HOME NOTES.

PERPETUAL NOTICE. You will please notice date after your name is printed on this paper.

Wait until you read M. K. Taber's medicine testimonial. Burglars relieved Frank Hagerman of $10 in small change Tuesday night.

Miss Alta Ford has had an attack of the writing. She is nearly recovered from this writing. Misses Belle Smith and Jennie Worth Sunday at Romeo and had a very enjoyable visit indeed.

Mr. Albert Tinker and Miss Corbie Bitters of Rochester visited the family of A. Blakeslee over Sunday.

Persons are warned to keep dogs away from the cemetery, as the sexton is using poison to kill the place of gofers.

A missionary meeting will be held at the Presbyterian church this Thursday evening. All are invited. Do not fail to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Howell visited Mrs. R. Willis last week. Mrs. Howell used to be Miss Grace Lee, daughter of H. S. Lee, who once lived in this village.

Our old friend Tom Wiley took a run for the mayoralty of Deeto, but was well beaten by the democratic majority of 102. Too bad, Tom, wish you had got there.

John Pound's realization sale has ended and you will observe that his immense stock of dry goods has been sold in about a week's time.

Mr. Frank Batchelor and little son Freeman, of Pontiac, visited friends in town last week. Mr. Batchelor contemplates occupying a lucrative position as foreman in a paint shop at Oxford.

All members of the high school alumni are requested to meet with Miss Blanche Parboly on Monday evening, April 23.

Order of President. We don't know who is the happier, Charlie Moore or Jim Casey, over a fine dinner last week that Casey struck for Moore one day last week, and after having only two and one-half days. Depth 137 feet and a five-eight stream.

Miss Thelma Kyster Wednesday night of last week presented her with a pearl necklace, a pair of gold cuff buttons and a pair of silver napkin rings as birthday presents.

DIED—Monday, April 16, 1888, at her residence on Pierce street, Mrs. John Condit, aged 57 years. In any gulf, the dread angel's visit to this mortal coil in this case the circumstances are peculiarly distressing.

On Thursday last Colonel Van Every of Franklin started to walk to Pontiac, a distance of nine miles, and after riding a horse a distance of one and a half miles, started for home some time in the afternoon.

This is all that is definitely known of his whereabouts until about ten o'clock on Friday morning. The patient never regained consciousness.

The funeral took place at the M. P. church in Franklin on Monday last, the Rev. C. T. Allen preaching the sermon and being assisted in the exercises by Rev. S. Long.

The immediate cause of his death was an exhaustion from the exposure to the weather, but under circumstances in the case might throw some light on the matter, if there was some means of reaching them, but those in possession of the facts are similarly reticent in the matter, and we are not willing to appear too curious.

THE VILLAGE COUNCIL. Board met at National hotel Monday evening, April 16th, 1888.

Present: Mayor, Aldermen, Hagerman, Taylor, Ford, Albert Campbell. The agenda for the evening was as follows:
