Students Make Plans In Annual Baldwinian Sale

Plans are being laid today for a second subscription sales campaign of the 1929 Baldwinian to be staged at Baldwin High School in two weeks.

The annual publication being developed this year exceeded all previous issues in cost. Total expenditure will be $1,400, it is estimated by Mrs. Aris Horwath, faculty advisor. The expense is borne by the subscription assessment, advertising and an amount paid by each organization represented in the volume.

Advertising this year was completed at an earlier date than usual. Practically all the contracts with the village business houses were signed before Christmas. The art of the 1929 Baldwinian, following the Peter Pan motif has been completed and proofs have been returned on all engravings from the John Ollier Engraving Company of Chicago who contracted for that work. The Birmingham Eccentric Printers will issue the annual.

The use of the Peter Pan background in an annual is believed to be original with Baldwin edition, to be circulated in May.

Work on the write-ups to accompany the photographs of the various groups is now being started.

Malcolm Otis is editor-in-chief of the annual and is active in supervising the completion of labors in the various departments. The staff in full is as follows: Edward Kurth, business manager; Allan Ramsey and Norma Martin, circulation editors; George Wasey, advertising manager; Thomas Ellerby, Patricia Chandler and Evelyn Paytont, members of advertising staff; Winifred Quarton, Frances Ball and Madeleine Holmes, literary editors; Morgan Carter and Evelyn Salisbury, athletic editors; Annette Kiley, art editor; Ilene Johnson, typist.

ADAMS JUNIORS BEAT ROYAL OAK

The Adams Junior High School cage team romped away with a decisive victory over the Royal Oak juniors, Monday, at Adams school, 21-4.

Schwarze, midget forward, starred again in aiding with his school's fifth consecutive victory. He scored three field goals. Several times he broke loose dribbling the length of the floor through the Acorn's defense. Rose was next with five points, and Stewart followed with four.

The Adams quintet suffers the loss of Hilty and Geisel by graduation.

Royal Oak was one point behind at the half but Adams stepped out and scored 16 units while holding their opponents to one.

The name "Old Glory" for the name of the flag of the United States was first applied in 1831 by William Driver, a sailing captain of Salem, Mass.

The first farm in Canada is said to have been situated on the slope of the hill at Quebec where now stands the City Hall and other public buildings.
