THE WOMAN IN RED.
A Thrilling Italian Story of the Last Century.
BY GEORGE W. H. REYNOLDS.
CHAPTER I.

THE MURDER OF MARGARET D'ARIEL.
Margaret D'Arrel sat engrossed in her sorrow, and heard not the entry of the woman.

"Margaret, Margaret! what is the matter?"
"Not I, Miriam," said the poor woman, "not I, but very miserable."

"What is the matter?"
"I am in a state of mind," said the child, "I am in a state of mind."

"What is the matter?"
"I am in a state of mind," said the child, "I am in a state of mind."

"What is the matter?"
"I am in a state of mind," said the child, "I am in a state of mind."
