'Rummage With A Future' Seen At Christ Church Fashion Show

A suit from a famous designer, blouses from a Fifth Avenue shop, a dress of imported English woolen, hats with exciting labels, cashmeres from Scotland; all of no further uses to their original owners, but with a future for second owners, were highlights of the fashion show, Tuesday, during the luncheon of the Women's Auxiliary of Christ Church Cranbrook.

The fashion show was a "kick-off" for the group's "Rummage-with-a-Future" Sale, scheduled for October 25.

Among other items to be placed on sale are Royal Doulton plates, a Victorian umbrella rack, an authentic old handmade lantern from Venice, and even an icehouse complete with canvas.

These articles and others were garnered by the women of the church for this annual sale which provides money for social-service activities, undertaken in cooperation with agencies in need of volunteer assistance.

The entire church-house will be turned over to the event, with separate rooms for different types of articles.

THE FASHION SHOW was one moment of relaxation in the weeks of sorting and marking. Mrs. Richard Wagner and Mrs. Roy Stringer, chairman and vice-chairman of the sale, worked out the fashion show with Mrs. Wayne Andreae and Mrs. Roland Diemer, who are in charge of the program.

Modeling the clothes were the Mesdames Max Frujauf, Stanley Gillen, Morell Marean, Allen Orth, and Mrs. William Bryce Ricketts, with Mrs. Lee Walles providing the musical background.

Final Dates Set For Xmas Mail Sent Overseas

Only a few days remain for the mailing of some Christmas parcels for members of the armed services stationed overseas, Postmaster Bernard Fowler today warned Birmingham residents.

Oct. 15 is the deadline set by the U. S. postal department for naval and marine personnel stationed in remote places. Packages bound for Japan, Korea and islands in the Pacific should not be mailed later than Nov. 1, he said, with Nov. 15 as the deadline for all overseas mailing.

This includes those in the armed services and civilians employed overseas, Fowler pointed out. None should exceed 50 pounds in weight.

FOWLER SAID too much importance cannot be placed on proper wrapping and tying of these parcels. He advises using the strongest possible paper, well tied with stout cord.

"Sealing the edges and ends of the package strengthens them", he said, "but is not secure enough, alone. Gift wrapped packages should be enclosed in stout boxes, and persons having articles mailed directly from the store, should see to it that ample wrapping is provided.

"All packages should be tightly packed and cushioned as much as possible to prevent breaking through the wrappings."

Greeting cards may be mailed as late as Nov. 15, common service, and Dec. 1, air mail. Domestic rates apply to both packages and cards.

Recalls Days at Hill School 50 Years Ago

Recollections of his experiences in Birmingham more than a half century ago and acknowledgment of the many congratulatory messages sent him on his 90th birthday was made in a communication to The Eccentric this week from Prof. E. P. Waldo of Auburn, Calif.

Professor Waldo served as superintendent of Birmingham schools from 1893 to 1902. This August, The Eccentric published an article in which Miss Ella Adams, 163 Oakland, asked all former students of Waldo's to join in a card shower for his birthday Sept. 15.

THE ELDERLY GENTLEMAN'S message was titled "The Old Hill School: Retrospective."

His letter reads: "In 1951 this building is the administration center for a system of 4,000 pupils.

"The readers of this article may be pleased to know that the southeast corner basement room was the administration center in 1895, fifty-eight years ago.

"The writer wishes to make some acknowledgment of scores of congratulatory letters on his 90th birthday. The writer sat in that basement office, administrating the affairs of less than 1,000 pupils, for a period of nine years from 1893 to 1902.

"The Birmingham Eccentric like the Hill school, has rendered a long service to one of the most beautiful cities in our land. In 1893, George Mitchell was its editor. George was also our postmaster.

"BUT FOUR YEARS later, Mark Hanna of Cleveland made McKinley president and he made John Hanna postmaster at Birmingham. A year or so later The Eccentric broke the news, on the morning after a terrible rainstorm, that Mark Hanna had arrived in town without a coat or umbrella. This was the new-born son of John Hanna.

"Speaking of Retrospect, it appears to me that Thomas Jefferson and Theodore Roosevelt are the most versatile of our presidents. Jefferson served from 1801 to 1809 and Roosevelt from 1902-1909.

"In 1906 I moved to Auburn, Calif. Here, in this community, now numbering 2,500 pupils, I served 30 years as Principal of the high school—not head, but second in administration.

"FOUR YEARS prior to my migration to California, I had left Birmingham with sore regret. But I found an equally delightful community in Ovid, Mich. My family made loving friends in both these communities, as has been proven by the many postal greetings of the past two weeks. I would dearly love to reply to each in detail, but I cannot.

"Long stand the Hill school with flag streaming up the old bell tower! Long flourish The Birmingham Eccentric!"
