Jesterman-Mill Wedding Rites Held in Presbyterian Church

Against a background of white lilies and gladioli, Roberta Ann Mill became the bride of Adrian Leger Testerman Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. W. Glen Harris in the First Presbyterian church of Birmingham.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burgess Mill, wore a gown of Chantilly lace, fitted on regal lines with a bertha of lace edging an off-shoulder yoke of illusion. The dress was made with long pointed sleeves and a circular train. Her headdress was a Juliet cap of seed pearls which caught the finger-tip veil of illusion. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white Rubrum lilies and stephanotis.

Her Attendants

Mrs. Walter Schmitt of Detroit was matron of honor, with Charlotte Mill as her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Betty Jane Bledsoe of Greensboro, N. C., and Jean Featherston of Baldwin, N. Y. Their gowns were of leaf green dimity. They wore wreaths of summer flowers in their hair and carried bouquets of peach and yellow chrysanthemums and larkspur.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Testerman of Rogersville, Tenn., had as his best man his brother, Murrel Testerman. Ushers were Frank Testerman and George M. Testerman, cousins of the groom, of Rogersville; Harrison Marshall of Belton, S. C., and Melvin B. Tilson of Asheville, N. C.

To Live In South

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents on Gordon Court. Mrs. Mill wore a dress of dove grey crepe, with touches of silver and lace, and a hat of American Beauty roses. The groom's mother's dress was of dusty-pink crepe, and she wore a hat of blue tulle.

The couple left for a wedding trip through the mountains of North Carolina. Mrs. Testerman chose a white gabardine suit, straw hat, and deep red accessories. They will make their home in Greenville, S. C.

Made from Avisco one-denier spun rayon yarn, the fabric is cool to wear and easy to wash. This fabric should be washed in soft, lukewarm water with plenty of suds. Dolly Moore and Johnny Marks, Ginny Walsh and Gene Hadjisky and Margie Robins and Gene Richardson were just a few who were tripping the light fantastic.

We have ended our season with a big bang. Let's start our fall season off the same way.

Some of the activities being planned for next year are a hay ride, scavenger hunt, roller skating party, sleigh ride, treasure hunt, roller skating party, sleigh ride, treasure hunt, and ice skating parties. Come one and all, stag or drag, and get in on all this fun and excitement. See you all in September!

'Brush-holders' Lay Groundwork For Future Fame

By Alice E. Morgan

"The Brush-holders, Incorporated," Wednesday out-of-door art class of Mrs. Paul Schafer, meets once each week, visiting some scenic spot in or near Birmingham to test their ability. Bright, sunny days find them at any one of the many beauty spots nearby, while on rainy days they spend their time at Mrs. Schafer's studio.

The Brush-holders are Tom Tiedy, Mary Lou Hayden, Tris Coffin, John Story and Howard Coffin. These youngsters take their art seriously, and along with actual sketching and painting, have many discussions on art appreciation, the importance of line and color, and character in outdoor work.

Their serious side does not occupy them at all times, though, since art is frequently set aside while they devote themselves to lemonade, pink ice cream and cookies, proving that they are just normal youngsters, in spite of their artistic knowledge and talents.

Last Wednesday these small fry artists were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Reusch at their home on Southfield road. The object of their brushes and discussions was the picturesque bend of the Rouge River there.

Other classes conducted by Mrs. Schafer during the summer months include the high school group of Criss Adams, Betty Reusch, Marie Mohr, Jean Schafer and Joyce Daniels, and the junior high set is made up of Celia Coffin, Jane Patterson and Bible and Carolyn Reusch. In all groups a real interest in art and active participation in artistic work marks the programs.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Booth, of Thornlea, Bloomfield Hills, will attend the wedding and reception, which will be held at Lincoln, Ind.
