BIRMINGHAM - MICHIGAN.

TIMELY TOPICS.

MICHIGAN furnishes one of the latest and best illustrations of the effects of disuse upon a novel reading on the brain and heart of the young. A few days ago a number of young boys were discovered in a cave in a swamp near that city. The cave had been neatly-boarded up, and fitted so as to be comfortable for a winter's sojourn. Every arrangement showed careful and systematic planning. In the cave were found several barrels of whisky, a case of imported gin and various other articles which had been stolen from different business places in the village. It transpires that a number of youngsters had received and carried out the plan of making a snug retreat for the winter in the manner in which they intended to spend the winter months can easily be imagined. Only for a slight accident the plan would not have been discovered and frustrated. The boys all have comfortable homes, but that there is something lacking in the discipline of the homes is evident from the foregoing.

THAT the "beginning of the end" of the disgraceful practice of polygamy is at hand is evident from the zeal with which territorial judges are prosecuting all violations of the Edmunds-Tucker law. The sentiment of the judges is "that a religion based on crime, can not and will not stand." Eight leading polygamists were sent to the penitentiary a few days since with the words quoted above as a parting sa ute. With judges thoroughly imbued with the above sentiment in the bench, Mormon influence will not long stand. Another very hopeful sign is the excommunication from the Mormon church of Albert Cunningham one of the 12 apostles of the church, for adultery and lascivious conduct. It is these stray straws which indicate very plainly which way the wind of public sentiment is blowing.

The colored church of Douglassville, Ga., has been greatly excited over a singular affair. On August 1 last it was discovered that Miss Abercrombie, a 14-year old white girl, had been betrayed by a Negro named Peter Stamps. Peter was a church member, a married man and a favorite with his race. When the news of his crime became known Peter was promptly arrested and promptly l neched. Then the church of which Stams was a member took the matter up, notwithstanding Stamps was dead. Charges of immoral conduct were preferred against him and he was duly cited by proclamation from the church door to appear for trial. At the meetin the other night the vote was finally taken and Brother Stamps was duly expelled from membership.

All the sheriffs in Michigan have received letters from the committee appointed by the national prison association convention held at Detroit recently. The letters suggest the scheme of selecting and designating two daily papers in the state in which sheriffs shall publish immediate notice and description of criminals and stolen property. It was also thought that the sheriffs of the state should take into consideration the question of a permanent jailer in each of our county jails, who should be appointed by the board of supervisors and removed only by the circuit judge for cause.

THE London Times, commenting on the anti-Chinese crusade on the Pacific coast of the United States says: If Chinese emigration into the United States was thoroughly blocked for a period, the Chinese might meet with favorable opportunities at home and their immigration into the United States be altogether diverted. The attempt to turn back the tide of foreign coolie labor by the means resorted to by the mobs in the western parts of the United States is odious and the injustice done the Chinamen in the recent attacks on them is an act of spoliation committ d against the world at large.

"MARK TWAIN" has written for the forthcoming December Century "The Private History of a Campa gn that Failed," an account of his own personal experiences as a youthful "reb" in the early days of the war. This "war article" is illustrated with maps drawn by the author, and some striking pictures by Kemble. There is said to be nearly as much tragedy as comedy in the sketch, which has a special value as showing the fluctuations of opinion at the breaking out of the war, and the entirely amateur character of some of the early campaigns.

Fourteen months ago Joseph Dyer, living near Portland, Maine, was thrown from a wagon and received such severe injuries that he remained unconscious and was buried. Students dug him up for the purpose of dissecting the body, but found signs of life. He was taken care of by the students and a few days ago returned to his mother, completely recovered. He says he knew nothing of his burial beyond what the students told him. He is now as well as ever and his mother looks upon him with awe as one risen from the dead.

A man living at Red Wing, Minn., has a pair of golden candlesticks which he says he dug out of an Indian mound at Waukesha, Wis., and which he thinks are the golden candlesticks which formed part of the decoration of Solomon's temple. The man is very confident that if other Indian mounds be explored, there will be found other articles of bric-a-brac which are to shed light the aesthetic taste of the wise king will be brought to light.

