Some of Webster's Love-Letters.

From "Reminiscences of Daniel Webster," accompanied by a striking frontispiece portrait, in the March CENTURY, we quote the following: "Lovers in these days, it appears, were in the habit of sitting up late, or rather early; and his manner of letting his lady know at what time he would leave her is, to say the least, novel. It reads as follows:

"'My Cousin: I intend to set out for home from your house at three o'clock.—D. W.

"'Miss Grace Fletcher, Present.'

"One day he assisted her in disentangling a skein of silk, and, taking up a piece of tape, he said:

"'Grace, cannot you help me to tie a knot that will never untie?'

"She blushingly replied:

"'I don't know, Daniel, but am willing to try.'

"The knot was tied, and though eighty years have since sped by, it lies before me to-day, time-colored, it is true, but nevertheless still untied. I have a note in my possession dated March, 1805, addressed to Miss Grace Fletcher.

"'Miss Fletcher: Monday morning five o'clock I expect to go out on the stage for Amherst. If it should consist with your convenience to ride to Dunstable on that day, I should be happy to be charged with the duty of attending you. It will probably be in my way to be in Cambridge Sunday eve, and I can furnish you a passage into town.

"'D. Webster.'

"Another note in an envelope marked by Miss Fletcher 'Precious Documents' reads as follows:

"'Dear Grace: I was fortunate enough to be at home Sunday morning at five o'clock, after a solitary ride. . . Early in the week after next I hope to be with you.

"'Yours entirely, D. W.'"

Apropos of Mr. Gladstone's letter to Mr. Smalley, Gen. James Grant Wilson relates that the second duke of Wellington reported to him his father —the "Irish Duke"—as saying: "Not only was Washington in my judgment the purest and most patriotic man of modern times, but he was also the stateliest, most majestic, and the most modest of men." A fine copy of Stewart's portrait of Washington occupies the place of honor in Wellington's drawing-room at Strathfieldsaye.

The late John Heneage Jesse, the well-known author, had an aversion, amounting to a positive phobia, for the British Jeames. He has been known to stand in St. James' street on a Drawing-room day, at the edge of the curb, and with the end of his stick, which he dipped into the road-puddle, daub the immaculate stocking of the passing flunkeys, who, as he well knew, dare not move from their stations, accompanying the act with much opprobrious language.—Every Other Saturday.

An Oswego paper described a fire by saying that "the red flames danced in the heavens and flung their fiery arms like a black funeral pall, until Sam Jones got on the roof and doused them out with a pail of water."

"Will you cross-examine the witness?" asked the Judge of a Vermont lawyer, as a lady was about to leave the stand. "No, your honor," was the reply; "I have been married ten years and know better.—Burlington Free Press.

A gentleman recently returned from a fishing excursion was asked by a friend if he had been successful. "Oh, yes," he answered; "I didn't catch many fish, but I got plenty of bites. In fact the mosquitoes were altogether too numerous.—Boston Post.

"Why is it, pa, that they call them commencement exercises when they are really the last exercises?" said a young hopeful who had just witnessed the closing scenes of a female seminary. "Because, my son, the girls do not commence to learn anything until after they graduate."

The father of five marriageable daughters was in town a few days ago trying to buy some four-leaf clovers to put in his back yard. He said he had read that when a young girl finds a four-leaf clover it is a sign that she will be married within a year.

A Russian traveler predicts that Tibet will prove to be a second California, as, during a recent visit there, he found the natives gold-washing in the crudest way, but with the richest results. If the same class of men should be attracted to the gold-bearing districts of that barbaric country as went to California in '49, it is very probable that the civilization of that region would be accomplished with a celerity of rapidity which would prove most salutary in its lesson to the Czars, Emperors, Queens and Ameers who are struggling for empire in that part of the world after the manner of the Middle Ages.—The Current.

Three or four decades ago the American men and women were generally lean and bony. Our women especially were lank and thin. Of late years, however, a change in the shape of our people has been noted. The change is not yet very marked in the men, but the women are growing round and fat. At our watering-places, where people from all parts of the country congregate, a bony woman is a rare sight. Most of the women are plump and well-rounded. It is to be observed, however, that aleekness of figure still inclines belong to the well-to-do and leisurely classes of society. Among hard-workers and the people on the frontiers the lean and bony type still predominates.—Atlanta Constitution.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

W. W. Reed, druggist of Winchester, Ind., writes: "One of my customers, Mrs. Louisa Pike, Bartonia, Randolph county, Ind., has long suffer with consumption and was given up to die by her physicians. She heard of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption and began buying it of me. In six months time she walked to this city, a distance of six miles, and is now so much improved she has quit using it. She feels she owes her life to it."

Dr. Ware's Sure Cure For Heave.

Accomplishes what its name implies, and no medicine in the world can do more. A trial of a 50 cent package conclusively proves it. Saves its cost many times in the expenditure in worry or money and convinces the most skeptical of their positive merits. Sold by druggists and dealers. If these remedies are not upon the market, as the best in the world, we are the losers. Prominent Livery, Sale, Transportation and Express stables use them exclusively, and other places. For Sale By
