Weekend Outing At Camp Ohiyesa For Indian Guides

The Sioux, Ottowa and Chippewa tribes of the Birmingham Indian Guides will be among the 360 big and little braves that journey this weekend to Camp Ohiyesa for their semi-annual longhouse.

The experience will be unique for the Chippewa tribe as they will receive their charetr in a colorful ceremony Sunday morning at 10:00.

Ed Dofter, chief of the Sioux tribe, is preparing his charges for the Sunday morning devotional service. Bernie Crandall, chief of the Ottawa tribe, has his little braves rehearsing the words of the tribe ritual for the grace before meals. John Neill, chief of the Chippewas, has his group going through the ritual in preparation for the tribe's induction service.

THE groups will be in camp Saturday and Sunday and as part of their program will be introduced to projects and Indian dancing.

Indian-Guides was founded in St. Louis in 1926 and have spread rapidly over the United States.

In 1925 it was established on a national basis and tribes have been formed in practically all of the 48 states. Birmingham has three tribes and an enrollment of 35 Dads and 38 sons.

The purpose of the group is to foster a companionship between father and son. Their slogan is "Pals Forever", and their aims are directed to bringing the family together as a closely knit group. The program is geared for youngsters 6 through 10 years. Most tribes meet twice monthly in the home.

Household goods of every description are offered for sale in the Classified Columns of The Birmingham Eccentric.
