Hills Camera Club Meets Next Thursday

The Bloomfield Hills Camera Club will hold its next meeting at the Birmingham Community House next Thursday evening, Feb. 6, at 8 p'clock, it was announced this week.

Miss Jean Elwell, outstanding woman salon exhibitor, has been asked to tell about her photographic technique and to exhibit her prints which have been shown in national salons.

A color slide contest will also be held that evening with prizes awarded for the best entries.

Taylor Brothers Construction Co. this week was awarded a $210,982 paving contract by the Village of Wayne, Mich., to construct pavement, sidewalks, sewers and other work in a new subdivision under development there, it has been announced.

All kinds of household goods are readily sold by use of Eccentric Classified Ads.

Seek to Establish Driving Course in Birmingham Schools

Ralph Battenhouse, general science instructor at Barnum Junior High School, represented Birmingham last week at a Drivers Training Institute held in Battle Creek by the Department of Public Instruction, in cooperating with the State Safety Commission and the Automobile Club of Michigan.

The Institute was designed to train teachers who will in turn teach driver courses in high schools.

According to Dr. Dwight B. Ireland, superintendent of Birmingham schools, the increasing traffic accident rate points to the need of this definite step in highway accident prevention.

"A study in Cleveland, O.," he stated, "showed that high school boys who have had such training have only half as many accidents as untrained drivers."

Approximately 40 Michigan communities sent teachers to take this training, and most of these schools will set up driver training courses later in the year, according to Ireland.

A committee will soon be named to investigate the possibilities of adding this work to the curriculum of Birmingham public schools, in the light of what Battenhouse has learned, Dr. Ireland said.

Local Player Cracks Rib in Hockey Game

Scoring two goals in each of the three periods played, Cranbrook defeated the Birmingham 'Y' Barons 6 to 0 on the Bloomfield ice.

Spencer gave a brilliant performance for the Black and White while Houff skated well for the Barons. Bruce Smiley in the nets for the Barons kept the score down with 26 saves out of 32 tries on goal.

Art Lake suffered a cracked rib for Birmingham and was removed from the game late in the third period.

"Anyone having knowledge of a blue blanket with the letter 'C' taken from the Cranbrook bench by mistake that day should call Wendell Wilson at 2312 or myself at 124. The recovery of this blanket would be appreciated by all the players," Kirbert asked.

Annual Banquet Will Show Sharp Shootin' by Police Expert

Plans for the annual Father and Son Night at Baldwin High School February 12 at 8 p. m. are almost complete, Ralph Dunbar, committee chairman, announces.

Each year this event at the school has grown in favor and the program this year, sponsored by the Baldwin PTA, will feature Cpl. Lester Coykendall, firearms expert of the Michigan State Police.

Coykendall will give an exhibition of the proper use of various types of firearms. He is scheduled to perform such feats as shooting out the flame of a candle and splitting a card in half with a bullet.

Group singing will be led by Bill Spence, and the annual lunch will be served in the cafeteria.

The committee working with Ralph Dunbar includes Walter Kadell, Roland Quinn and the Rev. Arnold Runkel.

A woman inventor came to the aid of her sisters recently with a patented device which makes it unnecessary for women to use their teeth to force open a "bobby" pin.

MICHIGAN'S MOST FAMOUS STUDENT . . .

OF THE hundreds of thousands of boys and girls who have studied in Michigan, Thomas Alva Edison is the most famous. Yet the man who did so much for humanity never had more than a few years of formal education.

You may have read that Edison, the boy, was banished from the Port Huron schools for dreaminess in class—that his teacher called him "addled"—and that he learned the three R's from his mother. Later, when in his teens, he worked on the Grand Trunk railroad. Fortunately for every one of us, his train had a daily lay-over of nearly five hours in Detroit.

For Thomas A. Edison, high school and college were an ancient building, the Young Men's Society Library, on Jefferson Avenue, just a few doors east of Woodward. Between runs, he buried himself in its books, devouring them, not by subject or author, but by shelf and section.

Throughout his life, this thoroughness was characteristic with him. It was the quality that carried him through three thousand unsuccessful theories before he invented the incandescent lamp—fifty thousand abortive experiments before he created the storage battery. "Genius," he was fond of saying, "is one per cent inspiration, ninety-nine per cent perspiration."

Few of us have Mr. Edison's thoroughness, his patience, his capacity for concentration. But we at Detroit Edison realize that our heritage from him is both an inspiration and an obligation—an obligation to continue his efforts to make life more comfortable. That is why we are constantly trying to develop new and better ways for electricity to serve you.

THE DETROIT EDISON CO.

THOMAS ALVA EDISON CENTENNIAL

IN HONOR OF MR. EDISON . . .
You are cordially invited to these exhibits Feb. 10 through Feb. 15: the Edison Institute Museum at Greenfield Village, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily, admission 25c, and the J. L. Hudson Co.'s special display. Bring your friends to see electricity in the making at any Detroit Edison power plant, 12 noon to 9 p.m.—Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.
