

IN WIG AND GOWN.

Lady Hayward was known to London to her ladyship, about some trifling business, and leaving Lord Hayward to entertain the guests during her absence...

"I want to speak to you before you dress a just time." He followed her up to her room, where she was waiting on a little table by the fire...

"Don't talk enigmas," said Lady Hayward indignantly. "I am not in the time. What is the matter?"

"What are you to do? Who can it be?" "I am bound to tell you, Taylor, she was with me in town."

"No, it was not I," said Lady Hayward. "But that makes no difference. The brooch was taken while we were away."

"I begin to believe," said Lady Hayward, "that it is one of our guests."

"I tell you what we must do, Vernon," said Lady Hayward decisively. "We must get the very best of the matter."

"No, no," said Lady Hayward, ringing the bell for Taylor. "I must dress at once."

"I have seen you, Vernon," said Lady Hayward, "but I have not seen you for some time."

"I have seen you, Vernon," said Lady Hayward, "but I have not seen you for some time."
