ROYAL OAK RUMBLINGS.

EDITED AND CONDUCTED BY ARTHUR B. CAMPBELL.

Subscription: Rate fixed and Advertising Contracted for in this Paper by the Agent, Arthur B. Campbell, of Royal Oak.

Dr. Simonds of Warren called upon "Rile Oke" last week.

Have you looked at your account with the ECCENTRIC lately?

N. E. Springstein entertained some young people from Detroit Sunday.

Mr. Fred Skinner and his mother, of New York, are visiting at C. Allen's.

How does your head feel? But perhaps your wife isn't cleaning house. You're safe till fall.

Missionary services were held at the M. E. church, last Sunday; $21.55 was contributed to help the heathen Chinese.

Glad to know the U.S.P. man is so well versed in journalism. Our stock was not meant for a dagger. Don't claim to own him.

T. F. Wilson met with an accident last week Wednesday. The hind wheels of his buggy collapsed and he descended to terra firma.

Judging from the way fruit trees are blooming we will have an abundant supply. Won't it be nice to get all the apples you can eat once more?

A big load from down in the Campbell neighborhood went up near Mt. Clemens Friday night and got a big haul of fish. We dind't hear of any rings in their snouts, however.

The M. E. ladies are collecting rags for a carpet which Mrs. Wheeler will weave gratis. The object is to sell the carpet and put the proceeds into the missionary fund.

The parties who interrupted the services at the M. E. church last Thursday evening are known, and if such conduct is repeated they will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law. By order.

Royal Oak seems to be bound to take no mean place in the world of inventions. This time it is N. E. Springstein who has contrived a way by the use of a few irons to improve the present style of wagon tongues.

Isn't about time for you to again say "I'll have to give the ECCENTRIC a dollar and get my name put over a year. Can't have it always for nothing." We think that is the best plan you can adopt if you only carry it out.

It is reported that 17,000,000 potato bugs are encamped over in Southfield waiting for our potatoes to get up, when a grand invasion is intended. Spies are already becoming quite numerous and are executed as soon as captured.

The M. E. Sunday school elected officers for the ensuing year, last Sabbath. J. Benjamin, superintendent, vice E. A. Starr; Arthur Lee, secretary, Miss M. Salisbury, treasurer, and Mrs. Benjamin and Miss J. Russell, chorister and organist.

U. P. PRECINCT.

Nice rain last Friday.

Crops are looking fine in this vicinity.

John Soltes, who is traveling for Erb & Co. of Detroit, had a serious runaway last week.

Mrs. J. Benjamin, Mrs. V. H. Lee and Mrs. R. Rolfe attended the missionary meeting at Plymouth last week.

Mr. John Truesdell of this place, who has been spending a few days in Iowa, died there May 22. His remains arrived at Birmingham Monday.

N. E. Springstein, our R. R. and fast horseman, is making preparations for some fast trotting this season. "Reddy," a professional from Detroit, is going to do the training.

Beethoven's Last Days.

While journeying to Vienna on foot, because he was too poor to pay for a ride, Beethoven, the great composer, staid one night at a small farm-house. During the night, becoming feverish and restless, he rose to take the air, and went forth from the dwelling in bare feet. Beethoven wandered about till early morning, when he returned to the house, not knowing whither he had gone. He had been seized with a severe chill, and his mind was already wandering. Dropsy on the chest was found to have declared itself, and within two days, spite of all care and skill, it was pronounced that Beethoven must die.

As he lay upon his bed, pale and in great suffering, a man entered. It was Hammel, the friend of many years—his only friend. He had learned of his illness while on a visit to Vienna, and came not only to nurse him, but to bring him money. It was too late!

His eyes shone, he struggled for utterance, and at length gasped: "Is it not true, dear Hammel, that I have some talent, after all?" These were the last words of Beethoven. He was buried in the little cemetery of Dobling, and very recently his remains have been removed to the great cemetery of Vienna, in company with those of Schubert, who earnestly desired to be buried by his side.—Blackwood's Magazine.

A Weapon of Offense.

Mr. Winks—Goodness me! There is a young couple looking at that vacant house next door, and they've got a baby—loud awful noisy—too.

Mrs. Winks—Horrors! What shall we do? Can't we scare them off some way? Go tell them the roof leaks and the walls are damp and—tell them the last tenant died of small-pox.

"I'd like to, dear, but it wouldn't do. The landlord would sue for damages."

"Oh, mercy! But something must be done, Mr. Winks, before they decide to take it. Oh, do think of something!"

"I have it. Run down to the piano and sing 'Sweet Violets.'"—Philadelphia Call.

