Behind The Store Fronts

With ANGUS McKELLAR

Birmingham resident Arthur R. Fly, who has been manager of Greenfield's restaurant at 725 S. Hunter Blvd. since it opened in 1957, was recently promoted to general manager of the Greenfield-Mills Resaurant Co. The company includes the three Greenfield's Restaurants in the Detroit area and three Mills Restaurants in Cincinnati, Columbus and Cleveland.

John P. Miller will be the new manager at the Birmingham restaurant. He was formerly manager of Greenfield's original location on Woodward, in Detroit.

DONALD L. DEAN, former partner and co-founder of the 16-year old television and high fidelity business of McCallum & Dean, 409 E. Maple, recently announced his semi-retirement and the sale of his interest in the shop.

Dean's partner, John F. McCallum, is now the sole owner of the firm which has been located in the same block since its establishment in 1945.

McCallum also announced that Lou Stark will head up the sales department. Stark was formerly associated with the Harco Engineering Co. of Detroit.

HOWARD COE, manager of Mills Pharmacy, is the newly elected president of the Oakland County Pharmaceutical Association.

BOB DAVIS, of Birmingham Travel Service, and Mrs. Davis, are back in Birmingham after a 15-day cruise from New York.

The ship touched ports at Haiti, Jamaica, Curacao, Aruba and Caracas, Venezuela.

Elementary School Libraries Subject Of Local Writer

William S. Corliss, director of elementary curriculum for the Birmingham schools, is the author of an article, "Elementary School Libraries", which appears in the November issue of "Elementary English," a publication of the National Council of Teachers of English.

The publication is one of six journals published by the 66,000-member Council, a professional organization of English teachers at all school levels.

CORLISS PRESENTS the problem of development and use of independent work-study skills for junior and senior high schools.

Local Students Pave Way For International Relations

By IRMA N. DAVIS
Staff Writer

Give Seaholm High School students an inch and they'll pave a mile—of the long road to international understanding. For paving materials, they've used elbow grease, initiative and youthful Yankee know-how, to raise at least $1,300 each year since 1955.

The money is sent to American Field Service headquarters in New York. It is used to help pay the cost of bringing youngsters, 16 to 18-years-old, from more than 50 countries to the U.S., for a year of living and schooling in communities across the nation.

Communities are asked to raise $650 for each AFS student. Seaholm is unusual in that the students have raised the money each year by themselves. They have exceeded their fund quota several times and for the last three years have assisted some of those who leave Seaholm to study overseas.

EACH HOMEROOM at Seaholm evolves its own method of fund-raising for AFS week, observed each spring. This year, Groves High School will hold its second drive.

One such project, due for a repeat, is "Bermuda Day," undertaken by a sub-committee of the Student Congress, sponsoring group for AFS at Seaholm.

"Bermuda Day," in this instance, is not dedicated to a study of the culture of another land but is observed here to permit Seaholm students to wear a particular item of clothing — for 25 cents and one day of sartorial bliss.

Other groups, in the past, serviced a "commuters' canteen" at the local Grand Trunk depot to provide weary businessmen with coffee and donuts before the day's grind.

STILL OTHERS have washed cars, sold themselves as "slaves" or baked cookies. One room held an auction of puppies and kittens that "sold like hot cakes," said Dean of students Mrs. Carol Darling, with enthused but slightly mixed metaphor.

Students from 13 countries have spent a year at Seaholm, graduating each time with local seniors. This year for the first time, Groves is host to a foreign student.

On the other side of the coin, nine Birmingham area boys and girls have gone from Seaholm to spend the first half of their senior year at schools overseas — thus participating in the "Americans Abroad" program.

THE BIG problem, according to Mrs. Lawton Tabor, chairman of the Seaholm AFS chapter, is family placement abroad because "they generally have less money. Families are not paid to take students."

AFS students who returned home were initially responsible for the exchange becoming a two-way street, Mrs. Tabor said. She herself is the mother of a former Seaholm student who lived and studied in a foreign land. The Tabors also were hosts to a student from New Zealand in 1955.

Thus Mrs. Tabor has developed a sort of sixth sense in helping to screen Birmingham area families who wish to open their homes to AFS pupils. She acts as a "sort of counselor" as well as liason between foreign students and their parents at home.

IN ONE INSTANCE, at least, she cabled a pair of concerned parents who had not heard from their son — actually he had written but the letter had gone astray.

Hosting families must meet certain qualifications, all adding up to the main requirement that they be warm, friendly people who are sensitive to the needs of others.

Seaholm and Groves AFS chapters are composed of interested adults as well as the student committee from each school.

Seaholm's student coordinator is Mrs. Carol Darling; dean of students, Mrs. Jean Sharrard for Groves.

The national program was founded in 1915 as a volunteer ambulance service with the French armies.

REACTIVATED IN World War II, the organization eventully sponsored scholarships and in 1947 instituted the present teenage program.

AFS alumni, many of them now in their 30's, can be found in UN posts, in diplomatic corps, in the teaching profession and in other responsible positions all over the world.

"They've not learned about America from a book," Mrs. Tabor said as she recalled specific students who have been here in other years.

There was Tommy De Fonseca of Portugal and his reply to "What do you say, man?" from a Seaholm boy.

"I haven't said anything," said Tommy, taking the question very literally.

ANOTHER STUDENT, Yukinobu (Yuki) Nomura, once goldbricked on his assigned task of cutting the family lawn. The family were away and the grass grew longer so Yuki simply cut a big "welcome" on the front lawn with his mower: a sort of green red herring.

Yuki like other fellow AFS students participated in many school activities and "do-si-doed" a fine figure at swingout in 1958 as a barefoot square dancer — from Japan.

There was Gloria Mendoza from the Phillipines who vowed she would have no part of dating. By the end of the year, she had racked up an impressive list of boy friends.

AND CURRENTLY, there is the Americans Abroad student from Seaholm who is living in W. Berlin, Patricia Gorden.

In a recent letter to Mrs. Tabor, Patty spoke soberly of "The Wall", noted that the "Jackie Look seems to be the thing in W. Germany," that "Bermuda shorts are not appreciated" there.

She ended her letter with a "Here's hoping the seniors win Field Day."

They did.

When should you buy Life Insurance?

The best time is when you are young because then annual premiums are low. But many young married men face a dilemma. They decide to postpone the purchase of life insurance till their family situation creates a greater need. However, they find later that premiums are higher and in the meantime, they run the risk of being uninsurable. Here's a sound formula for meeting the problem. It's Manufacturers Life's "Security Graph plus G.I.B." — Security Graph helps avoid costly postponements by setting up a plan for buying insurance according to future needs and ability to pay. G.I.B. is a new policy rider that enables the buyer of a new policy to purchase more insurance at regular rates at specific dates in the future — regardless of changes of health or occupation.

Talk to the Man from Manufacturers Life about this new security formula today.
