Juvenile Charges Being Filed Against City Boys

Juvenile court charges are being filed by local police against three Birmingham boys who have admitted stealing two cases of beer and a case of wine from the rear of the Big Bear Market.

The boys, with three companions, were apprehended by Bloomfield Hills police last week when seen drinking.

Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley said two of the boys had been taken into custody prior to this event.

Football

When the Bathers received the kickoff they suddenly came to life and shook halfback Norbert Hudock loose for a 53-yard dash and their lone score. A running play for the extra point failed.

THE MAPLES' FINAL score came late in the last quarter when Tracy went 72 yards and kicked the extra point for a final count of 34-6.

Rugged Ferndale Team to Meet Locals Friday

By HARVEY PETERS

Seeking revenge for the 31-0 licking the Maples inflicted the Ferndale Railsplitters come to Pierce field Friday night with the kickoff set for 8 p.m.

Each year the Lines have a big squad to select from with plenty of weight, speed and versatility. They usually have an effective passing attack and a fine running game.

FERNDALE HAS THREE tough games under its belt before coming up against a league opponent, tying Berkley 7-7, downing Grosse Pointe 21-13, and losing to Ann Arbor last Friday night 34-0 for a 1-1-1 record.

Although Ann Arbor is ranked as one of the state's top football teams, the game might have been a different story if the Railsplitters had utilized the services of three varsity regulars sidelined with injuries.

These included Jack Hodge, considered a candidate for all-state honors and the best Line end since Jack Crittenden. All three are expected to be in uniform for Friday's game.

Anthony Trollope First Editions Shown At Library

The Baldwin Public Library is currently displaying several works of Anthony Trollope, English novelist of the 19th century. The display is shown through the courtesy of John Wattling, Bloomfield Hills book collector, who has stressed the works of Trollope in his library of valuable editions.

The library display will include several "parts editions" of "The Way We Live Now" and "Orley Farm", as well as the first editions and 1950 re-issues of these books.

"Parts editions" were printed in serial form, similar to present day magazine serials, and later published in book form.

WATTLING, a director of the Friends of Baldwin Public Library, also will show the author's last novel, "Old Man's Love" and a manuscript of "Kept in the Dark".

A short time ago the Barchester Tower set was presented to the library by Wattling.

Miss Jeanne Lloyd, librarian, said this display is most timely because so many of the Trollope books are being reprinted in modern type and bindings.

The display, which will be taken from Birmingham to Ann Arbor, shows the books and "parts editions" complete with their many illustrations.

Repr. Estes Speaks To Civics Classes

How a bill becomes a law was explained Thursday at the high school to the combined Birmingham civics classes by Howard R. Estes, Birmingham representative to the state legislature.

Aside from the legal procedure of a bill becoming a law, Estes explained the different offices in the lower house of the legislature, the position of a member, and conditions involved in the present gasoline tax bill.

When asked about the influence of party politics on the outcome of a bill, he replied "There is enough independent thinking in the legislature to allow any fair legislation to be passed despite party politics."
