Stage Is Prepared For Dance Frolic

A June Frolic to be given by Birmingham and Detroit pupils of Miss Evelyn Livingston Smith's school of dancing is to be staged at the Greek Theater, Cranbrook Friday evening and Saturday afternoon.

The program is divided into eight parts each one depicting a scene. A Kate Greenaway Suite opens the events with dances of the Lambs, the Jump girls, the Mammas and their Babies, Rose Arch dancers and the Boy as a solo number. The Bunnies furnish a group dance featuring ten young ladies.

"All in a Garden Fair" is the name of the third section which embodies Wind, Springtime, and a Ribbon dance, all in the garden where "My Lady Goes A-Walking."

Pearls are the keynote of The Dream of a Pearl Fisher—Pink pearls, yellow pearls, iredescent pearls, white pearls, black pearls and a string of four white pearls all dance for this Pearl Fisher in a colorful and lovely picture.

The next scene takes the audience to Holland in gay tulip time and shows them all sorts of tulips, Dutch babies, and Dutch twins. A tulip and Gretchen are dance solos.

There is a theme to the sixth vehicle entitled "The Call of the Gypsies." Naomi and Lucille are cousins, and members of an aristocratic family in the South. Both were fond of gaiety and romance but of the two Naomi is the more daring and adventurous as is seen by her interest in a roaming band of gypsies camped near her home. The girls are seen talking together as word is brought to them that those gypsies are approaching. Lucille then realizes that her cousin is enamoured of one outside their class and tries to divert her attention, but in her desire to be with her lover, forgets Naomi and her troubles and is off—leaving Naomi free to enjoy the abandon and gay appeal of the gypsy band which finally wins her over. Many characters feature in this fascinating number: Lucille, Boy, Love Thoughts, Naomi, Lady Bettys, Gypsy Girls and Gypsies.

Varsity Drag brings an element of jazz to the recital and is featured with other divertissements.

Wordsworth supplies the theme for the last number with his poem "I wandered lonely as a cloud." White clouds and silver clouds vie with "Sparkling Waves" and "a host of golden daffodils" to paint the lovely word picture which closes the program.

In case of rain the performances will take place Monday and Tuesday evenings.

John Lenihan, Chicago high school boy, made 18 safe hits in 19 times at bat—5 singles, 12 two-base hits and one home run.

HILLS HORSES TAKE PLACES AT LANSING

pretentious armory, the sudden rainstorm about mid-afternoon brought only a short delay in the program. Saddle class showing took up the major portion of the afternoon following the middle and heavyweight hunter competition.

New Element

Under the brilliant battery of lights in the armory the opening of the evening show saw the entrance of a new and more dramatic element. Perhaps the fact that the 'touch and out' class was scheduled as an early event added to the suspense felt by the spectators as they returned to the balconied ring about 8 p. m. In the 'touch and out' class a horse must come clean without a fraction of a fault over eight jumps each four feet six inches in height or must withdraw without further trial. With 24 horses in the original entry this number was rapidly thinned as horse after horse ticked gate top or rail and was immediately called from the ring.

J. F. Williams' "Sergeant Jack" with J. Waller up was the first entry to come clean after a single refusal at the brush jump. This performance drew an ovation from the crowd of spectators. Spurred by the showing of "Sergeant Jack," the next horse in the ring, "McCloud" from the Briggs stables gave a clean performance over the eight jumps. Hammond's "Intrepid" ticked off on the first round as the next entry while "Huntress" from the Bayley stables came through beautifully with a perfect record a few seconds later.

Volney Bayley, son of the entry owner, proved himself a capable horseman on "Huntress" in this exhibition. With only "Sergeant Jack," "McCloud" and "Huntress" tied for the finals, the run-off was replete with plenty of thrills for the onlookers who thronged the surrounding balconies. "Huntress" and Sergeant Jack" fought a long duel for first prize after "McCloud" went out as each entry ticked gate or rail in three successive run-offs. "Sergeant Jack" emerged victorious as the blue ribbon winner with the Bayley entry "Huntress" close at his heels for a well merited second. Briggs' "McCloud" won third prize money.

"Checkers" Takes Blue

Classes for Hunter Hacks and Fair Jumpers were centers for most interest in the remainder of the evening program. "Checkers," a Hammond entry, took the blue in the Hunter hack class with Mrs. James Blackwood's "Kalingo" and Mrs. A. E. Roper's "Darlington" in for second and third places. In the pair jumpers event, Miss Peggy Ainsworth up on her "Valley Gray" with "Intrepid," ridden by Miss Viola Hammond, gave a clean performance to win first.

Following the completion of the evening program within the armory, many of the Bloomfield owners and riders convened at the Olds hotel for the dinner-dance, an annual and brilliant social affair attendant upon each of the R. O. T. C. shows at the state capitol.

A clear sky this morning brought the program again to the outdoor ring where a number of saddle classes were shown by entries from Saginaw, Detroit, and Chicago as well as a strong representation from Lansing owners. However, the sun withdrew behind a black cloud bank shortly after lunch and a heavy shower so softened the turfed ring that the show again repaired to the armory arena.

Besting a list of 27 entries in the Ladies' Hunter class, Mrs. James Blackwood on "Kalingo" showed admirably to win the Hotel Olds Challenge Trophy, while "Redfox," a Briggs entry, ridden by S. Nichols "Black Rock" took second and third respectively.

New Thrills

The Jumper Sweepstakes event with its four-foot six-inch jumps brought new thrills in the afternoon program. Bloomfield riders again found places, although a Chicago entry, "Rocket," owned by Thompson Ross, took second prize money, while a Toledo owner-rider, Mrs. A. E. Reuben, well known by Birmingham and Bloomfield riders captured the blue for first on "Lindy Lou." The Briggs entry, "McCloud" and E. S. Nichols' "Black Rock" took third and fourth ribbons.

E. S. Nichols' "Black Rock" will return to the Bloomfield Open Hunt stables tomorrow as "champion hunter" following a series of triumphs at the Lansing show which culminated with his winning of the $150 Hunter's Stake this afternoon. The points gained as winner of the event together with the total of points acquired in places awarded in preceding classes proved highest captured by any hunter entry.
