ENTERPRISE AND PLUCK. A Young Dry Goods Firm Who Think They Can Outdo Anyone.

It is now two years and a half since those enterprising young merchants, Messrs. Kenney, Adams & Co., assumed the control of their magnificent dry goods emporium on the northwest corner of Woodward and Grand River avenues.

After the fire in June of this year the store had gradually extended up the avenue, leaving their stand in the basement level of the building.

Mr. Daniel Kimble of Bloomfield was driving down 'Grand street Monday evening when his horse became frightened at an engine and ran away.

Mr. Kenney, Adams & Co. have determined to make this a memorial season in their history, and they extend to all a hearty invitation to come and inspect their goods.

From the East. Editor of the Enterprise. Dear Sir:—I will give you a few notes on Lynn, to which place I went last Saturday and spent the Sabbath there.

THE VILLAGE COUNCIL. An ordinance to provide for establishing and extending a sidewalk on the west side of Chester street, in the village of Birmingham, Mich.

On Wednesday morning last Frank H. Goodman, a resident of this place, was the right man in the right place, and a successful negotiator.

in the Boston street church in the evening, at which there were two or three hundred present.

There are three railroads running to Boston, two of which run directly to Boston, but the other back to run 14 miles to get there.

It is a handy. What? J. K. Adams' window. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Phelps visited friends here recently.

The school house in district No. 3 has received a general overhauling—repainted, new seats, and new furniture.

Carriage and Wagon Business For Sale. Offering to retire from the business I wish for sale my shops and business in the village of Franklin, Oakland County, Mich.

TOMBSTONES. More Artistic Work, But Few Changes in Design. Lasting.

There is very rarely any material change in what may be called the general style of tombstones.

The pillar or obelisk style of monuments is the most common and the most popular in height.
