Plenty of Rain and Mud Toughen Soldiers in Maneuvers at Camp

Editor, The Eccentric:

I read in the "Bits of Birmingham" of June 5 that you would like to hear from men in Service. Well, I am writing you about a three-day hike we took. We left Monday morn at 8 and arrived back at camp on Wednesday noon. We are going out again tomorrow morning and return Saturday, then rest a day or two and go on a 14-day hike.

The army we "battled" was called the "Reds" and was from Fort Shelby, Miss. The reason for our return to the field was that the "Reds" are camping some 40-odd miles from here and we wanted to be on the offensive this time instead of the defensive.

Well, here's what happened: I wrote this as it happened and it's my own idea as to what I got out of it.

A Soldier's Diary

Monday Morn:—Got up at 4, had breakfast. Syrup sure is hard to wash out of a mess kit. We had pancakes. I packed my articles and went to the motor pool and waited till 8:30 before we started. We drove very slow and arrived at our grounds at 11:30. I was made Battalion runner, or head quarters messenger. Our grounds were in a swamp and I waded through water to my ankles. took three messages, each a quarter of a mile away. None seemed very important but I do as I am told and ask no questions. Around 3 it poured down rain and I was soaked before I got out in it. It rained hard for half an hour, then the sun came out. It's just like taking a steam bath—real hot and uncomfortable. I had only two sandwiches since breakfast. Starving—real hungry, too, but no pieces of supper. An order came in that everyone was to wear a helmet and carry a gas mask till further notice. They are uncomfortable, and how! We had supper at five and had sauerkraut, wieners, pineapple, bread and butter, beans, and iced coffee. The coffee was [illegible] "it" the cheery, guess I'll [illegible] down my tent and was all set marched from 6 till 9 and were handed out blank ammunition. We were near the front lines. We fixing our packs, we were told we hadn't seen water for days. Sunday:—We packed down and got ready to move out. We were going to do some railroad bed and came to a forest with trees at least four stories high—plenty of cover. We left at 11. The roads were muddy and it rained. We stopped, but I was so tired I just dropped off to sleep—no time for tents. The ground was hard; but if you get tired, you will sleep anywhere. Dry since I started. We were waiting for the trucks but they got stuck at daybreak and it was very never came. We had a real storm last night. I wondered how many days and had to find cover the best we could. We stopped beside the trucks (came with our blanket roll). We had just commenced to settle down in the rain when it rained a regular cloudburst in front of the [illegible] coffee, eggs, ham, and [illegible] and it was rained [illegible] ample but were the one good meal had a day is enough. They gave us Wha[illegible] sandwiches for dinner. It was very hot and we marched in the mud. An airplane flew lower and we had to take cover, and open fire on it. Imaginary of course. We marched from 4 till 9 and were handed out blank ammunition. We were near the front lines. We packing our packs, we were told we hadn't seen water for days. Copper in the rain and mud. What a life!

We trenched our tent but water came in. This made two days that I hadn't been wet, so I put my raincoat up for the dead of night. Four in our tent—they are supposed for two. I slept well, but raining was wet. We had to wade ankles in the mud and water. We went for breakfast. We went to the road and got in our trucks and headed for camp. We eight and arrived in camp 9:00 and it was only 43 miles. We never went over 25 miles an hour, it seemed. We got at camp and put our equipment out to dry and were told we were going Tuesday. It's still raining.