WILLIAM SHIELDS a Tustabwassee weather prophet, says thére wil l be two weeks mo of wet weather to be followed by a de lightful Indian summer, and an open ci winter. Mr. Shields has been predicting weather for 18 years, and that he still lives is an evidence that he has done some good work.

'AROUND A GREAT STATE.

November Crop Report.

For the Michigan crop report for November the secretary of state received reports from 900 correspondents representing 691 townships; 600 of these returns are from 400 townships. In the southern four tiers of counties the weight of measured bushels of the crop varied of 1895 is 100 per cent. of the full weight, or sixty pounds. The area of seeded wheat this fall in the southern four tiers of counties is 101, 1-per cent. and in northern counties 102, per cent. of area seeded in 1894, indicating a present acreage in the state of the counties of 1,295,000 acres, and in northern counties 222,664 acres. The condition of wheat Nov. 1 was 96, the comparison being with the quality and growth of average seasons. The yield per acre this year is a decrease of one tenth in area of clover seed harvested, and 5 per cent. in the yield per acre. The acreage in potatoes this year is not quite as large as in 1894, and the yield per acre is 10 per cent. less than in that year. A few fields in the state have been plowed up or abandoned because of rot, but in many localities, and especially where grown on sandy soil, the crop has suffered little injury from this cause.

Rot is reported by 161 correspondents in the southern tiers of counties representing every county in the section except Branch and Cass, and by seventy-one correspondents representing nineteen counties in the northern tiers. The total amount lost by rot will amount to one-fifth of the crop. The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed to October 1 is 2,153,491. The total number of bushels reported marketed in August, September and October is 6,241, 883, which is 2,008,027 bushels more than reported marketed during the same months in 1894.

The yield of corn in southern counties is 32 bushels per acre, and in northern counties 28 bushels per acre, a bushel less in each section than estimated in September. The percentage of soft corn is greater that usual owing to the damage by frost as mentioned by correspondents in October. Potatoes, sheep and swine are generally reported in good health. Hog cholera is reported by six correspondents in Barry and five in Cass and by one in each of counties Eaton, Macomb, St. Joseph, Midland.

The Sale Did not Take Place.

Nov. 12 was the day set by State Land Commissioner Minor S. Newell for the sale of a large tract of land in Bois Blanc Island, Emmet county, but the sale did not take place. It was prevented by a temporary injunction obtained from the Wayne circuit court by the Detroit, Mackinac & Marquette railroad company.

In 1850 the swamp lands within the limits of several western states were given to the respective states by an act of congress. Michigan was one of the states. In 1859 the state legislature soon afterwards passed laws to facilitate trade between the state and the peninsula of Mackinac. One of these laws provided that a railroad between those points should receive sufficient swamp land section of the swamp land for each mile of road completed. The scheme of laying out lands in Marquette, Mackinac, Schoolcraft and Chippewa counties.

The Marquette, Sault Ste. Marie & Mackinac railroad was projected under these laws, then abandoned and succeeded by the Detroit, Mackinac & Marquette company. The latter company undertook to carry out the arrangement made with the board of control of state swamp lands by the former road. Not having obtained its full quota of land the company looked over the plats furnished it and discovered that there are 3,840 acres of wild land in Bois Blanc island which the commissioner had listed for sale. These lands the company claim belong to them and hence they ask for the injunction and bring suit for possession.

An Ancient Relic.

While raising the Bridge Street house in Grand Rapids workmen discovered a sealed tin box which on opening was found to contain a copy of the Weekly Free Press and several Grand Rapids papers of the date of August 18, 1856, also a speech in pamphlet form of Alexander H. Stephens of Georgia, on the admission Kansas into the Union, speeches of Stephen A. Douglas on Kansas territorial affairs and Chas. A. Stuart of Michigan, in the United States senate. In the Weekly Free Press is headed "Beef, Beef," and cried John C. Fremont with buying 40,000 worth of test with government funds and using it for private purposes.—Free Press.
