Clothing Catches In Power Shovel; Workman Killed

A Madison Heights construction worker was killed Friday when his clothing caught in the gears of the power shovel he was operating in Bloomfield Hills.

George B. Foster, 42, employed for 20 years by Ray D. Baker, Royal Oak contractor, was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac. The accident occurred at E. Long Lake and Kensington Roads at about 9:45 a.m.

FOSTER WAS loading fill sand to be used on a sewer project and apparently reached across the drum that reels in the cable when his clothing caught, pulling him into the winch, Bloomfield Hills Police Captain Walter Sluiter said.

In order to remove the body from the shovel machinery, 10 men worked for 30 minutes with crowbars.

A dump truck driver, who drove to the machine for a load of sand, discovered the accident. Baker's firm is one of three hired by Bloomfield Hills to install sanitary sewer lines.

Foster is survived by his wife and one stepchild.
