The Kitchen Korner

By Sally Lunn

Letter from a bride to her husband's mother.

Dear Mother:

A million thanks for your grand recipe for rhubarb pie. I tried it at once, and was it good! Aleck is still talking about it! And he was so pleased to think you sent me your recipe, because that is his special favorite. I think it was sweet of you, and I shall treasure it always.

Now, I have something to tell you. You can't imagine what a lucky break I've had! You know our local newspaper, the Birmingham Eccentric, is conducting a cooking school, which is FREE, and open to all brides anxious to learn more about cooking, (like myself!)

It will be held at our Community House here in Birmingham Tuesday and Wednesday mornings at 9:30 o'clock. I will be there when the doors open at 9 a.m. Can't you picture me, all eyes and ears with pencil and pad, ready for action.

I'm sure I've heard you speak of Mrs. Bess G. Wright, the home economics expert, who will conduct the school. Didn't she do the same thing at one time in your town? It seems to me you said you learned so much—and I thought you knew all there was to learn about cooking!

She is going to demonstrate new recipes. What a chance! She will also give instructions in the proper method of preparing meals. That is my big problem right now—getting everything cooked and ready to serve at the same time. Some things take longer than others, and it has me all of a twitter planning and timing to get things done together.

And besides getting free cooking lessons, prizes will be given away. The Eccentric came out this morning with a list of the door prizes, and I have my fingers crossed, hoping for the best. The really grand prize is a Norge gas range, which the Two Norge dealers, Hawthorne Electric and Bob Milk Service are offering.

The local merchants are really big-hearted! Beck Cleaners and Dyers—where Aleck and I have our work done—are giving away Five Dollars worth of cleaning. The Hilly Acres Dairy are making the generous offer of one quart of Grade A milk a day for one month. Think of that!

The D. J. Healy Co. is offering fine silk hose—always valuable! And these are what I should enjoy were I lucky enough to receive them as gifts, stainless steel sauce pans. The Wilson Drug Co. is giving away two quarts of ice cream. Do you wonder the girls are so enthusiastic? They have been calling me all morning—the girls in our crowd—dating me up for the cooking school.

And then I might as well be frank and tell you, I am as much interested in watching the fashion show, which the D. J. Healy Co. will sponsor, and in the prize of a shampoo finger wave and facial, which the Freeman Beauty Salon is offering, as I am in the cooking school. Well it all fits into the domestic scheme of pleasing husbands.

I'll write you all about the cooking school.

Affectionately,

Angela.
