Campers

climbed a prehistoric stairway cut into the sandstone cliffs to the mesa top.

AT THE EXCAVATED Great Kiva of Casa Rinconada Ruin, which is 64 feet in diameter, we imagined the spectacle of early Indian religious rites.

Our exploration of Chettro Kettle Ruin was cut short by a desert shower. The following day on our northward run into Colorado, threatening clouds turned into several inches of new fallen snow south of Montrose.

After seeing many excavated Kivas, we thrilled at the beauty and comfort of the restored Great Kiva at Aztec Ruin at Aztec, New Mex.

AS WE JOURNEYED on to our next base camp at Black Canyon of the Gunnison National Monument, Craig built a "museum of interest" on the back floor of the car using his 25 cent set of small photographs of Chaco Canyon.

He promoted his museum by saying it contained all Indian exhibits except one. This one turned out to be his petrified rock treasure.

BETWEEN DURANGO and Silverton an extremely large flock of sheep covered the highway and shoulders for almost a mile. Our travel here was slow but hilarious.

We awoke in the morning with the patter of raindrops on the tent. While Phil engineered the trench system for the runoff, we made the tent watertight.

Then, without breakfast, we headed for Colorado National Monument and Grand Mesa where the scenery is exceptional, and the mosquitos are very hungry.

OUR DRAINAGE SYSTEM had worked fine, and everything had dried out by our return. The children popped popcorn and toasted marshmallows before we all hit the sack.

We are definitely homeward-bound now with only two more nights in Colorado before we start the final three-day trek. Our ever-growing collection of books, pamphlets and postcards is posing a storage problem. Craig's rock collection occupies the space under my portion of the front seat.

to certain death by a malignancy, commits suicide on the eve of their departure, and Schwartz, crushed but not defeated, decides to stay in Europe to fight the Gestapo.

Remarque has created a masterpiece of suspense, which begins in a slow, plodding German way, and mounts to a frenzy of violence. Helen, Schwartz' wife, is welded of Krupp Steel; perhaps it is because of this great strength that she does not have the appeal of a more dependent, more femine woman. One admires her but does not desire her.

Nevertheless, the love story is tender, and the sense of time is caught like a butterfly in a nightmare net. It is the sort of thing with which Hollywood should do well.

THE STORY IS translated from the German. Remarque, whose "All Quiet on the Western Front," gave him international recognition in the world of letters after World War I, himself left Germany when the Nazis came to power. He rejected all efforts to persuade him to return and became a citizen of the United States.

As a result, his books were burned and his films banned. Like his hero, Schwartz, he was born in Osnabruck, Hanover. He lives in Switzerland and is married to actress Paulette Goddard.

Lovesick Helena

Katherine Mulvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Jack Mulvey, 1311 Cedar Drive, Birmingham, will be seen as the lovesick Helena in the University of Detroit Summer Repertory Festival production of Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream" opening Friday in the festival tent on campus. Miss Mulvey, a member of the U. of D. Players Associates, is a graduate student at the University of Michigan.

Highstyle Hilltopper... Rambler Classic V-8

This dazzling hardtop is the Rambler Classic 770. And with what you save on Rambler, you can keep your pocketbook happy and still add smart, sporty options like floor shift (manual or automatic), reclining bucket seats with console, seven-position steering wheel, power steering, power brakes, power windows—you name them. If you like fun, flair and glamour—and smart savings, too—now is the time to see your nearby Rambler dealer.
