Pontiac Rock of Gibraltar

A good behavior record is smashed, all on account of Pontiac. Well, not exactly Pontiac, but all on account of some red velvet ribbon needed to complete the neckline of a dress. Guess I'll start again! I invited a friend to ride along to Pontiac where I hoped to find the red shade I was trying to match, and to have lunch there with me. An accommodating motorist drew away from the curb. It was almost too good to be true, especially as the parking meter there still had 20 minutes to go to complete his full hour. Sez I to my friend, craftily: "We'll get this errand done on HIS dime."

But somehow it didn't work out for when we returned to the car an unfriendly policeman had left a nasty note on my windshield. It was two o'clock and we were starved, but off to prison we must go! Over and over again I explained to the sergeant at the desk, "All I wanted was two yards of red ribbon . . . I never had a ticket before, not in 20 years of driving . . . this spoils my record . . . I just completed a 7000 mile tour of the states and I have to come to Pontiac to get a ticket."

That stony-faced Rock of Gibralter stood mute. His blank (not blankety blank) expression never changed. At last he raised beetling eyebrows as he read a little message I had not seen on the paper, "You took an hour and 20 minutes . . . to get your ribbon bought. Pay your fine, lady."

I paid. And it was all I had between me and starvation! My pal bought the lunch . . . and we had the good grace to laugh as we remembered the fun we had had trying on the costume jewelry at a bargain counter, before we ran up against Pontiac authority.

City Doubles Order To Beat Price Rise

To beat an anticipated rise in the cost of cast iron, the Commission Monday night ordered two carloads instead of one of 6-inch sollpipe used in making sewer connections. The price was $1,024.91, per car, and it was quoted by the Linwood Pipe company, the low bidder. City Manager Egbert estimated that the saving would approximate 10 per cent, depending on the rising price of iron.
