf shoes? She didn't know. She was just a golf editor—not player.

Politicians, claims Norman C. Orr, first assistant prosecutor of Oakland County, are born and not made. This contention is supported by an observation of his eldest son, Bill, who has attained the ripe old age of eight years. Norm's dog barked so much that some of his neighbors over at Big Beaver begged him to do something about it. His mother-in-law observed in the presence of Billy that if the dog were not talked into being reasonable the neighbors would probably desert Norm on Sept. 4, when he is up for nomination to the office of prosecutor, and vote, instead, for his opponent, Clarence Smith. "Well, in that case," observed Bill, "I guess the best thing we can do is to give the dog to Clarence Smith."

Summer bachelors are discernable, it is noted by a villager of some observation, by the missing buttons on their wilted white shirts, their regular attendance at the movies and the expression of a dog which finds great disillusionment in finally being released from the leash.

One restaurant owner in Birmingham declares that people seem to have about the same tastes in both winter and summer. Except on the very warm days, he says, hot dishes are always in demand. Even when the thermometer is hovering above 90, it is surprising to notice the number of persons who want warm meats and warm drinks, he reports.

A shining copper ball now reposes atop the new flag pole on the lawn of the Barnam School following the daring steeplejack "stunt" of Floyd Vickoryous. The ball is a special type larger than the average, being 16 inches in diameter, covered with gold leaf, and valued at $15. The flag pole, over 50 feet in height, erected recently, has a concrete base buried five feet in the ground and the total cost is approximately $275. It replaces the old wooden pole which formerly stood on the roof of the school. The addition of the ball was suspended until yesterday morning as a special size was ordered. The steeplejack from the George P. Johnson flag and decorating company of Detroit, was hoisted on a small quarter inch rope to the top of the pole by his mate, Hazen Morrow and he attached the pole's head piece. What looks like a thrilling proposition to the average person is commonplace to this man as he often mounts poles several times a day.

The meanest man in all the town is the counter man at a restaurant here who made two young men pay for the laundering of a tablecloth upon which coffee had been spilled. This information was relayed to the Wanderer by one of the young men who asked what tablecloths are for, if not that.

The latest in auto washing racks appears to be the stream near the cider mill at Franklin. At least there it was being utilized by three youngsters Tuesday evening for that purpose. They had driven their car into the water, donned boots and started scrubbing.

Some children have all the fun. Tuesday afternoon on the east Maple road near Birmingham a little girl with large eyes and long curls was riding a huge horse and hitched to the horse was a vehicle similar to a Kiddie Kar on which three of her friends were riding. In a powerful touring car that drove past, another little girl, slightly more pale, looked on wistfully.

Our own Billy Dove claims the record for receiving misdirected mail of all persons living in Birmingham. He received a letter the other day which first had gone to Birmingham, Saskatchewan. That reminds us that Arthur Haigren sometime ago had self addressed envelopes printed with "Michigan" in the largest possible capital letters. The first one he mailed back home, went to Birmingham, Ala.

GREEN ISSUES PROCLAMATION

Workers Of State Praised In Labor Day Statement

Gov. Fred W. Green praised the workers of the state in his Labor Day proclamation issued from Lansing this week. He also officially fixed the first Monday of September for the official observance of the day.

Birmingham is to be quiet Monday—Labor Day—as no celebrations have been planned. Many villagers are leaving for over the week-end as the final holidays of the summer.

The proclamation follows:

"The first Monday in September has been designated as Labor Day. On that day America pays honor to those who toil with hand and brain. Among the nations of the world only the United States accords this recognition to its workers.

"It is fitting that the dignity and importance of labor be thus emphasized. Our nation is the product of labor. Indeed, it is not too much to say that the workers—and I use term in its broader sense—constitute the indispensable factor in the development and maintenance of civilization. Without capable and contented workers, progress would be impossible, and mankind would revert to barbarism.

"No government can have a more important task than that of promoting the welfare of its workers. We in Michigan may feel proud of the fact that we have done our part toward placing labor upon a plane in keeping with its importance. Progress has brought to our state the complicated problems which always accompany the transition of an agricultural community to an industrial community. We are now one of the greatest industrial states of the union, and our ideals regarding labor must keep step with the progress of our industries.

"Labor Day this year affords us an opportunity to look back over a path marked by achievement and to look forward to greater accomplishment by and for those who toil."

Two More Women Robbed By Auto Bandit In Hills

monds valued at $775 and $45 in cash. The only difference in the two robberies is that Mrs. Dunlap was beaten and bound hand and foot while neither Mrs. Hinkle nor Mrs. Doyle was molested.

Give Description

The women Monday walked to the police station a mile from the robbery in the Hills and made the report to Anderson who immediately drove through the roads there seeking the man. No trace of him was found, however.

"He was very polite all the way out," Mrs. Hinkle told the officer. "Only when he stopped the car and ordered us out he seemed to have turned into a madman."

He was about 30 years old, dark, about five feet eight inches tall and of a build described as "slim." He was dressed in a brown checked suit and wore a panama hat. He drove a Chrysler roadster of dark green.

Mrs. Hinkle gave up a diamond ring valued at $200 and the $40 in cash as well as a signet ring of undetermined value. Mrs. Doyle surrendered a diamond ring valued at $75.
