

Customs Agency Between a Trunk, Check and a Match-Box.

Psychological experiences have become decidedly the fashion at the Hotel de la New York Tower. Whether it is the attribute to the verge of the Theological society during Bishop's visit, or the influence of Rider Haggard's thrilling tales, or to both, it is not to say, but the fact remains. The most recent event of this kind that has set people wondering is a waking experience of Rev. Mr. Raymond, principal of St. Mark's academy, in the precincts of Southborough. Mr. Raymond is a scholar and a clergyman of high reputation and unimpeachable veracity. Here is his story: "A few days ago I was returning home after spending the holidays in New York. As the train nears Boston I put my hand in a pocket to get the check for my trunk. It was not there. To an old traveler of good memory and precise habits this was alarming. I knew I had put the check in my left-hand trousers pocket, but I turned all my pockets inside out and searched until I discovered the check had absolutely disappeared. A search of the seat, the floor of the car, the baggage trunk and hat was also unavailing. On arriving at Boston I took the baggage-trunk at home and searched it. I found the check in the trunk, but it was not the one I had lost. I called in the superintendent, and I made another thorough search for the check in their presence. It could not be found. I was then required to deliver the keys, and have my description verified. Finally, after paying for the check and signing a receipt, I was allowed to take the trunk away.
