The week's fan mail:

"Dear Purely Personal:

"Are you male or female? Well—so am I. You seem to see all and know all, so won't you please answer, through your paper, a question or questions that lots of people in this man's town would like to have answered? Now tell me, why doesn't H. Kenneth Bingham and A. Shanley Rosso take unto themselves a wife? Can you imagine two nicer young men? Every time I go into the Birmingham National Bank—well, my heart almost stops when I see Shan. Wouldn't it be nice to put your cold feet on Shan's back, or to get breakfast every morning for H. Kenneth, providing he got the other meals? When I see him, well I just forget where I parked my car and stuff.

"Now don't think me silly, but I am expressing the sentiment of a lot of girls and women in this town. Just stand in the bank and watch the women and girls hover around Shan like bees. Say, has he got IT? Well, I'll say he has! He just makes your heart skip a beat.

"There are some other things I want to ask you, but will wait my answers to these questions in next week's paper. Don't disappoint me.

"Yours truly,
"I HAVE COLD FEET"

Sorry, I. H. C. F., but there ain't no answers.

FHA TO BE THEME OF ESSAY CONTEST

Public School, Holy Name Students To Compete For Cash Room Prizes

Arrangements for an essay contest in the Birmingham public schools and Holy Name Parochial School, the purpose of which will be to disseminate information among the students and their parents concerning the activities of the National Housing Act and the Federal Housing Administration, were completed yesterday by school officials and the local FHA committee.

In the public schools, essays will be written by all students in the fourth through the ninth grades. At Holy Name, students from the fourth through the eighth grades will compete.

The essays will be judged by grades in the public schools, while at Holy Name the essays of students in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades will be judged together, and the essays of the seventh and eighth grades will be judged together. Cash prizes of $2.50 each will go to the home room of the author of the winning essay in each group.

Students in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades in all schools will write on "What the FHA can do for my family," while seventh, eighth and ninth grade students will write on "What the FHA can do for the community."

The essays will not be more than 200 words in length, and the best essay in each group, besides winning its author a room prize, will be published in The Birmingham Eccentric.

With the co-operation of postal authorities, the local FHA committee, of which Ralph C. Moulthrop is chairman, has completed the distribution to homes in the community of more than 3,000 pamphlets, explaining the methods of obtaining FHA loans for house and business building improvements, and the benefits available to property owners under the FHA.

Wabeek Bank Branch Will Open Saturday

Ferndale is planning a community celebration to attend the opening in that city next Saturday, Dec. 1, of the branch of the Wabeek State Bank of Birmingham. Definite announcement of the opening date was made here last week by George B. Judson, president of the bank.

The branch will be managed by B. F. Saylor, a resident of Ferndale and a former assistant vice-president of the Bank of Detroit. It will be located in a building on West Nine Mile road at Woodward avenue, formerly the quarters of the Ferndale State Bank.

The branch will restore banking facilities to a community which has been without them since 1931. With its opening, the capital stock of the Wabeek State Bank will be increased from $65,000 to $150,000.