A man at Patsha City, W. T., has the rare and remarkable name of Angevine June Titus and Company Favor. All that part of the above-described name lying in front of the word "Favor" is his Christian name. His parents lived in a small town in Maine, and a circus came there for the first time in the history of the place. It was owned by Angevine, June Titus & Co., and it was a first-rate show. Mr. and Mrs. Favor attended in the afternoon, and were so pleased that they named their boy, born on the following day, for the proprietors of the enterprise. The son has borne his infliction without murmur, and is fondly hoping for the time when Patsha City shall have grown to be large enough to justify the visit of a circus.

When we consider how artfully and how well most actresses employ their art, I wonder that the belles of society do not acquire the same accomplishment. We are too apt to let our faces remain as useless as our lower limbs, so far as gesticulation is concerned, and I recall only one girl in all my acquaintances who displays her arms for all they are worth. As seen at an opera or ball they are not the inanest things commonly seen, but are animated, helpful appendages, taking an active and graceful part in her movements and conversation. Let somebody open a school of arms for the—London Life, in Cincinnati Enquirer.

On a certain street in Denver is a stone mansion of surpassing elegance, which, with its grounds, cost nearly $1,000,000. Directly opposite, on a vacant lot, is a tent, boarded up inside as far as the angle of the roof. The back end of it is pierced with a stove-pipe and in the front end are a door and a window. In the window hangs a curtain of costly lace and in the tent is a piano of exquisite tone. The tent itself did not cost over $25. The piano, upholstery, and furniture inside are said to have cost over $3,000. The owner planted his tent here over seventy-five years ago and is one of the most wealthy successful Colorado miners, being worth about $50,000. He prefers his tent to any dwelling-house, and says he would not exchange it for Windsor Castle.

The passion for gambling, says the London Spectator, that is, for obtaining money without toil is rooted in human nature; but we confess to a certain surprise at the loud whacks the Stock Exchange time of it takes upon intelligent men. They never seem to comprehend that they are not only betting, but betting against adversaries, those adversaries being some of the shrewdest men in the world, who do as a business what outsiders do as a pastime, who pass their lives in studying the turns of the market, and who, whether individually more or less foolish than the outside speculator, know collectively more than he in most cases possibly can. They may be beaten on this or that occasion by a man of special information, or special acumen, or by an accident; but in the long run they must win, or they would not keep the system up.

We have too much cracking up in this country, remarks the New York Commercial Bulletin. There is too much haste to get rich in about three months, and not enough of the patient-steadiness which accepts small profits with gladness if they can be expected to continue. When iron sold at $41 per ton in February, 1879, and wheat $1.12 per bushel, with the great crop of 1879 yet unsold, everybody could see that getting rich at that rate would not be long. But the crop that needs most careful cultivation in America is the crop of patience.

KERMOTT'S PILLS.

These pills have been prepared and used by the doctor in his extensive practice for more than quarter of a century Compounded from simple roots and plants, they have this advantage over all others, that No HARM CAN POSITIVELY RESULT FROM THEIR USE. Their action on the liver and Kidneys is thorough, thus cleaning the system of impurities, with none of the injurious effects of powerful and dangerous minerals. They will positively cure

Sick Headache, Nervous Disorders, Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Kidney Difficulties, Neuralgia, and Griping Pains.

They are a vegetable Tonic Purgative, absolutely harmless under all circumstances, never injuring the weakest female or the youngest child. They may be used as a Mild Laxative, and by increasing the dose they will act as a brisk cathetic, making them the best Family Medicine in the world. For sale by Druggists.

Intelligent Pets.

