PLYMOUTH'S NEW 1955 cars are lower, wider and more than 10 inches longer than previous models. With either a PowerFlow six or Hy-Fire V-8 engine, they are the most powerful cars Plymouth has ever built. They are available with a full range of automatic and power-assist devices. Pictured here is the Belvedere four-door sedan. Other models in the Plymouth line are the Savoy and Plaza. The cars may be seen here, Wednesday, Nov. 17, at Keller Kock, Inc., 470 S. Woodward; Jess McNeal, Inc., 360 S. Woodward; and Schutz Motors, Inc., 912 S. Woodward.

than January blizzards, because they come unexpectedly and find motorists unprepared, both mechanically and psychologically.

"If you want to gamble it won't snow," the chief said, "there's no law against it. But it snowed last winter and the winter before that, and it looks to me like a good bet."

He urged motorists to observe the following safety rules:

1) Don't blame accidents on bad weather; be ready for bad weather.

2) When snow comes, get the "feel" of the road before starting out.

3) Keep the windshield clear of fog and frost, and be sure head lights, windshield wiper blades and defrosters are working.

4) On snow or ice, use tire chains. They cut stopping distance in half, and give four to seven times greater traction.

5) When you have to stop, don't jam on the brakes. "Pump" your brakes to avoid skids.

6) Follow other cars at a safe distance. Give yourself room to stop if the other fellow does.

MONTEY POINTED out that "antifreeze" tire chain approach are chains for safety, according to tests by the National Safety Council.

Asked about "snow tires" or gyroscopic air cushion devices, he said he believes their advantages have been exaggerated. These pipe like gadgets were widely sold and installed on the rear frame of luggage carriers on cars last year on the theory they prevent skidding.

However, the chief said that intensive tests by the Safety Council showed they were of no help whatever on snow or ice, and are dangerous in that they give the user a false sense of security.

education there. Since childhood she has been surrounded by people who were shaping world history.

After her father's death, when she was 14, her family returned to the United States. She met and was married to Lieut. Commander (now Admiral) Alan Goodrich Kirk.

Mrs. Kirk accompanied her husband on all his assignments and is well acquainted with the colorful international diplomatic scene. She spent the first year of World War II in England where her husband was naval attache.

WHEN HE remained abroad to command a task force in the Sicily invasion and later took command of the American Naval Forces for the invasion of Normandy, Mrs. Kirk returned to Washington to work in the office of censorship.

She later undertook an extensive speaking tour for the Inter-Allied Red Cross committee on prisoners of war. The best highlight in her career was the three years she spent in Belgium when Admiral Kirk was our envoy there. Following his assignment in Russia, the Kirks went to Paris where the Admiral was named his advisor to the United Nations.

children and campaign activities, Mrs. Hart appeared with her husband at factory gate appearances and followed him in his tour of 22 counties.

A STUDENT friendship with Walter O. (Spike) Briggs at Georgetown University resulted in his marriage to Briggs' sister, and his subsequent appointment to the board of trustees of both the Detroit Lions and Tigers.

Another student friendship, at the University of Michigan with the present governor, also aided his political future.

Political observers, speculating in the entrance of Gov. Williams into the national election scene two years hence, view Hart as the "heir apparent" of the Williams administration, and believe him to be both a logical and qualified candidate for the executive post in the next state election.

HART REFUSES to comment, however.

"We will have plenty to do in the next two years to try to bring even better government to this state, without any concerns about the future."

But whatever the future may bring, the new state official can be assured of the enthusiastic support of Janey and the six others who take their welfare to Hart.

Residents Protest New Riding Stable

BLOOMFIELD TWP. — Township zone board members have sent a letter to Chuck Grant, of Grants Riding Stable, 5000 Adams, Troy township informing him that use of property in Bloomfield township for a riding stable is not in line with the township's zoning on the land.

Neighboring residents have complained that Grant is developing a loop on the property for the housing of at least 20 horses and contend that he is carrying on commercial venture on a highly classified residential land.

The property now owned by the Crestwood Charitable Foundation and a part of the old Briggs estate, is at 4160 Squirrel.

MEMBERS OF Charles Edwards Post, American Legion, were on hand Nov. 3, to welcome Newcomers to Birmingham, when the annual open house was held at the Community House. On hand to relay Legion and Auxiliary information were (l to r) Hugh McHugh, Edith McHugh, and Dr. F. A. Jeffers. This display, relating the history of the Post and the veteran for whom it was named, was but one of many which occupied the Mary Griffith lounge. (Eccentric Photo)

Phys. Ed. Director Speaks at YMCA

Masakazu Yasmura, Director of Physical Education of the Tokyo YMCA spoke to the Birmingham Y's Men's club last Monday evening about the progress being made by the Japanese after the devastation of World War II.

He supplemented his remarks with 35 mm. Kodachrome slides.

Mark, Mr. Yasmura's American nickname, told about the informal folk dancing and group games of the Japanese people and the growth and interest in table tennis and baseball. Yasmura told several human interest stories about the "two major baseball leagues" in Japan. He further stated that the relationships of the Americans and the Japanese were good.

The son of a Baptist minister, he lauded the missionary work of the churches and the good they were doing. He was introduced by Lynn Russell, Assistant General Secretary of the Detroit YMCA. Ernest Robinson presided at the meeting.
