THAT FRANKLIN POLE.

It Went Up in the Air as Straight as a String.

Kingdoms, empires and republics may rise, flourish and fall, but let come what may, Franklin can never forget the great day of the Republican pole-raising in 1888. The crowd of over 2,000 fairly peopled the hills about the village on Thursday morning last. The cannon boomed at sunrise; the pole went up without accident at 10 o'clock; the Birmingham and Big Beaver folks turned out; Alger did come and there was nothing left to cause a single pang of regret in the hearts of the managers.

The day set in with a brisk breeze from the west, and at 10 o'clock John Dorker drove into Birmingham with a veritable log cabin on wheels, which was soon decorated with flags and Harrison and Morton mottos; then came the Harrison and Morton club of Big Beaver with a four-horse team and no end to stars and stripes and bunting, accompanied by several double teams, and the Franklin band put in an appearance shortly after with a four-horse team, then Alex Parks put another team on the log cabin, and when the 11:15 train came into the station bearing the illustrious Gen. Alger, accompanied by Bob Frazer, the orator of the day, they were accorded a rousing welcome such as is seldom seen in our village.

Immediately after the arrival of the train the procession started for Franklin in the following order: The little old log cabin, the Franklin band, carriages with the speakers, the Big Beaver club and citizens in general.

On arriving at Franklin the crowd gave evidence of their enthusiasm when the log cabin rolled up in front of the speakers' stand, and also when their own boys in the band struck up "Rally 'Round the Flag, Boys;" but when they saw Ex-Governor Alger raising his Harrison hat, the crowd fairly went wild and such a shout went up as has not been heard in Franklin since the Lincoln pole raising 18 years ago. The band could not be heard ten feet away, the wave of glad greeting from 2,000 throats sweeping every other noise out of existence, and only the cannon over in the orchard was able to be heard above the din.

After partaking of such a banquet as only the fair hands of the Franklin ladies know how to prepare, James H. Peabody, president of the Franklin Harrison club, called the meeting to order and introduced Bob Frazer, who kept the crowd in a ferment of enthusiasm for over an hour; then Gen. Alger spoke for about half an hour, followed by Alf. Goodman, Chas. Draper and others, all of whom were listened to with marked attention.

The day was ended up with a grand bowery dance given by the Franklin band, which lasted until nearly daylight and being a cheerful winding up of a great big day and an opening of the campaign which will make the rest of old Oakland very busy if they equal the great day at Franklin.

Packed in a Basket.

It was early in March long years ago when one of the pioneer settlers of Oxford county made up his mind to move his family from Massachusetts to that favorite region. He had seven little ones and feared they could not endure so long a journey and the piercing cold. How do you think he took care of them? The father obtained from a neighbor a great basket 12 feet by 6 and 4 feet high. It was fitted on an ox sled and was made for the purpose of transporting grass seed. The seven little ones were packed in straw in this basket like so many kittens or pigs and made the journey safe and warm. The basket is yet preserved by the pioneer's descendants.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

No Objection on Her Part.

At night, after the little girl was in bed, she called her mother to her, threw her arms around her neck, and said:

"Mamma, we love one another, don't we?"

"Yes, dear."

"You don't like to punish me, do you?"

"No, I do not."

"You would rather punish your own self, wouldn't you, mamma?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, mamma, I wish you would."—Chicago Advance.

Johnny Was Anxious.

"Won't we get any dinner to-day, ma?" asked little Johnny McSwilligen, rather anxiously, as the congregation sang the closing hymn at the morning service last Sunday.

"Of course we will, Johnny," whispered his mamma. What put that question into your head?"

"Why, everybody's singing 'We're going home to dine no more.'"—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.
