In the laboratory sessions of which the course consists, the student learns the principles of line, color, form, and composition, and their application by creating their own compositions.

Among the advantages of these courses are the live models from which the students work and the consultations with such visiting artists as Marcel Duchamp. On his recent stay at the college, he met with the art students in small groups to talk with them about their works.

Miss Newberg, a graduate of Kingswood School Cranbrook, has received second prize for sculpture in the current exhibition of student work from Amherst, Mount Holyoke, and Smith Colleges, and the University of Massachusetts, being held at the University. Ask to Study Child Guidance Clinic Budget

The Ways and Means Committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors recently asked the Child Guidance Clinic to submit a 1962 budget by Feb. 1 after it deliberated privately on recommendations for the clinic.

There was no decision announced on the committee's willingness to accept the recommendation that the County agree in writing to assure 50 per cent of the clinic budget and to appoint a clinic business manager.

The Child Guidance Clinic diagnoses and treats emotionally disturbed children. A branch of the clinic is located in Birmingham.

THE STATE contributes about 50 per cent of the clinic's budget each year. A special study committee of the clinic has assumed the support will continue from the state and asks that the county supply the remaining 50 per cent.

Oakland County has contributed from its general fund since the 1940s. Some supervisors agreed reluctantly stating that mental health was a responsibility of the State.

Supervisors appropriated $32,500 for the clinic in 1961 and later voted an emergency $27,000 additional. Following the finance problem, the County asked for a study of the clinic's operations and finances.

Those interested may obtain tickets at the Republican headquarters in Birmingham.

Congressman Seeks End to Cuba Imports

An end to all imports from Cuba into the United States—except refugees from the Castro communist regime—was sought last week by Congressman William S. Broomfield (R-Oakland County).

Broomfield, in a letter to Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges, said that about $32,000,000 in Cuban goods were imported into the United States last year, while the United States exported some $15,000,000 in medicines, medical supplies and non-subsidized foods to Cuba.

"IT SIMPLY doesn't make sense to me," said Broomfield. "We are asking our neighbor nations in the Organization of American States to take strong economic action against Cuba, while at the same time we have left loopholes in our own trade with that admittedly communist country."

Broomfield said the $17,000,000 trade deficit we suffered last year in our limited trade with Cuba "was principally to aid one segment of one industry — cigar making."

He said about 90 percent of our imports from Cuba were tobacco and tobacco products for making cigars.

BROOMFIELD SAID the trade deficit was contributing to the outflow of gold from our shores. "It is a relatively small amount compared to the amount of gold outflow we are now experiencing," said Broomfield. "But the fact remains that we are experiencing an unfavorable balance of trade with a nation whose leader has admitted he is a communist, that he deliberately duped the Cuban people by hiding this fact, and who now is receiving substantial amounts of aid from the Soviet Union and Red China."

"If Castro wants to sell his tobacco, let him sell it to the communists," said Broomfield.

BROOMFIELD SAID that the Federal government now has no import restrictions on goods from Cuba except for the ban on the import of Cuban sugar approved last year by Congress.

"If we mean what we say about the need for economic sanctions against Cuba, then let us practice what we preach," said Broomfield.

He asked Secretary of Commerce Hodges for an explanation of our trade policies with Cuba. "If effective action isn't forthcoming from the Administration soon, then I am going to introduce proposed legislation to close this trade loophole with an admitted enemy," said Broomfield.

Local Women Aid in Current Census Poll

The January current population survey will include special questions on plans to purchase automobiles, television sets, washing machines and refrigerators, the U. S. Census Bureau announced today. This is part of a quarterly survey being made at the request of the Federal Reserve Board for use in a national study of consumer buying trends.

The survey will be conducted here and in 352 other sample areas of the country during the week of January 15. Information will be collected locally by Alyce M. Bartch, 18316 Westover, Southfield and by Patricia A. Gray, 292 W. Lincoln, and Mary Heck, 30545 Birchway Drive, both of Birmingham.

AT THE REQUEST of the Defense Department, home owners in the current survey panel will be asked if they have a fallout shelter or if they intend to install one within the next 12 months. Another special question will cover television set ownership. This question is being asked at the request of the Advertising Research Foundation.

The special questions on consumer buying plans, television set ownership, and fallout shelters are in addition to the regular inquiries on employment and unemployment which are asked each month in the Population Survey.
