Christ Church Cranbrook Red Cross Unit Makes Appeal For More Workers

Standing Force Of 100 Volunteers Is Insufficient

More workers and buttons for womens dresses are being sought by the Christ Church Cranbrook Red Cross Unit, according to Mrs. Robert M. Ball, of Harmon avenue, work room chairman.

Mrs. Ball said Tuesday that the work-quota for the Cranbrook Red Cross is being increased rapidly and that the present working force of approximately 100 Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills women is insufficient to get out the necessary work. Workers meet at the Christ Church Cranbrook from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. on Tuesdays and from 9:30 a. m. till 4:30 p. m. on Wednesdays. The canteen group serves lunch on Tuesday and coffee is made available at noon on Wednesdays.

There is a choice of three types of work—sewing, knitting and the making of surgical dressings. Mrs. Ball pointed out that the last named are to be used by the United States Army, and will not be sent abroad. Sewing is available for both beginners and skilled seamstresses—the finished products of this particular unit being women's dresses and skirts, children's clothing, layettes, hospital gowns, and men's pajamas and bathrobes. These will be used for refugees in England, Greece and France.

Because almost every household has an overwhelming lack of odd buttons, and since attractive buttons for women's clothing are rather expensive, Mrs. Ball hopes for a quantity of this type of contributions. Buttons may be turned in at the Community House, or at the Red Cross rooms at Christ Church Cranbrook.

Miss Mary Brick, Abbey road, is chairman of the sewing group. Mrs. William Rosevear, Jr., is in charge of surgical dressings. Knitting groups are under the direction of Mrs. Ferd Broock, while Mrs. C. T. Van Dusen, heads the motor corps, and Miss Jeanette Nicol is in charge of the canteen. Mrs. Warren Booth, serves as clerk, and Mrs. Ball is general workroom chairman.

Women who wish to work with the Christ Church Cranbrook Red Cross can do so by getting in touch with Mrs. Ball, or by contacting the general offices of either the Community House or the church, it was said.

Issue Call to Women to Help Sew Windbreakers for Seamen

Do you, Miss and Mrs. Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, and adjacent areas, want to help Britain win the war by making one or more leather windbreakers for the seamen who are fighting Hitler on the high seas?

Then get in touch with Mrs. Thomas Reaney, 664 West Lincoln avenue, Birmingham, for she is serving as local representative for Mrs. John N. Stalker, of Grosse Pointe, who heads the campaign in the metropolitan Detroit to furnish upwards of a thousand such needed articles of clothing within the next two weeks. Mrs. Reaney's telephone number is Birmingham 2402.

"Any woman who has even the lightest of sewing machines can make these windbreakers, the materials for which are all provided," said Mrs. Reaney to The Eccentric this week. In outlining her design for local help. "The windbreakers are made of scrap leather given us by Detroit automobile manufacturers and textile plants, and the lining is fleecy cotton, materials are all cut and ready for sewing together."

Wilmer E. Moody, Birmingham City Commissioner and assistant factory superintendent for Yellow Truck and Coach, at Pontiac, has offered our local group all the scrap leather we need," Mrs. Reaney stated.

"Local volunteers may do this work right in their own homes," continued Mrs. Reaney. "So far here we have made more than 40 windbreakers, but we need more as soon as possible. These garments are much appreciated by the British seamen, who have written many letters of grateful expression."

Mrs. Reaney has arranged to place on exhibition several windbreakers in a number of local stores, including Mahoney's, Davidson's, and Sanders' Cleaners.
