

PUT IT UNDER THE LENS.

How Parrell May Discover Who Forged the Letter—The Microscope Useful for That Purpose—Parrell's Latest Valuable Instrument.

Perhaps Parrell will demand that the microscope be used on the forged letter. The London Times published this week—the same way we detected the Johns Money letter," remarked Prof. Brown, reporter for the Press.

The interest in the study has increased during the past few years, and now all classes of persons take the most active interest in it.

There are two mistakes made by beginners in the study which should be avoided. One is in supposing that it is only by means of very expensive and complicated instruments that anything of value can be accomplished.

"What are some of the most curious facts you know about microscropy?" "Well, probably the most wonderful was the writing of Webb and Peters. They wrote the Lord's prayer and the commandments with a diamond in letters so fine that if the whole bible were written, and in same proportion, it would be written twelve times on a square inch."
