WHIPPING A MAD BULL.
Charles A. Triplett's Story of His Trifling Encounter with a Successful Fight with the Famous Bull, "The Bull," at the Fair Grounds, Boston, August 10.—I was in 1865 First Lieutenant in the "Twelfth United States Infantry," and in the absence of my Captain, commanded E Company of the First Battalion of that regiment. Early in October I was ordered to Fort Monroe, and reported to Fort Gen. A. M. Sigsbee, who was then in command of the post. I was ordered to detail as officer of guard, as such I held for the twenty-four hours of my detail immediate duty. On the morning of the 10th of October, I was ordered to detail as officer of guard, as such I held for the twenty-four hours of my detail immediate duty.
