

General Markler Powderly has written a ringing, manly letter to the Detroit associates, defending himself from false statements made by some of the actions inside the order. Mr. Powderly says he is not a socialist, does not belong to the so-called American party; imports underwear, copper machinery and other property, contracts of people from other countries should be stopped. "In my eight years' career as Powderly, I have had to ward off blows aimed at the order from state and corporate powers. I have succeeded in some, failed in others without a shadow of principle on my part."

The long-expected book of Mr. Donnelly on the Bacon-Shakers controversy is soon to be published. Advanced sheets have already been furnished the newspapers and the literary world. The arguments and facts advanced by Mr. Donnelly to prove that Shakespeare did not write the plays attributed to his name, are so convincing and so reasonable, believing that Bacon was the author are very plausible. The other he claims to have discovered is exceedingly complicated and laborious work out. It is a mathematical effort based upon the pagination, hyphenating, italicizing and bracketing of the following:

There are 400, 2,000 teachers in Utah, 2,423 printers, 2,947 teachers and 6,854 doctors. Salt Lake City is divided into wards of eight or nine blocks each, and a bishop is put over each ward. Under him there are two teachers, whose business it is to learn the employment and income of every resident of the ward and report the same to the bishop.

Under the control of each man's income and turns it in to the church authority. The same complete system exists all over the territory. As the bishop is the one who collects the money, he makes very accurate and persistent collector.

The present year bids fair to be made remarkable by the largest amount of railroad building ever seen in this country. It is not quite 12,000 miles. This figure has never been exceeded. Except in 1862, it has never been approached.

There are great labor demonstrations throughout the country on the 5th inst. illustrated in a very marked manner the policy of organized labor as a political force. Just what this demonstration will accomplish is not easy to say, but when so many thousands of the brain and brawn of the nation organize it means something. The men who organize are in the main, educated men, proponents of ideas, and men not to be turned from the course they have marked out.

Dr. Alfred O. Davis, Jr., has a copy of "The Baltimore Occident," and a copy of "The Baltimore Occident," dated August 23, 1873. In it is a glowing advertisement for the "Washington" offering 20,000 acres of the finest and richest land in the world and situated in the Kanawha Valley, W. Va. The doctor purchased it at a price of $100,000. He has since sold it to the North Carolina, thirty-seven years ago, and prices it highly. He has refused several flattering offers for it by relic hunters.

Mr. Alfred G. Sheldon of New Haven has a diploma for the 18th inst. It was in that year issued to her great-grandfather, Hezekiah Ripley, and he was the president of Thomas Clay and John W. Morgan, members of the class of 1764 and one of the last members.

By the death of Bishop Harris, there arises a third vacancy in the Methodist Episcopal board of bishops, to be filled by the general conference at its quadrennial session next year. Already there are a number of prominent clergymen of that church ministering to the needs of the people in this city.

James Pomeroy, the Boston child torturer and murderer who was sentenced to life imprisonment for his atrocious crimes, has made another attempt to escape recently. It is suspected that his mother furnished him with the steel saw which he used to cut through the wall. She is one of those human beings for whom there is no hope of reformation.

The corn crop of the south, according to a Baltimore trade paper, is worth $177,000,000. The south will this year, the above sheet thinks, be nearly self-supporting in the matter of corn, and will be able to export a surplus. There were more good crops for corn will be saved to southern farmers.