Cats are like oysters, in that no one is neutral about them; everyone is explicitly or implicitly friendly or hostile to them. And they are like children in their power of discovering, by a rapid and sure instinct, who likes them or who does not. It is difficult to win their affection, and it is easy to forfeit what it is hard to win. But when given, their love, though less demonstrative, is more delicate and beautiful than that of a dog. Who that is on really intimate terms with a cat has not watched its dismay at the signs of packing up and leaving home? We ourselves have known a cat who would recognize his master's footstep after a three months' absence, and come on to meet him in the hall, with tail erect, and purring all over as if to the very verge of bursting. And another cat we know who comes up every morning between six and seven o'clock to wake his master, sits on the bed, and very gently feels first one eyelid and then the other with his paw. When an eye opens, but not till then, the cat sets up a loud purr, like the prayers of the fire-worshipper to the rising sun. Those who are slightly that early carry only for places, and not for persons, should go to the cat show at the Crystal Palace, where they may see recognization between cat and owner that will cure them of go shallow an opinion. When we were last there one striking instance fell in our way. Cats greatly dislike these exhibitions; a cat, as a rule, is like Queen Vashti, unwilling to be shown, even to the nobles, at the pleasure of an Ahasuerus. Shy, sensitive, wayward, and independent, cat resents being placed upon a cushion in a wire cage and exposed to the unintelligent criticism, to say nothing of the fingers, of a mob of sightseers. One very curious cat was belonging to the masters' common room at Christ Church, Oxford, whose size and beauty have on several occasions entailed on him the hard necessity of attending a cat show takes, it is said, three days to recover from the sense of disgust and humiliation which he feels, whether he gets a prize or not. On the occasion in such we refer, a row of disfiguring documents were sitting with their backs turned to the sightseers. Two little girls presently pushed through the crowd to the cage or one of the largest, crying: "There's Dick!" The great cat turned round instantly, his face transfigured with joy, purred, and endeavored to scratch open the front of the cage that he might rejoin his little friends.—Spectator.

Carlos Augero, the Cuban who fought bravely in the war of insurrection against Spain, and was recently killed in Cuba, was a mere boy, with a boy's rash pluck. He did much to distinguish himself in various ways, to much so at times that he was more than once degraded etc. It was owned.

The librarian of the British Museum was recently surprised by a visitor inquiring if he were in any extant autographs of the celebrated Boodler seeked for book the subject of sorcery, and show it there was any such book which could raise Beelzebub's name.

DRY GOODS AND CARPETS. ESTABLISHED 1870.

SPRING, 1885.

The Busy, Bustling, Brisk, Bright and Battling Bee-hive, No Buncome (Buncum), Blundering, Bravado Blustering, nor boiling over with politics at THE BEE-HIVE. A Bright and cheerful store with a Booming trade, a Bold front and a Boom to all who trade there. ALL classes invited to Buy their DRY GOODS & CARPETS at THE BEE-HIVE. The trade of ALL is solicited and ALL made equally welcome. No Babel of confusion. No Billingsgate. No Broiling over if you don't Buy; no Bungling, Badinage, Bullying, or Bamboozling; no Barbarous yarns, nor long-winded stories. No Burden to show goods, But Beneficial to trade there every time. No Buffoonery, nor Burlesque, But we get right down to solid Business at once at the BEE-HIVE. The largest stock in the county. Not "Just Going Out" of carpets—that fib has been told so much by would-be competitors in Pontiac that no one believes it. It is too flat, stale and old a trick to repeat. Come where the stock is the largest, the newest and the freshest. Five competent, cheerful, willing, active, obliging and polite salesmen stand at your command ready and willing to wait upon all who call. No old and stale quotations on last century Bulletin Boards, But fresh announcements in the press of Oakland county which every one reads and profits by. No peeping through peep-show carpet exhibitors, but the actual rolls on the floor is what the public want and will have.

This ends our chapter of B's (Bees).

Yours Truly,

JOHN POUND.

PONTIAC, Mich., April 21, 1885.

BRUMMIT, AGAIN.

It is about a year now since I wrote an advertisement. Not because I have nothing to say, but because I am vain enough to think that the citizens of this county know what to look for and as I am in business I shall always make the BEST PHOTOGRAPHS for as low prices as they can be made for properly; and just here I want to tell you something. I attended the Photographer's Convention at Cincinnati in August, and had the opportunity of seeing the finest collection of Photographs ever brought together in the world, and I am proud to say that my LARGE pictures compare favorably with the very best made, and are equal to pictures made in large cities for from $50 to $100 each. I wish particularly to speak about these pictures. I have a method of making life size pictures which does not appear to be known generally, and I can make a picture life size and put a handsome frame around it for $15, which is a great deal less than it will cost a Photographer to make such a picture by the ordinary method. I see every little while agents from other cities soliciting orders for copies and they often succeed in getting a good many orders from people who, strange as it may seem, will give an order to a perfect stranger and pay half as much again as they can get better work for here at home. It is about as though I should send to Toledo to buy a crock of butter or a spring chicken, but such is life.

I have just had painted by the best background painter in the United States, six new and beautiful backgrounds, and I bought some new accessories at Cincinnati, and I really think that there is not a more complete gallery in Michigan.

Now about BABIES' PICTURES. If there is a baby in this county that I can't make a picture of, if I have the chance, I am just aching to see that baby. The babies all like me and I like the babies, so bring them along and just let me show you how quick I can make a picture.

BRUMMITT, THE PHOTOGRAPHER.
